American Hosts Begin to Move Against Cuba.

Gen. Miles Gave the Command Before Daylight Monday.

Probably Four Expeditions Will Be Sent to the Island.

HE LEAVES FOR THE SOUTH.

Forward Move Due to the Finding of Cervera.

Situation Carefully Canvassed at a White House Conference.

The Co-operation of the Insurgents to Be Largely Utilized.

OTHER PLANS KEPT SECRET.

Twenty-five Large and Fast Ships Engaged to Act as Transports. Chief Reliance to Be Placed in the Regulars.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Tribune's Washington special says:

"Gen. Miles made no secret today of the immediate departure of the army from Tampa, though he declined to encourage any speculation as to its destination for obvious military reasons. It is known, however, that ever since the first reports announcing the arrival of the Spanish squadron at Santiago last Saturday, he has been thoroughly alive to practically the prohibitive dangers which would have to be encountered by an American fleet in fighting its way past elevated batteries and up the narrow and tortuous channel of that harbor to force battle with the Spaniards, and he urged upon the authorities the necessity of a land attack upon the place, as the quickest and most effective method of dealing Spain a crushing blow. His plans have been fully matured with that end in view, and the only question on which the departure of the army from Tampa rested was that of Cervera's indisputable presence at Santiago.

In the transports at Tampa, in addition to the large quantities of supplies needed by the army, whatever its destination, have been stored a number of powerful guns, which will be effective for shelling the entire basin in which the harbor and city of Santiago lie, when mounted on high positions among the surrounding hills. The only contingency which could operate to modify Gen. Miles's plans for a land attack on Santiago is that Schley, on drawing the fire of the batteries, may ascertain their weakness and determine to force his way into the harbor and complete the work without assistance.

FORWARD, MARCH.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The military invasion of Cuba has begun. Unless the orders of the War Department have miscarried, at an early hour this morning the troops that have been gothered at the gulf ports began to break camp and march aboard transports waiting to carry them to the enemy's territory. About twenty-five of these ships, the biggest and fastest that could be obtained suitable for the purpose, had been gathered ready to receive the troops. They will accommodate about thirty thousand men, for, in a short voyage like that from one of the gulf ports to Cuba, it is possible with safety and comfort to carry a much larger number of men aboard ship than would be admissible in the case of a cruise to the Philippines, for instance.

How many troops started this morning; where they took ships or whither they are bound, are questions which the directing spirits of the campaign refuse positively to answer. They have no desire that the Spanish should have an opportunity afforded them to gather forces to attack our soldiers as they land. Therefore nothing of the details of this first movement can be learned. There is a suspicion that the start will be made from Tampa and Mobile, and in such case, the fleets of transports will converge at Key West to pass under the convoy of the warships which Admiral Sampson has provided to insure the safety of the troops during the passage across the Florida Straits to protect them against attack at the hands of some stray Spanish cruiser or gunboat.

It is probable that there will be no less than four separate military expeditions, and that these will be landed at four different points. Whether Porto Rico is one of these points or not cannot be learned. Before the entire force which it is proposed to use in Cuba can be landed, the transports must make four separate voyages across the straits. Arrangements have been made to utilize the services of the insurgents to the largest possible extent. The government already has sent expeditions to a large number of points on the island and landed arms for the insurgents. Most of the parties succeeded perfectly in their object, and it was said at the War Department today that a sufficient number of the insurgents have been armed to constitute a very effective support for the troops as they land.

A war conference was held at the White House at 3 o'clock this afternoon, between the President and Secretaries Alger and Long and Maj.-Gen. Miles. Vice-President Hobart, who accompanied the President to Arlington and returned with him to lunch, was present a part of the time, and Secretary Day, who had just returned to Washington, also dropped in during the conference. After the entire situation, naval and military, had been gone over, Secretary Long retired, and Secretary Alger and Gen. Miles remained to discuss more in detail the military operations now about to be put into execution as a result of the definite official information that the Spanish squadron is securely held within Santiago Harbor. Naturally, those who participated in the conference observed strict reticence regarding it. It was stated, however, in an authoritative quarter that the discussion had covered the entire range of naval and military operations, with particular view to the active movements about to begin.

Gen. Miles brought with him a memorandum showing the exact disposition of the military forces now concentrated at various points throughout the country, with the number of men at Tampa and other southern points ready for embarkation. He also made known that at 1 o'clock this morning, immediately following the receipt of definite information of the presence of the Spanish fleet at Santiago, he had gone to the War Department and had issued telegraphic orders putting the troops in motion, and thus starting the forward movement of the military arm of the service. Further than this, those attending the conference would not discuss their plans.

It was said at the War Department that the chief reliance would be placed at the outset on the United States regulars, most of whom are centered in Florida, and in such volunteer regiments as are thoroughly equipped and reasonably well seasoned for service. Although the officials will not state how many troops are available for active service, it is roughly estimated that there are about 20,000 regulars and 13,000 volunteers at Tampa. These include seventeen regiments of regular infantry and fourteen regiments of volunteer infantry, twelve battalions of artillery and five regiments of the regular cavalry. The infantry force, regular and volunteer, is about 28,000 men; the cavalry about 4000, and the artillery about 1200. How many of these have been or will be dispatched to any given point, or to several points, is not disclosed, as that is a part of the secret campaign plans of the government.

Back of this force are other available regiments at Mobile, New Orleans and other points easily accessible to Tampa. Still further back is the large volunteer camp at Chickamauga, comprising about 40,000 infantry volunteers, 1000 cavalry volunteers and three regiments of artillery volunteers. It is understood to be the plan, although as to this there is no precise official statement, to have the troops at Chickamauga take the place of those at Florida ports as fast as the latter leave for active service, thus keeping a large force always ready for embarkation from Florida. Aside from the troops already specified, there are the 18,000 men at Camp Alger, near Washington, and lesser bodies of troops on Long Island and in various States. The 75,000 volunteers under the recently-issued second call constitute still another reserve, which, however, is yet to be organized and equipped.

Unless there is a change of programme, Gen. Miles and his entire staff, with the exception of Gen. Gilmore, will leave for the South about 11 o'clock tonight. It was in anticipation of this that the final plans were gone over with the President this afternoon.

Gen. Miles will not state where his headquarters will be located, and, indeed, it is probable he will move from place to place as circumstances demand. Gen. Shafter will be in immediate command of the forces now embarking, while Gen. Miles will have general supervision over this and all military movements.

GEN. MILES LEAVES.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Gen. Miles and his staff, making a party of thirty-four persons, left for Tampa tonight on a special train over the Southern Railroad.

THIRD SPANISH FLEET.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

LONDON, May 30.—A dispatch to the Daily Chronicle from Barcelona referring to the Spanish announcement of the formation of a third Spanish fleet, including the Numancia, under the heading "A Resurrection Ship," says:

"The Numancia is here, her bulwarks battered, her anchors and chains thick with rust and her paint all gone. Apparently she does not carry a single gun. I am not sure whether she has engines. Beyond a few sentries, she certainly has no crew. A small gang of men is hammering, swabbing and painting, and marines from Cartegena have been ordered here to do the work of patching up.

"Though official announcements say that the reserve fleet, including the Numancia, is to go to the Philippines, the orders for the 7000 men who were to have gone with it are now definitely countermanded.

"Besides the Numancia, the armored cruiser Cardinal Cisneros and the cruiser Lepante, now just out of dock at Cartagena, with the Doña Maria de Lona, the Don Alvaro de Bazan and the Marques de La Vittoria will be included. The Perse (formerly the Morna) from Valencia, has been ordered to Cadiz and will be transformed into an auxiliary cruiser. Similar orders are expected for the Transatlantic liner Jover Surra."

AGUINALDO'S MISSION.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

LONDON, May 30.—A dispatch to the Telegraph from Manila, dated May 26, via Hongkong, says: "Aguinaldo, the insurgent chief, reached Cavite from the interior, and soon after his arrival went on board one of the warships. He is working hard to gain over the rebels to the side of the Americans, with a view of active coöperation when Dewey's reinforcements arrive."

NO FIGHTING NEWS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CAPE HAYTIEN, May 31, 9:35 p.m.—No news from Cuba or the fleet has been received here today. The report that a battle has taken place off Santiago is denied by way of Paris.

POPE'S PEACE PROPOSALS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

LONDON, May 31.—A London news agency asserts that the Pope has forwarded peace proposals to President McKinley.

CORRESPONDENTS ARRESTED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

MADRID, May 30, 11 p. m.—An official dispatch from Havana says that two American correspondents named Widan and Robinson (probably Phil Robinson) have been arrested near Matanzas.

SPANIARDS SEEKING SUPPLIES.

[A. P. NIGHT REPORT. COPYRIGHT, 1898.]

KINGSTON (Jamaica,) May 30, 9 p. m.—The Cuban coasting steamer Purisima Concepcion has arrived here from Manzanillo with a Spanish commissariat officer in disguise seeking supplies. One hundred tons of cornmeal were bought today, and the American squadron and the colonial authorities have been warned.

MARTIAL LAW IMPOSSIBLE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—"There is no statute of Congress," said a government official, "whereby martial law can at this time be proclaimed at Key West."

This statement was made in reply to a question as to what might be done as a result of the outbreak that occurred at Key West last week in which several men lost their lives.

SAILING PEACEFULLY ADJUSTED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—The auxiliary cruiser St. Louis sailed from the American Line pier today. The strike which threatened to delay the vessel's sailing was peacefully adjusted, about half an hour before 6 o'clock. Out of the 360 strikers, all but forty-one returned. The places of the men who refused to return were filled at once from the men who stood on the pier, who were anxious to serve. It was stated officially that the St. Louis would sail to Key West and return to this port after ten days.

THE HARVARD SAILS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

KINGSTON (Jamaica,) May 30, 4 p.m.—The Harvard has sailed to join Commodore Schley's squadron. She took a pilot familiar with the south coast of Cuba.

SPANISH FOURS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

MADRID, May 30.—Spanish 4s closed today at 59.85. Gold was quoted at 83.50.

COMMISSARY SUPPLIES SPOILING.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

TAMPA (Fla.,) May 30.—The quartermaster's and commissary departments are having great difficulty in caring for the tons of supplies of all kinds that are being shipped here. The railroad tracks are almost blockaded with cars, and in consequence of the difficulty of switching, many cars of commissary supplies are said to be spoiling on the tracks. Fifteen cars of bacon have already spoiled, it is said. The matter has become so serious that the army surgeons have issued peremptory orders to have the stuff removed at once. Several tons of spoiled meats have been pitched into the bay.

Maj.-Gen. Lee and his entire staff will leave for Jacksonville tomorrow morning. A final inspection of the camps of the volunteers in the Seventh Corps was made by Gen. Lee today. It was practically decided to move the volunteer troops to Jacksonville and other points on the east coast, as soon as the camping grounds and the general plan for the distribution of the troops of the Seventh Army Corps has been decided upon, which will be in a day or two.

ONE OF THE TRANSPORTS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SEATTLE (Wash.,) May 30.—The steamer Centennial left for San Francisco this afternoon to join the fleet of transports that is to convey the second Philippine division. The Ohio is still taking on coal, and probably will not get away before tomorrow.

COLUMBIA IN DRY DOCK.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—The cruiser Columbia was placed in the dry dock this afternoon. A number of mechanics and laborers were at work ripping out the damaged plates.

ACCUSING GREAT BRITAIN.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

MADRID, May 30, 2 p.m.—The newspapers here are much concerned over the fact that the United States auxiliary cruiser Harvard was allowed to ship from 600 to 750 tons of coal at Kingston, Jamaica. They declare that Great Britain has violated her neutrality thereby.

GEN. MERRITT'S HEADQUARTERS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—Maj.-Gen. Wesley Merritt, commander of the Manila expedition and governor-general of the Philippines, moved his headquarters from the Palace Hotel to the Phelan building today.

He and his staff occupy the rooms that have been the headquarters of Brig.-Gen. Elwell S. Otis, who this morning moved with his staff to Camp Richmond, where tented headquarters had been prepared for him.

Gen. Merritt issued an order today formally announcing that he has taken command of the Philippine forces and expeditions.

DESERTER CAPTURED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

KEY WEST, May 30.—The cook of the United States auxiliary gunboat Hawk, a native of Manila, deserted his post three days ago and was arrested ashore today.

ORDERED TO TAMPA.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHATTANOOGA, May 30.—It is reported upon good authority that three regiments of infantry, stationed in Chickamauga Park, the Second Nebraska, the Second New York and the First District of Columbia and one regiment of cavalry, the First Ohio, have been ordered to go to Tampa as soon as they can get ready. The report is generally believed, but cannot be officially confirmed.

NOT SO SPEEDY.

Moving Picture Drawn of the Spanish Fleet at Curacon.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—The British steamer Laughton arrived today from Curacoa and La Guayra. Capt. Hodgson brought information confirming the recent reports of the Spanish fleet which put into Curacoa for coal and provisions. He also brought photographs of the Vizcaya and Infanta Maria Teresa, which anchored a short distance from the Laughton. Capt. Hodgson said that the ships' bottoms were very foul and covered with long grass. They stood high out of the water, owing to their lack of coal, and the boatmen of the harbor said that the sailors of the cruisers were in need of food. The opinion was unanimous that they were in no condition for speed.

HOLLISTER IS WARLIKE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

HOLLISTER, May 30.—The warlike spirit prevails here, and tomorrow night a meeting will be held for the purpose of organizing a military company to offer its services to the government.

SCHLEY'S NIP.

Six Spanish War Vessels in His Bottle.

Cervera Would Be Swallowed Up if He Gave Fight.

His Plans Upset by the San Juan Bombardment.

He Intended to Enter There for Coal, but Arrived Too Late—His Capture the Dominant Question, British Steamer Seized.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
[A. P. NIGHT REPORT. COPYRIGHT, 1898.]

KEY WEST (Fla.,) May 30, 5:05 p.m.—Everybody knows now that Spain's flying squadron, four splendid cruisers and two torpedo-boat destroyers, is imprisoned in Santiago Harbor. This fact has been known here for forty-eight hours, and the speculation now is over the probable disposition of the Spaniards—whether they will be blockaded or the forts reduced and the vessels compelled to fight. In the latter case there can be but one result—for Commodore Schley has some of the finest ships in the world, to say nothing of cruisers and various smaller vessels—and could in a few days be reinforced by other powerful warhips. It would be foolhardiness on the part of Cervera to offer battle.

An interesting story remains to be told of the reasons which led Cervera to Santiago and of the way in which he was hemmed in. It is now known that when the Spanish admiral sailed for the West Indies, he expected to enter San Juan de Porto Rico for coal and supplies. On touching at Curacoa for news his plans were upset by the receipt of dispatches telling him that Rear-Admiral Sampson had bombarded the San Juan fortifications, and was still in the neighborhood of Porto Rico. Thereupon Cervera sailed for the south coast of Cuba. Why he entered Santiago Harbor instead of the harbor of Cienfuegos is not known, but the American commanders were inclined to think the Spaniards would go to the latter port.

It is certain that Cervera could not have escaped from Santiago without having been discovered, for the American scouts had been prowling about the port for ten days, and other scouts had not been far away. Practically, Santiago has been blockaded for that length of time. Cervera's coal ship, which followed him from Curacoa to Santiago, was captured last Wednesday, and at the very moment when the Queen Regent was cabling her congratulations, the coils were tightening about him.

The belief here is that all other movements in the West Indies will be held in abeyance until the Spanish squadron is disposed of. In case Santiago is attacked, the news of the battle will be sent from Mole St. Nicholas and Kingston, and the prisoners and wounded will be sent to Key West. The movements of vessels here today were unimportant.

BRITISH SHIP SEIZED.

The Restormel Tries to Act as Collier for Cervera.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS WAR BULLETIN.]

KEY WEST (Fla.,) May 30, 6:50 a.m.—The British steamer Restormel was brought in here this morning as a prize, having been captured while trying to put into Santiago de Cuba with coal.

TRIED TO SCUTTLE HER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

KEY WEST, May 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The crew of the British steamer attempted to scuttle her before she yielded, and her cargo was awash when the prize crew went aboard. The Restormel, although her papers showed she was bound for Porto Rico, had not put in there, and there was every indication that she was not intended for that port. The capture of the Restormel delivers a serious blow to Cervera, as he has been hampered mainly by lack of coal. It is known he expected a consignment of fuel from Europe.

As soon as the steamer was sighted by Schley's fleet the St. Paul was sent in chase. The St. Paul got in range when the stranger was two miles from shore. The St. Paul fired a blank shot, but the Restormel continued, when solid metal went whizzing over the water. Seventeen shots in all were fired. The Santiago shore batteries came to the aid of the collier, firing several times on the St. Paul, but failed to hit her. Four of the St. Paul's shots struck the fleeing collier, and as the situation was getting serious, she struck her colors.

The captain of the captured vessel protested against the seizure, and claimed she had sailed from Cardiff prior to the blockade proclamation.

SOMETHING WILL DROP.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An Evening Sun special from Washington says there is good authority for the statement that the administration expects something to happen at Santiago immediately, if it has not already happened. It is intimated that Schley will not resort to the slow process of starving out the enemy. High officers of the government are telling their friends that they expect news of an engagement at Santiago any moment.

A Tribune Washington special says President McKinley told callers today that he expected Schley to attack Santiago today.

COLUMBIA TO BE REPAIRED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Secretay Long today received a telegram from Admiral Bunce, commanding the Navy Yard Station, stating the cruiser Columbia had been in collision at sea, and that her after compartment had water in it. The admiral said he intended to dock her immediately in order that an examination might determine the extent of the repairs necessary.

While the admiral's dispatch stated nothing as to the time that would be necessary to make the repairs, it is believed at the department that the nature of the collision makes it probable that the repairs will not have to be very expensive or time-consuming.

HARVARD STILL AT JAMAICA.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

KINGSTON (Jamaica), May 30.—The United States auxiliary cruiser Harvard, formerly the American Line steamer New York, has not yet sailed. The colonial authorities have allowed her some hours longer in order that her boilers may be put in good condition.

DUPONT'S DAMAGE SLIGHT.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

MOBILE (Ala.,) May 30.—The torpedo-boat Dupont arrived here today to go into dock for repairs to her hull, she having been in collision with some vessel at Key West. She will be off in two or three days.

TONS OF AMMUNITION.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NORFOLK (Va.,) May 30.—The United States steamer Armenia left the navy yard here for Key West with 2500 tons of ammunition. A large number of 13-inch shells are in the consignment.

CLEVER MANEUVERING.

SCHLEY LET CERVERA THINK HE HAD LEFT IN DISGUST.

He Took the Bait and the Armada Ran into Santiago Harbor—The American Commodore Has Approached Near Enough to See Spain's Ships.

[A. P. DAY REPORT. COPYRIGHT, 1898.]

MOLE ST. NICOLAS (Hayti,) May 30.—The following dispatch has been received here from the Associated Press boat, with the American fleet off Santiago de Cuba:

"OFF SANTIAGO DE CUBA, May 29.—Commodore Schley and the flying squadron has the Spanish fleet bottled up in the harbor of Santiago de Cuba. By the most clever maneuvering the commodore allowed the Spaniards to think he had left in disgust. They took the bait and ran into the harbor. Commodore Schley moved down this morning, and at 6 o'clock, going to close the harbor, he saw the Cristobal Colon, the Maria Teresa and the two torpedo boats. He believes the entire fleet is there.

"Commodore Schley has acted upon his own information and judgment for the past six days, and believes the whole Spanish fleet is there. He sat on the after triangle of the Brooklyn this morning until after the discovery of the fleet, and he then went to breakfast, saying: 'I have got them and they will never get home.'

"The United States auxiliary cruiser St. Paul arrived here this morning and was sent to the Mole St. Nicholas with dispatches. She captured a coal ship, which was sent to Key West by Capt. Sigsbee, in charge of a prize crew. The coal was undoubtedly intended for the Spanish fleet. It is believed there is not much coal at Santiago de Cuba. The officers and men of the flying squadron are jubilant over the fact that the location of the Spanish fleet has finally been definitely established.

"The temperature here is 115 deg. in the shade, and in the steel turrets the heat is actually beyond the power of imagination. The American ships here are the Brooklyn, Texas, Massachusetts, Iowa, Marblehead and Vixen, an auxiliary torpedo gunboat."

UNDER MORO'S GUNS

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

KEY WEST, May 30.—The Restormel was captured under the very guns of Moro Castle at Santiago de Cuba, at 6 a.m., May 25. She carried 2400 tons of best Welsh coal from Cardiff, presumably for Admiral Cervera's fleet. The St. Paul has been lying off Santiago for six days, and early last Wednesday morning the big collier was sighted, making at full speed for Santiago Harbor. The St. Paul fired a blank shot, and the Restormel came to, four miles from the Santiago forts. The forts did not fire on the cruiser. A prize crew, in command of Lieut. J. A. Pattison, was put on board and dispossessed the British officer, who made no protest. Not a line was found among the ship's paper relative to the destination or consignee of the cargo. The Restormel was headed at once for Key West. She was leaking badly when captured, and is still in a serious condition.

The Restormel now lies in the harbor, near the wharf. The British flag is flying at her stern. Marines patrol the prize, and will allow no one on board. The members of the crew are not even allowed to take newspapers offered to them from launches that come alongside. In addition to the St. Paul, there were five other naval scouts outside Santiago, establishing a definite blockade in the sense that no merchant vessels are allowed to enter.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—The fleet, Capt. Hodgeson said, came into port at Curacoa early Saturday morning, May 14. The Vizcaya and the Infanta Maria Teresa anchored on either side of the Laughton. Outside the harbor were the torpedo-boat destroyers Terror and Pluton and the Cristobal Colon and Almirante Oquendo. The governor of the harbor refused to allow more than two vessels to enter at once. Admiral Cervera at once began loading supplies, some provisions, cattle and coal. This was continued on the next day, which was Sunday. During the afternoon, the admiral was handed a dispatch, upon which he ceased taking supplies and immediately signaled the fleet to sail. He left a considerable quantity of cattle and coal in barges in the harbor. The fleet sailed away about dusk on Sunday, May 15.

Discipline aboard the Vizcaya seemed to be well maintained; on the Infanta Maria Teresa it was very lax. One of the broadside guns of the latter vessel was split in such a way that it was useless for firing. Capt. Hodgeson kept his entire crew aboard during the time the Spaniards were in the harbor. Much that he gleaned in the way of information was through the chief engineer of the Maracaibo, another Red D line steamer, which lay at Curacoa at the time. This officer rowed around the two men-of-war several times in a gig, and obtained a few snap shots of the vessels.

The Laughton left for La Guayra, sailing from there May 20. Between the two ports she spoke a steamer, and was informed that four Spanish warships had been seen cruising about the coast of Venezuela.

SHE MISSED CONNECTION.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

KEY WEST, May 30, 7 p.m.—According to Lieut. J. A. Patterson, who is in command of the prize crew that brought in the Restormel, her capture was a very commonplace affair. He said:

"About 5 o'clock last Wednesday morning the St. Paul, scouting off Santiago Harbor, sighted the Restormel twelve miles away, apparently heading for that port. She was going in openly and honestly, and not skulking along the shore. The St. Paul took a course to cut her off, and when within hailing distance fired a blank shot. The pursued steamer paid no attention, but she hove to immediately when a solid shot was fired across her bows.

"About 6 o'clock I went out with a prize crew and took possession without protest. The captain talked frankly, saying that he was bound for Santiago, though he had sailed from Cardiff on April 21, for San Juan. This was before the declaration of war was received. At San Juan he was ordered to proceed to Curacoa, and from that place to Santiago de Cuba."

When the Restormel arrived here it was believed it would be necessary to beach her, take out her coal on lighters, then repair the leak and raise her, but later it was practically decided to tow her to the government dock and unload the cargo there.

Interesting light is thrown on Admiral Cervera's plan by the log of the Restormel. She sailed for San Juan de Porto Rico, where the Spaniards expected to coal. San Juan being unsafe, Curacoa was selected, but the collier failed to connect with the fleet there and was ordered to Santiago. Owing to her leak, she did not reach Santiago; the Spaniards remained in port short of coal, and so were caught.

SHIP AND CARGO LIBELLED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

KEY WEST, May 30, 8:10 p.m.—The prize commissioners have been busy all day taking testimony in the Restormel case, and as a result of the hearing the ship and cargo have been libelled, and will go before the court in the same form as the other prize cases.

The Restormel was built in Newcastle in 1882. She has a gross tonnage of 2020; is 286 feet long, has 36 feet 3 inches beam, and is 23 feet 7 inches deep. She is owned by the Restormel Steamship Company, limited, (J. Cory & Sons,) of Cardiff.

FEAR OF FAMINE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—A dispatch to the World from Kingston, Jamaica, says:

"Word received through direct secret means of communication from insurgent camps near Santiago is to the effect that the fleet and soldiers are monopolizing the supplies stored in Santiago, and fear of famine prevails among the people. Schley's blockade by sea and the insurgent lines on land prevent the replenishing of the stores of provisions. The result is much excitement and dissatisfaction, to which patriotism has been subordinated.

"The people believed Cervera would simply take on supplies and go out to meet Sampson in battle. Instead, the appearance of Schley's squadron has compelled him to remain in port awaiting relief by the Cadiz squadron. The arrival of that relief is necessarily uncertain, and the people of Santiago realize that a mistake was made in bringing the squadron here.

"Cervera depends upon the Cadiz squadron to uncork the bottle into which he is shut. He is believed to know of the coming of that fleet. The cable is censored, and no ships are allowed to leave the harbor. Santiago believes it impossible for the American ships to dash inside after Cervera, because, in addition to the line of forts, the channel has been thoroughly mined.

"Meanwhile the insurgents are drawing all available forces around the city, and are preparing in the event of an American naval victory outside the harbor, to attack the city on the land side and try to take this last stronghold of the Spaniards in the eastern part of Cuba."

TIGHTENING THE CORDON.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—There appears to be no reason now why the military invasion of Cuba should not begin as soon as a sufficient number of troops can be equipped for the campaign. It was with deep gratification that the Secretary of the Navy last night received the message from Commodore Schley that finally removed from the field of conjecture any doubt as to the location of Cervera's fleet. Even if it should prove to be true that the Vizcaya and Oquendo are at large, they can do little harm unless their commanders have arrived at that desperate state of mind when they are willing to submit their ships to certain destruction for the sake of inflicting some small injury on one of the unprotected vessels of the American navy or for the glory of running the blockade.

The Navy Department has taken note of the reported arrival of the torpedo-boat destroyer Terror at San Juan. They say she has made her last cruise under the Spanish flag, from which it is inferred that one of the American cruisers is already on her way to bottle her up in San Juan Harbor.

It is believed that Sampson, confident of Schley's ability to hold the Spaniards in Santiago Harbor, is now rapidly preparing to convoy the military expeditions, the starting of which cannot be deferred much longer. Sampson has reinforced Schley's fleet with some of the best ironclads, the Iowa, for instance, so that there is no question of his overmatching the Spaniards in point of force. The Cienfuegos blockade, which was not abandoned, but was temporarily weakened to insure the safety of some of the blockading vessels from attack by the Spanish flying squadron, will now be reestablished in all of its old rigor.

No one who can speak authoritatively will say when the military expeditions will start. Secretary Alger, when asked the direct question this morning, replied that it would be impolitic to make any statement on that subject; that it would only serve to give the Spanish in Cuba opportunity to mass their forces at certain points and thereby expose the American troops to unnecessary dangers. Gen. Miles is prepared for instant departure. The general himself refuses to say when he will move, but there are signs at army headquarters this morning that indicate an early departure, possibly tonight.

WILL MUSTER TODAY

TROOPS AT TAMPA EVIDENTLY ORDERED TO MOVE.

Plenty of News, But It Won't Pass the Censor and the Public Must Guess.

FLEET READY FOR EMBARKING.

TRAINS LOADED WITH SUPPLIES AND PROVISIONS CROWDING IN.

Recruits Still Short on Equipment and Clothes, But Deficiencies Will Be Made Up This Week.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TAMPA (Fla.,) May 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With that spasmodic tendency that characterizes the happenings among the troops from day to day at this place, things have taken a material turn today. There is no dearth of news, but it is of a character that will not pass the censor. In other words, the public will have to do a little guessing again as to what is going on in Tampa, where the army is gathered.

The fleet is in readiness for the embarkation of troops and they can be sent away with dispatch as soon as the order to embark is given. The trains loaded with quartermasters' supplies and provisions for the commissary, are crowding in and every track is filled.

There is no place to store the goods so they have to remain in the cars. Some of the perishable class, such as fresh meat and green vegetables, are spoiling in the torrid heat that prevails on this sand bar, thereby entailing a great loss.

More than 500 recruits were appointed to the various cavalry regiments of the regular army today. They are short of equipment for these men as well as of horses, but these deficiencies will be made up within the week. Of the volunteer troops, some have no clothing except what they stand in, and many have no shoes at all. This applies particularly to the Florida State troops.

Field transportation is arriving for all branches of the service and it will be in much better shape before the week is out.

The heat is excessive. One death occurred and the victim was buried in the Seventy-first New York camp yesterday, while more than a hundred are prostrated in the same regiment. No ceremonies have marked Decoration day in the camp, other than regular routine duty and drills.

Tomorrow is set for muster in all the regiments here, and will consume almost the entire day. What will happen Wednesday if present rumors are borne out, cannot be chronicled here.

MILES OFF FOR TAMPA.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Maj.-Gen. Miles, commanding the United States army, accompanied by the members of his family and his personel and official staff, left at 11 o'clock tonight for Tampa.

Gen. Miles will proceed directly to Tampa, where he will establish headquarters of the army. He will personally direct the movement of the troops and the invasion of Cuba.

THE SECOND CALL.

Volunteers to Be Used in Filling Up Regiments.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Adjt.-Gen. Corbin is now working out the details of the second call for volunteers. Communications from the Governors of the several States received by the adjutant-general indicates clearly that they approve of the plan to recruit the regiments from their States up to the maximum strength out of the second call. As heretofore indicated in the Associated Press dispatches, this necessary recruiting will absorb about 50,000 men, leaving about 25,000 to be organized into additional regiments. It is the purpose of the War Department officials to recruit existing regiments up to a maximum strength of 1326 men in twelve companies.

It is not expected to assemble the recruits in State camps. As fast as the men are recruited, they will be examined and sent forward to join the regiments to which they will be assigned. The new recruits will be assigned to regiments of their own States, and so far as possible the companies and regiments which represent the sections of the States in which they reside.

CALIFORNIA'S QUOTA.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—While the routine of camp life has been firmly established among the volunteers and regulars now awaiting their summons to go to the front, considerable impatience is manifested at the delay in starting the second expedition to the Philippines. It was semi-officially stated today that at least 2500 more troops would be sent forward within ten days, and every man now in camp is anxious to be among the chosen few. Although no announcement of the fact has been made, it is still pretty certain that the Seventh California will not be left behind when the next fleet of transports sails.

Gov. Budd today received an important dispatch from United States Adjt.-Gen. Corbin referring to the troops to be supplied by California under the President's second call. It fixes the maximum strength at 106 enlisted men per company of infantry, 100 per troop of cavalry, 173 per light battery, and 200 per heavy battery, 1326 of all grades per regiment of infantry, consisting of three battalions of four companies each. The order continues as follows.

"The Secretary of War bids me to say that it is now the wish of the President to supply in accordance with law so much of the second call for 75,000 men as may be necessary to fill the organizations already in service from your State to the maximum just stated."

Adjt.-Gen. Barrett, having no field officers of the First Infantry at this station, recommended Capt. Carrington, U.S.A., to enlist men for that organization. For the Seventh California, Maj. W. O. Welsh was designated; for the Sixth California Infantry, Maj. G. G. Grant, and for the batteries, Lieut. John A. Koster. Thirty-two companies of infantry have been mustered into the United States service, and under the second call each company may take twenty-five more men.

After the California infantry and artillery organizations now in the service of the United States have been recruited to the maximum, less than 800 men will remain to be supplied under the second call. There is a good chance that the Fifth Infantry Regiment of the National Guard may get into the service of the country nder the second call. The Second Infantry is also anxious to get in, and stands an equal chance with the Fifth for acceptance.

This evening Adjt.-Gen. Barrett was authorized by wire to fill the National Guard to the maximum in the localities where the troops now enlisted were raised. This will enable the First Regiment to fill up to the maximum from National Guardsmen in San Francisco. Members of the guard in Southern California will be taken to augment the Seventh. The Sixth will draw its increase from home localities.

POWERFUL QUIET.

No Loading of Transports Yet Nor Orders to Break Camp.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

TAMPA (Fla.,) May 30.—The impression prevailed around headquarters today that the end is now not far off, and that definite orders for breaking camp and getting on board the transports in waiting will soon be given.

If any such orders were received, however, there were certainly no indications of them at the docks at Port Tampa, where scarcely a dozen negro laborers were lazily engaged in cleaning up the rubbish left by the carpenters. No loading of supplies of any kind was done during the day, and even the fires in many of the transports had apparently been drawn.

A special train with 216 members of the Chicago Naval Reserves, in command of Lieut. Prity and Ensign Hunt and Pewitt arrived at Port Tampa today. They will go to Key West tomorrow.

Decoration day was observed in camp today by the suspension of all drills.

VOLUNTEER TEXANS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.,) May 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Capt. Juan Hart's volunteer company, numbering eighty-nine men, left here for Galveston at 2:30 o'clock today in coaches attached to the regular Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio train. The company belongs to Col. Riche's regiment, which is being organized at Galveston.

NEARLY ALL MUSTERED IN.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Adjt.-Gen. Corbin said today that 121,500 troops had been mustered into the volunteer army under the call for 125,000 men, and that the remaining 3500 men were in State camps ready for the visit of the mustering officers. He said that all the States and Territories had filled their quota, so far as the recruiting of the troops is concerned, and that while three States were apparently behind, it was not their fault, but was due to the inability of the mustering officers to complete their work. The apparent shortage is divided between the States of Iowa, Mississippi and North Carolina. The troops in these States are in camp, however, awaiting the action of the government officers and will be mustered into the volunteer army in a day or two.

RECRUITS FROM GEORGIA.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

ATLANTA (Ga.,) May 30.—One thousand and thirty-three recruits left for Tampa today. The men were not uniformed and lacked guns. One thousand men will be started for San Francisco for the Philippines as soon as their equipment reaches Fort McPherson.

MULES FOR FURTHER ORDERS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

ST. LOUIS, May 30.—Col. C. G. Smith, deputy quartermaster-general, received orders from Washington today instructing him to cease purchasing mules until further orders. Twelve thousand mules have been purchased in this market. The average price was $100 a mule.

HOSPITAL ARRANGEMENTS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—With the consent of Secretary Alger, Surgeon-General Sternberg has taken the initiatory steps for securing a hospital train for the transportation of the invalided troops from the front. This train is to consist of ten tourist sleepers and one dining-car, and is to be in charge of a corps of medical officers and attendants. By using all the berths available, there will be accommodation for 600 men. The latter will be taken from Tampa or Miami, Fla., as the conditions warrant, for transportation to the nearest available hospital, according to their condition.

Four general hospitals are now ready for the reception of the sick, viz: Key West, Fort McPherson, Ga.; Fort Thomas, Ky., and Fort Myer, Va. They are capable at the present capacity of caring for 2000 men. The hospital ship Red will accompany the troops embarked for the West Indies, ready to return at any time with the sick and wounded to the United States.

A report received by the surgeon-general from the physician in charge at Key West, says that last week there were in the hospital at that place seventy-five men from the navy and one from the army.

PLAN THAT FAILED.

Boy Orator Bryan Goes to the Front as High Private.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

LINCOLN (Neb.,) May 30.—The Third Regiment, with W. J. Bryan in its ranks as a private, is now full, and will be offered to the Federal government. It was expected Mr. Bryan would lead the regiment in battle, but Gov. Holcomb has received the following, which has disarranged the plan:

"Governor of Nebraska, Lincoln, Neb.: It is estimated that about six hundred and sixty enlisted men will be required to fill to the maximum the organizations already in service from your State. It is desired to know how far you will be able to furnish the above number.

[Signed] "R. A. ALGER, "Secretary of War."

The recruiting of 660 additional men to serve in two regiments under Col. Bills and Col. Bratt wil take such a proportion of Nebraska's quota under the second call that there will be only a part of a regiment left for Mr. Bryan to command, and if he goes to the front with the Nebraska troops, he can only hold a command as a major. The Governor wired back as follows:

"R. A. Alger, Secretary of War, Washington: Answering telegraphic inquiry, Nebraska will promptly furnish quota of men assigned it, and in such a manner as your department many prescribe. If you mean to ask my opinion, I would respectfully suggest that in my judgment the present maximum strength will prove more efficient and more satisfactory to the officers and men, companies to be kept recruited to present strength. Anticipating the possibility of a second call, a third regiment has been organized under command of W. J. Bryan, which is at your service. Could be ready for muster on a few days' notice.

[Signed] "SILAS M. HOLCOMB, "Governor."

There is already a move on foot among the members of the heavy artillery organization to furnish the recruits for the companies in the field. In case it is shown that their organization cannot be recognized, they will at once offer themselves as privates in the companies of the First and Second regiments. If this plain is followed, the Bryan battalion will have no chance to see service unless a third call for volunteers is made.

NEWS SINCE MIDNIGHT.

[Under this heading are printed the very latest exclusive dispatches, being the cream of the war news in the New York morning newspapers of today, which is wired from that city about 5 a.m., reaching The Los Angeles Times about 2 a.m.]

BOOM OF HEAVY GUNS.

SOME KIND OF AN ENGAGEMENT OFF PORTO RICO.

Admiral Dewey Eager for a Scrap in His Bailiwick—Gen. Miles May not Command the Invading Army—Relief Supplies.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A special to the Journal from St. Thomas, Danish West Indies, says:

"There has been some sort of an engagement this morning off the Porto Rico coast. About 10 o'clock there came in from sea the boom of heavy guns. The firing was beyond the range of the telescope, but as nearly as could be judged, the firing was between Culebra Island and Porto Rico. At 4 o'clock a warship was sighted steaming off Culebra Island north at great speed. The nationality could not be made out, but as it did not pause to look up the Anita, whose American flag was flying, it is not likely that the warship was Spanish.

"We counted eleven shots before the firing ceased. The Spanish torpedo-boat destroyer Terror should have left San Juan de Porto Rico today. It is possible that some American scout belonging to Sampson's fleet encountered and engaged her."

SPANISH RELIEF PROJECT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A Sun special from London quotes a Madrid special as saying the government has concerted plans with the Transatlantic Company to carry relief supplies to the West Indies and Philippines, besides establishing depots in neutral countries near where the blockade is to be run.

The dispatch adds that despite British and Italian protests, the government persists in holding that sulphur is contraband of war. Nevertheless, sufficient delay will be allowed for sulphur embarked prior to the issue of the contraband proclamation to reach its destination.

INVASION DELAYED AGAIN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A special to the Herald from Washington says there seems to be little doubt tonight that the main invasion of Cuba and the attack upon Havana are to be delayed until after the Santiago and Porto Rico campaigns.

ANOTHER BATTLE NEEDED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A Madrid cable to the Herald says the reserve squadron will be ready to put to sea in a few days. It is believed it will sail first to the Canaries, and thence under sealed orders, thus repeating Cervera's tactics. As soon as this squadron is off, another will be formed, comprising six warships, most of which are now unfinished.

WATCHING FOR THE RESERVE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It is more than probable that the St. Louis, which sailed hence today, has gone out for the purpose of scouting for the Cadiz squadron. Capt. Goodrich went over the situation with the war board at Washington yesterday and the day before, and pointed out today that this government would be in a sorry plight if the Spanish squadron should make attacks on some point on the Atlantic Coast, with Schley anchored at Santiago, and Sampson protecting an invasion expedition and the blockading squadron.

Members of the naval board believe it possible that the Spanish vessels received their final instructions before their departure from Cadiz, and that they are now on their way toward North America. The St. Louis will scout for them, and it is probable that the Yale and Harvard will be relieved from duty near Santiago, and resume their stations to the westward of the Windward Islands on the lookout for Spanish reinforcements.

SIGNIFICANT MOVES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A Herald special from Jacksonville, Fla., says: "I learned today through a letter from Key West that the cruiser New Orleans, which has been with Sampson's squadron, sailed last Friday to join Schley's fleet at Santiago. The New York went to Key West for coal, and to enable Sampson to communicate more directly with Washington.

"The New York was expected to sail with the Oregon for the south side of Cuba before Sunday morning, also to join Schley. The assignment of the Oregon and the New Orleans to Schley's squadron is significant as indicating the possible intention to force the harbor and repeat Dewey's Manila's coup. The New York is Admiral Sampson flagship, and if she goes to Santiago, it would seem that the admiral proposes to assume command himself."

DEWEY EAGER FOR THE FRAY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A Journal special from Manila, the 27th, via Shanghai, says Dewey is impatiently awaiting the troops. He chafes at the delay, and is eager to be at the Spaniards again. The enemy is not idle. It is believed they have the Pasig River so barricaded with sunken hulks that Dewey's ships cannot reach the gunboats sheltered in the stream. These gunboats will be useful to the Spaniards in resisting an attack on the city.

Earthworks are being thrown up near the water front by the enemy, and all available guns mounted. It is not believed there are any guns which will be of much use against Dewey's fleet. Spies report the Spaniards have very little ammunition.

MILES WON'T COMMAND.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A Sun special from Washington says that unless Miles's orders have been changed since Saturday, he will not command the expedition to Cuba or Porto Rico in person. The orders prepared two days ago direct the major-general commanding to go to Tampa, Mobile and Chickamauga for the purpose of making a general inspection of troops mobilized at these points.

TALK WITH MILES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A special to the New York Journal says Gen. Miles, after leaving the White House tonight, on the way to the train for Tampa, said: "I am very well satisfied with results so far accomplished. As to the matter of equipment, we are getting it as fast as manufacturers can make it. But it takes time to make clothes, tents, ammunition and artillery. We shall soon be in good shape. Volunteers who have the Springfield rifles and are accustomed to use that weapon will be allowed to keep it. We are having 10,000 Winchesters made to supply some western troops who are accustomed to that gun. Hunters use it, and I guess it's good enough to hunt Spaniards with."

Aside from the assistance the military force may be in helping to drive out Cervera and establishing a base of supplies for the American army at Santiago, the plan contemplates the utilization of this town as capital of the Cuban republic. Here the Cuban legislature will meet, and the Cuban president and his cabinet will live.

BRITONS THREATENED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HONGKONG, May 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Placards have been posted in Manila intended to incite the populace against the British residents. As a measure of precaution Dewey is making arrangements for the reception of the threatened Britons at Cavite, which he virtually occupies now. Skirmishing is of daily occurrence on the Island of Luzon between the Spaniards and native insurgents.

NO POWERS WILL INTERVENE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A special to the Sun from London says a dispatch from Rome says in an interview today that Marquis Visconti-Venosta, Minister of Foreign Affairs, declared that no power or combination of powers would intervene in the Spanish-American war unless one of the belligerents invited such intervention.

Italy, he added, had offered her good offices at the beginning of the war, but had met with insurmountable obstacles in Madrid and Washington. In conclusion, the Marquis said he did not believe France was coquetting with Spain, or that she would accept the Philippine Islands if they were offered her.

MANILA GOSSIP.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MANILA, May 27 (via Hongkong May 30.)—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The health of the officers and men of Dewey's fleet continues good in spite of the severe heat and humidity.

Natives now bring off a plentiful supply of chickens, eggs, mangoes, bananas and new pineapples, but nothing else.

I saw Aguinaldo today. He told me he had 500 mausers captured from the Spaniards, which, with the rifles just received, will enable him to arm a force equal to the detachment of Spaniards now in the province of Cavite. About two miles back of the town of Cavite, Aguinaldo also has five modern breech-loading field pieces, with a moderate supply of common shells and shrapnel.

When Gridley left the Olympia on sick leave the wardroom officers manned the gig and rowed him to the departing steamer, and the seamen suddenly thronged the rail forward and gave him hearty cheers.

RUSSIA'S CHIEF CONCERN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A Paris cablegram to the Herald says everything goes to indicate that Russia is trying to edge into the Anglo-American agreement. Russian opinion is mostly concerned with the war in its bearing upon affairs in the Far East, and consequently the Russia press is striving with might and main to show the impossibility of an Anglo-American alliance, which would be calculated, most of all, to effect the far eastern situation.—

GEN. MERRITT'S ARMY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A special to the Herald from Washington says Gen. Merritt is to have eight additional regiments for his Philippine army. The entire army will be 20,000 strong.

THE BANCHOFT'S FUTILE CHASE.

Pursued An Unknown Steamer—Officers Think She Was British.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

KEY WEST, May 30, 9:30 a.m.—The unknown steamer supposed to be a Spanish auxiliary cruiser, sighted by the Wilmington and Bancroft about fifteen miles off Key West early on Thursday evening, was not captured. The Bancroft gave up the chase.

The Wilmington first sighted the stranger, it now appears, and was about to steam after her, when the Bancroft came along and asked her if she had seen anything of a four-masted steamer with a yellow smokestack. The Wilmington told her of the unknown vessel she had just observed, which had three masts and one smokestack, and the Bancroft started in pursuit.

The stranger put on all steam when she saw she was being chased, and made off at a sixteen-knot clip. She had too big a lead on the Bancroft, and the latter, after chasing her for an hour and a half, gave it up. Just before the Bancroft abandoned the pursuit, however, the unknown hoisted her colors, but night was falling and the gunboat was unable to make them out.

The officers of the Bancroft believe the ship they chased was a British vessel and that it was the British flag which was displayed, but they cannot account for her running away. During the chase, the Bancroft held up a number of ships, which were released after establishing their neutrality.

HE CHOSE SANTIAGO.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

KEY WEST, May 30.—Any doubt remaining as to the exact location of Admiral Cervera's fleet was removed by reports brought in by naval scout ships and forwarded to the Associated Press dispatches of Saturday night. It has been the opinion of Rear-Admiral Sampson that Admiral Cervera would seek either Santiago or Cienfuegos as a naval refuge and base, and the movement of the two American squadrons has proceeded upon this basis.

Strong and effective as are the Spanish ships, representing as they do the flower of the Spanish navy, every argument in naval strategy compelled Admiral Cervera either to seek the shelter of the close harbor of Santiago or return to Spain, and he chose to make his stand at Santiago. That he would court a fight in the open sea is an idea which has never been entertained in American naval circles, although his ships, without exception, have high qualities, owing to their great speed, for such a contest. On the other hand, it was believed the Spanish admiral would attempt to run in at San Juan de Porto Rico, but the fact of the recent bombardment of the forts of that harbor, coupled with the great possibility that Rear-Admiral Sampson's fleet would be met if he attempted to enter the harbor, left the Spanish admiral only one alternative, and he adopted it by going to Santiago, where, it is presumed, he has been able to coal, clean and repair, and is in a position to accept either the conditions imposed by blockade or the issue of a fight in the inner harbor, after the American fleet has forced the passage.

It had been though that the campaign against Admiral Cervera might now be ended by demolishing the forts at the entrance of the harbor of Santiago, blockading the channel and isolating the Spanish fleet until the other problems of the war are worked out. This, however, is not in the line with American policy and, simply accepting the view of the situation taken by the naval experts here, Admiral Cervera will have to accept battle at once. It is confidently expected that a hard blow will be struck within three or four days, and that the result will be known to the world at the expiration of that time. It has not been disclosed whether Commodore Schley is to be reinforced, but it would not be surprising if some additional ships were sent to him.

NOTHING FROM CADIZ.

NEW YORK, May 30.—A dispatch to the Herald from Gibraltar says that it may be positively stated that there has been no movement from Cadiz of the Spanish reserve squadron.

Advices from Manila Say Plenty of Salt but No Fresh Provisions are Obtainable — Insurgents Refuse to Go Over to the Enemy.

[A. P. DAY REPORT. COPYRIGHT, 1898.]

HONGKONG, May 30.—The British second-class cruiser Pique has arrived here from Iloilo and Manila. The Spanish garrison at Iloilo numbers 100 men, and the place has no defenses. The foreigners there are safe.

Supplies are reaching Manila plentifully from the surrounding country. The Spaniards are working upon the fortifications, but their guns are old and useless, and they are short of ammunition.

Rear-Admiral Dewey has informed the authorities at Manila that he will hold them responsible for the life of the captain of the Spanish gunboat Callao, captured by the United States fleet. The Spaniards have been threatening to shoot him for surrendering, although confronted by the whole American fleet.

All the American ships are at Cavite, in Manila Bay. Salt provisions are plentiful, but fresh provisions are not obtainable. There is no sickness in the American fleet.

In reply to the Spanish attempt to win over Aguinaldo's men, the insurgents are said to have informed the Spaniards that they are neutral and will await events.

The Spanish gunboat El Cano, which captured the American bark Saranac, loaded with coal and owned by William Simpson, Jr., of New York, has left Iloilo and gone to the Samoangen River. It is said the Spaniards released the Saranac owing to the fact that she hoisted the British flag prior to her capture.

The Americans have captured the Spanish gunboat Leyte, which was attempting to run dispatches into Iloilo.

A steamer is reported to have landed 6000 rifles at Cavite for the use of the insurgents. The Spaniards have offered $25,000 for the head of Aguinaldo, the insurgent leader.

The Governor of Hongkong has prohibited the United States auxiliary gunboat Zafiro from taking war stores to the American fleet, but he has permitted her to ship "officers' luxuries." The Zafiro sails from here for Manila today.

SANTIAGO FIRST.

After it Capitulates, Then on to Porto Rico.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—A special to the Tribune from Washington says: "The President told some callers tonight (Monday) that he expected Commodore Schley to attack Cervera within twenty-four hours. Gen. Miles made no secret before leaving Washington of the immediate departure of the army from Tampa.

"It is known that ever since the first reports announcing the arrival of the Spanish squadron at Santiago he has been thoroughly alive to the practically prohibitive dangers which would have to be encountered by an American fleet in fighting its way past the elevatedu batteries and up the narrow and tortuous channel of that harbor to force a battle with the Spaniards, and has steadily urged upon the authorities the necessity of a land attack on the place as the quickest and most effective method of dealing Spain a crushing blow.

"In the transports at Tampa, in addition to the large quantity of supplies needed by the army, whatever its destination, have been stored a number of powerful siege guns, which will be effective for shelling the entire basin in which the harbor and city of Santiago lie, when mounted on high positions among the surrounding hills."

There is a possibility that Commodore Schley, impatient over the delay at gettiing at the Spaniards and in the absence of accurate knowledge that military reinforcements are at hand, may, on drawing the fire of the batteries, ascertain that their formidability has been greatly exaggerated, and determine to force his way into the harbor and complete the work without assistance.

Should this occur the fleet of transports and warships arriving in the Windward will quickly secure the news from scout ships and the alternative destination of Porto Rico would at once be adopted.

It is estimated in high official quarters that several of the transports have already reached the rendezvous at Key West, if indeed, the entire fleet is not already on the way. At Key West an effective addition to the landing force has been provided in the marine corps battalion of the transport Panther. This force is composed of trained men especially drilled to land under fire, and it is expected to be the first force ashore wherever the attack is made.

Gen. Miles counts on the active support of the insurgent, Gen. Garcia, who was visited by Lieut. Rowan and to whom couriers have already been sent, informing him of the purpose of the American army to invest Santiago, should such an operation be necessary to destroy Cervera's fleet. Gen. Collazo and Col. Hernandez of Garcia's staff, who accompanied Lieut. Rowan by way of the Bahamas to Washington, have been constantly consulted by Gen. Miles for the last three or four days, giving him invaluable information regarding Santiago province, and they will accompany the expedition from Tampa and act as guides for the army after the landing is effected.

Gen. Miles dispelled all doubts as to his own active part in the expedition by announcing that he would be able to embark at Tampa on Wednesday on one of the fastest cruisers which will take him quickly to the scene of operations.

The size of the force to be landed near Santiago does not exceed 15,000 men, of whom it is not expecter over 5000 will take part in the siege, the others being held in reserve for use if extraordinary resistance is encountered. The outlook, however, is for quick and decisive action and there is confidence among military men that the city will fall in ten days.

It is not the intention of Gen. Miles to remain at Santiago an unnecessary hour after the capitulation of that port and the successful accomplishment of the purpose of invasion. On the contrary, most of the troops will be quickly reëmbarked in the transports, and the combined military and naval forces will proceed directly to take possession of Porto Rico, being reinforced for this purpose by additional troops from Tampa. These reinforcements will consist largely of volunteers, including those who have exhibited the highest efficiency among the commands now at Camp Thomas, Chickamauga Park.

Perhaps some of these commanders will reach Key West about the time the main expedition starts from there, and they will be prepared to follow the first expedition immediately, if such action at that time appears to be desirable.

PANAMA TAKEN NORTH.

SCHLEY WAITING TO STRIKE

Doggedly Patrolling Cuban Waters Until He Gets a Fair Chance at Cervera.

[A. P. NIGHT REPORT. COPYRIGHT, 1898.]

ON BOARD THE ASSOCIATED PRESS TUG DANDY, off Santiago, May 28, via Kingston, (Jamaica,) May 30. — Commodore Schley's squadron is doggedly patrolling the waters in this vicinity, waiting to strike the Spanish fleet, which Americans confidently believe is lying under the protection of the harbor batteries.

Commodore Schley arrived here Tuesday after several days cruising about Cienfuegos, without sighting the Spanish fleet. When the Dandy first sighted the American squadron, Thursday evening, it was lying ten miles south of the entrance to Santiago Harbor in one line about two miles long and just sufficient steerage way to enable the ships to keep up against the heavy sea that was running.

The squadron lay to all night in this order, and early in the morning, after a consultation of the commanding officers, it moved about three miles westward to permit the coaling of the ships out of range of the shore guns. This latter position is occupied today by the entire fleet excepting the auxiliary cruisers Yale and St. Paul, which were left scouting off the harbor of Santiago, and the auxiliary cruiser Harvard, which was this morning sent with dispatches to Fort Antonio, Jamaica.

When the Associated Press correspondent boarded the Brooklyn today and sought an interview with Commodore Schley, he was met with a courteous but firm refusal. The commodore positively declined to discuss his plans or talk of the possibility of meeting the Spanish squadron. What the outcome will be is a matter of conjecture—whether he will bombard the harbor and forts, attempting to force an entrance, or whether he will resist an attempt on the Spaniards to depart, Schley only knows.

SPAIN EXPECTS NO SUPPORT.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

LONDON, May 30.—The Madrid correspondent of the Times says it is reported that Señor Sagasta, during Sunday's Cabinet Council, reasserted that Spain does not expect the support, diplomatic or otherwise, of any foreign power, and that there is no question whatever of undertaking negotiations for this purpose through Señor Leon y Castilla, Spanish Ambassador at Paris.

NOT HARMONIOUS.

Sagasta's Political Family Quarrels Over Economic Questions.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—A dispatch to the Herald from Madrid says:

"The most pessimistic rumors already prevail in diplomatic circles regarding the durability of the new Cabinet recently constituted by Señor Sagasta. Harmony certainly does not reign in this Cabinet with free trade and protection equally represented. The crisis, which is shortly anticipated, will be precipitated by the discord prevailing between Gamazo, the Minister of Commerce, who is a partisan of the income tax, and Puigceiver, the Minister of Finance, who is an opponent of this measure.

"While the imminent fall of the Sagasta ministry is discussed, the talk also of politicians is as to who is likely to obtain the Premiership. The name which has been heard most frequently mentioned is Señor Silvela, a progressive Conservative."

A London cablegram says Baron Lyon Playfair, political economist, civil-service reformer and parliamentarian, died in that city Sunday.

In the Japanese Parliament yesterday, a petition to the Mikado against Marquis Ito and the responsible government was rejected by a majority of sixty.

The British government, according to a statement of a London news agency, has sent a friendly protest to Spain with regard to the latter's strengthening of the fortifications opposite Gibraltar.

A Washington dispatch says Gen. Greely, chief signal officer, is making arrangements for enlisting the volunteer signal corps authorized by Congress. This is to be composed of about ninety officers and 800 men, and a company is to be assigned to each division of the army. As far as practicable, the men will be recruited out of the signal corps of the National Guard of the several States.

The Madrid correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph says widespread distress is reported in various parts of the interior, more especially in the province of Catalonia, where food prices have risen considerably, while a number of working people have been thrown out of employment. This week several factories at Mauresa, northwest of Barcelona, will have to be closed, as a result of which hundreds of families will be plunged into misery.

A Washington dispatch says Brig.-Gen. Theo Schwan, who has been assigned to an important command at Mobile, will leave for that city Wednesday. His place as assistant adjutant-general to Gen. Corbin is to be filled by Maj. William H. Carter, who will be succeeded by Capt. John A. Johnson, promoted to assistant adjutant-general. Maj. H. O. Heistand will be recalled from duty with the troops under Gen. Graham at Camp Alger for assignment in Gen. Corbin's office.

THE BIG TWO.

MEASURES THAT WILL HOLD CONGRESS IN SESSION.

Two Hundred and Nine Bills That Have Passed Both Houses, and Two Hundred More Now in the Senate.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The time for the recess of Congress is nearly in sight. There remain but two measures of importance unacted upon that could hold the members here nowadays, and when these are finished, a recess of a month or two will be taken.

A recess, not an adjournment. Congress will not adjourn until the war is over, or until the time for reconvening is nearly at hand.

The two big measures referred to above are the War Revenue Bill and the Hawaiian annexation resolution. Despite all obstacles, it is reasonably believed that the first will become a law in some shape or other within two weeks, or three at the latest. Then only Hawaii will remain, and unless there seems to be some prospect of obtaining an early vote in the Senate, it is probable that Speaker Reed, who is opposed to annexation, will be able to force an adjournment.

This Congress has been about the busiest on record in recent years. Besides various war bills, there has been a multitude of important acts which have passed and been signed by the President.

Since the beginning of the present session in December the House has passed 209 bills that have become laws. These, it should be understood, are measures that have received the approval of both House and Senate. The House has disposed of fully 200 other bills that have gone to the Senate, and are now before committees, or on the Senate calendar.

It is impossible to tell yet what the aggregate in appropriations of this session of Congress will be, but it is assured that it will go far beyond half a billion, and that the total appropriations of the Fifty-fifth Congress will amount up to fully $1,200,000,000. One cannot forecast with any certainty the financial cost of the present war, and it may not be excessive to estimate that this Congress, before March 4 next, will have authorized the expenditure of a billion and a half of dollars. But had there been no war the appropriations of the session would have been very large, notwithstanding the constant effort of the House leaders to keep them down.

The number if private pension bills and bills for claims that have become laws is very large. It is true that the amount involved in the passage of private pension bills is not very large in the aggregate. However, the pressure for the payment of old claims has been great at this session. The omnibus bill, on which the House gave a favorable vote, would require over a million dollars, and as the Senate has amended it in committee it will require a great deal more. The bill for the relief of the Southern Methodist Book Concern, the bill for the relief of the heirs of John Roach, and the bill for the relief of the Richmond Locomotive Works are further instances of the manner in which the House has voted away sums of public money ranging all the way from $60,000 to $300,000.

The war measures have actually consumed but little time in the House. The appropriation of $50,000,000 for the national defense was passed in one day. The measure declaring for armed intervention was likewise passed in one day and with little debate, although another day and most of a night was used in reaching an agreement with the Senate over the conference report. The formal declaration of war was passed a few days later in less time than it takes to pass a private pension bill, and the war revenue measure, which is now being considered by the Senate Finance Committee, and which is probably the most important legislative measure that has passed since the civil war, occupied only three days for consideration. The bill for the reorganization of the regular army and for recruiting it, in time of war, up to 61,000 men, was likewise briefly disposed of, requiring about a legislative day for consideration. The Volunteer Army Bill was also passed through the House in short order. The bill appropriating over $36,000,000 for the expenses of the army was considered only a portion of one afternoon before it received a favorable vote in the House.

The two special appropriations above noted demonstrate how the amount of money the government will require of this Congress must be increased over the amounts required of previous Congresses. Those two appropriations aggregate $86,000,000, but the amount of the Fortifications Bill, which has passed the House and Senate, was doubled over the original figures. The General Deficiency Bill, which will be the last of the appropriation bills to be passed, will carry an enormous appropriation, including a very large deficiency for the navy.

Aside from the large appropriation bills, which constitute the major part of legislation in every session of Congress, the war measures, and the private bills, the House has disposed of not a little important general legislation. The Bankruptcy Bill was passed several weeks ago and is now in conference, out of which it will probably never be reported, on account of the serious differences between the House and Senate. The bill for the arbitration of labor strikes on railroads was also passed by the House in the Fifty-fourth Congress.

The legislation that remains for the House to pass upon this session is very limited. The Sundry Civil Appropriation Bill is out of conference and will probably be approved by the House without much delay, although a day or two of debate usually occurs on the conference report. The District of Columbia Appropriation Bill is in the hands of conferees, who have held no meeting yet, and probably will hold none until the session nears an end. The Indian Appropriation Bill is still in conference, and the Postoffice Appropriation Bill will be voted on in the Senate Monday. All these matters, affecting appropriation bills, can be disposed of quickly, if that becomes the desire of the House leaders, and the General Deficiency Bill will probably require not more than a day's consideration.

There are many bills on the House calendar, but none that would stand in the way of adjournment. Two election cases have been reported to the House, that of William Ryan against H. C. Brewster of New York, and that of John R. Brown against Claude A. Swanson of Virginia. Three or four days might be used in disposing of the first of these cases, but it is not unlikely that it will be acted upon with little debate, as it is a foregone conclusion that the sitting member will be retained. The second has been postponed till next session. The remaining bills on the House calendar are nearly all of a private character. From the Committee on Interstate Commerce there has been a bill reported for preventing ticket scalping. It was generally believed at the beginning of the session that this would pass both House and Senate before adjournment, but the committee at each end of the Capitol have been overwhelmed with petitions against the bill. The impression seems to be quite general over the country that the bill was drawn in favor of the railroads, perhaps to pay a campaign debt of 1896, and it is safe to prophesy that it will not be taken up at least until after the elections of 1898. The Committee on Immigration and Labor also has a bill to restrict immigration which passed the Senate some months ago, but for political reasons chiefly this bill will not, in all probability, be taken up this session. There are a few more than 800 bills on the private calendar of the House and nearly 350 other bills on different calendars. But as none of these are regarded as urgent there has been an increasing sentiment in the House for the last three or four days in favor of adjourning from day to day, as was done last summer during the consideration ofthe Tariff bill, until the Senate shall have acted on the war revenue measure. MARRIOTT.

REPUBLICAN CLANS GATHER.

Annual Convention Will Open Today at San Francisco.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—Republicans from all parts of the State are arriving in the city to attend the annual convention of the State League of Republican Clubs, which will convene tomorrow afternoon.

Among the well-known men who came from the south U. S. Grant, Jr., candidate for United States Senator, and William R. Guy, candidate for State Treasurer; Senator Androus and S. M. Haskell of Pomona, and Mr. Frost of Riverside. D. E. McKinlay and A. B. Lemon of Santa Rosa, President A. W. Kinney of Los Angeles and Vice-President Charles H. Holmes were also among the notable arrivals. It is expected that 750 delegates will attend the convention.

The first session of the convention will be devoted to organizing and the appointment of committees. Tomorrow evening there will be a mass meeting at which the candidates for Governor and United States Senator will speak, and Wednesday, the business of the convention will be transacted.

HALE SHOT AT WRIGHT.

THE LATTER USED A FRIEND FOR A SHIELD.

Hale Claims That He Was Robbed of a $300 Diamond Stud in Wright's Restaurant at No. 115 West Second Street—Hale Arrested Early This Morning.

J. J. Hale, a young man for some time employed as janitor in the Hollenbeck Hotel, shot at C. N. Wright, proprietor of the Rival restaurant at No. 115 West Second street, in his place of business about 11:30 o'clock last night. Wright anticipated what was coming and dodged into an adjoining hallway leading to private rooms before the bullet was spent. Hale was arrested on First street near Broadway, on the street in front of his lodgings, by Detective Flammers and Officer Broadhead at 1:55 o'clock this morning.

The cause for the shooting dates back to last Saturday night, when Hale, a regular patron of Wright's, went into his restaurant to eat. Hale claims that when he emerged, some minutes later, he was without his diamond stud, which he values at $300. He says he believes he was relieved of it there, not, however, accusing any one in particular.

Wright has been aware of this intimation by Hale of robbery committed in his place, since the morning following the night the incident is presumed to have occurred. Hale informed Wright of his belief in connection with the disappearance of his stone last Sunday morning, but he told Hale, Wright says, that he did not lose the pin in his restaurant, advising him to direct his search elsewhere.

Yesterday morning, Wright says, Hale visited him in his store and told him, the restaurant man claims, that if he did not return the diamond by 9 o'clock that evening, he would do him violence. Later in the day, Wright asserts, the woman who consorts with Hale told him to beware, as Hale intended to shoot him. Last night, accordingly, Wright says that while sitting at his desk near the window, he saw Hale on the street transferring his gun from his hip pocket to his coat pocket. He waited until he saw the steel flash and then jumped from his chair and, grabbing hold of "Joe" Martin, who was near, got behind him, making of his friend, incidentally, a target, and in that manner backed into the hall, and then ran down into hiding behind a protecting door.

Meanwhile, the shot had been fired from a 22-caliber revolver, making but a small dent in the wall. Besides the employés, there was but one person in the place, and he sat on the east side of the table.

Hale made a hasty egress from the place, and, according to people who say they saw the affair, met the woman in the alley, gave her the gun and was lost to view for nearly two hours. When arrested Hale was unarmed.

Hale claims to work for newspapers in some indefinite capacity, and asserts he is now employed by the Record and San Francisco Chronicle, but his statements are open to question. Wright gives him a hard reputation, alleging that Hale is a former Bakersfield gambler, and that there he had the sobriquet of "Diamond Jack," by reason of his passion for wearing these stones.

Hale's consort says she offered Wright $10 for the return of the diamond, supposed to have been stolen in his place of business, promising him that nothing would be said if it were returned. She says Wright answered her, "You can't bluff me in that way." She told Hale of this, and he, enraged at the answer, brooding over the affair and partly drunk, hurried down to Wright's place and shot at him.

"Rubberneck" Defined.

[New York Sun:] Thomas Vlanblocum, 16 years old, of 77 Rosevelt street, was arraigned in Center-street Court yesterday by Policeman Schultz of the Oak-street station on a charge of disorderly conduct. Schultz told Magistrate Cornell that Vanblocum had been belaboring another small boy at the time of the arrest.

"Sammy Burne called me a rubber neck," said Vanblocum, "so of course, I soaked him."

"What's a rubber neck?" asked Magistrate Cornell.

"Give it up," said Lawyer Costello, who appeared for the boy.

"It's beyond me," confessed Policeman Patton, who arraigns the prisoners.

"I did know, but I've forgotten," said Roundsman Lane.

Magistrate Cornell called up a small boy who was awaiting arraignment on a charge of shooting craps in Baxter street. The question was put to him and he smiled in conscious superiority.

"Ah, dat's easy," he said, with a grin. "A rubber neck is a guy dat's tonin' his nut aroun' ter give de glad hand to ev'ry purty goil dat passes. Den he's a nosy bloke dat's all de time a-puttin' his neck outer joint ter see wot ev'rybody's doin.' He's a Johnny Pry, dat's wot he is. Dem fellers oughter take de hinges outer dere necks."

"A remarkably lucid explanation," said the magistrate, as he fined Vanblocum $5. The lad's mother paid the fine.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—In the center field of "The Bivouac of the Dead," the great amphitheater of the National Cemetery at Arlington, President McKinley and three of his Cabinet today joined 6000 other citizens in doing honor to the patriotic dead. The ceremonies were held simultaneously in different parts of the cemetery, but the main ceremonies were in the amphitheater close to the Lee mansion.

There were some twenty-five hundred people gathered, while on the platform was a distinguished company headed by President McKinley, Vice-President Hobart, Secretary of War Alger, Secretary of the Treasury Gage, Secretary of Agriculture Wilson and United States Senator Thurston, the orator of the day. Just back of them sat Commissioner of Pensions Evans and other officials, the Chinese Minister and the Korean Minister and representatives from other legations. Prior to the ceremonies there was a procession of members of the Grand Army, the Sons of Veterans, the Woman's Relief Corps, ex-soldiers and the general public, headed by the Fourth Artillery band, halting for a brief service at the "Tomb of the Unknown," the band meanwhile playing a dirge, and then marching through the grounds, proceeded to the work of decorating the graves.

The President and party were very prompt in arriving, and soon after they reached the platform the assembly was called to order by Commander Arthur Hendricks of the Department of the Potomac, G.A.R. The exercises embraced a number of addresses, poems, singing by a quartette and the customary reading of orders. The feature of the ceremonies, however, was the address of Senator Thurston of Nebraska, who was introduced as one always ready to lend his aid to the cause of liberty and patriotism. His oration was listened to most attentively by the audience, and prolonged applause greeted his reference to the absence of sectionalism and the the presence of Admiral Dewey in the harbor of Manila.

SENATOR THURSTON'S SPEECH.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Senator Thurston said:

"'How sleep the brave who sink to rest,
"'By all our country's wishes blest;
"'By fairy hands their knell is rung,
"'By form unseen their dirge is sung.'

"Blessed are the dead whose memory is perpetuated by the flower service of a grateful people, and how truly immortal are those who give their lives for liberty. To have lived long, purposeless, neutral years is nothing; to have lived a few glorious hours, to have bravely faced the infinite; to have calmly met the Master in humanity's cause is sublime.

Why mourn for those who slumber here? Their epitaphs are written in the grandest history of the ages. Before them will reverently pass the procession of centuries. And every headstone roundabout, even those without a name, will be given honorable place in the Mighty Monument that is to commemorate the ennobling and uplifting of the human race.

"My countrymen, these men who died may not have known, but you and I know now, that the roar of their battles was but the echo of God's footsteps moving on. I am a believer in an overruling Providence, in the infinite wisdom that guides the distiny of nations, as of men. I am deeply impressed with the thought that we as a people are struggling onward and upward to the fulfillment of a supreme purpose.

"It was God's providence that kept the new world in all its virgin strength and of men who had realized a civilization fit to be planted here. It was God's providence that gave strength and courage and victory to the little band of sturdy patriots who wrought the mighty circle of American independence.

"It spoke in every line of the Declaration of Independence; it inspired the pen of Emancipation and the sword of Appomattox. It inspired Washington, Lincoln and Grant. It selected each for his glorious work, so gloriously performed. Let the fool answer how he will, I prefer to see the finger of supreme design.

"The finger may be, is even now, moving toward another man; a man who shall lead our triumphant hosts to a glorious victory for liberty and humanity, who shall wreak God's vengeance on wicked, cruel, merciless Spain, and drive from this hemisphere the last vestige of tyranny and oppression. And it may well be that some sword, sheathed in defeat by the judgment of God that liberty might be the heritage of every American child, will now, by command of Jehovah Himself, leap from its scabbard to give liberty and self-government to the oppressed and down-trodden people of the beautiful island of Cuba.

"What an inspiring sight to see those who fought against each other, now rallying under the one flag, exulting and rejoicing that the azure field of the Union banner holds in equal honor every star of Statehood, and singing together the rearranged music of the Union "Yankee Doodle" and "Dixie," the favorite airs.

"Under normal conditions, I am opposed to sermonizing, to the reading of homilies, and to the discussion of public questions on Decoration day. I believe our service should be a love service of prayer and praise and song; that out of the heroic memories of the past we should draw new inspirations of patriotism and find new ardor for the preservation of the free institutions which come to us through the baptism of fire and blood.

"But, my countrymen, for the first time in the history of Decoration day, we are at war. Once more upon the soil of old Virginia, the Federal bayonets are agleam. From day to day the boys in blue pass by us; the reveille of the bugle is heard even in this city of the silent dead. This time, thank God, the war is not sectional. There are no brothers arrayed against brothers; no Americans against Americans. There is only one uniform in all the land, one flag in all the sky, one sentiment in the breasts of all the heroes of the republic.

"War is a terrible thing, to be shunned and avoided, whenever and as far as possible. But I have no sympathy with those who believe that war should be avoided at the sacrifice of national honor, at the expense of humanity, or the loss of liberty. I cannot love those who turn deaf ears to the unceasing cries of the victims of tyranny, inhumanity and barbarity, because liberty and relief can only come through the shedding of blood.

"If I read God's history aright, civilization and Christianity have not come from the survival of the fittest, but by the sacrifice of the best. What puny human intelligence dares to assert that the blood of Lexington was not sacred, even as the blood of Calvary?

"Warren at Bunker Hill, Baker at Balls Bluff, Bagley at Cardena, all gloriously died to hasten the coming of God's kingdom on earth. Yea, and Dewey in the harbor of Manila was the blessed messenger of God's just wrath.

"I do not know when this war with Spain will cease. I do not know what sacrifices we may yet be called upon to make. I do not know how many headstones may yet be added to this city of the dead. I do not know how many mothers' hearts may mourn. I do not know how many altars may be desolated.

"But I do know that whatever the cost, the delivering of the new world from the barbarity and inhumanity of Spain's merciless despotism will be worth it all. I do know that the cementing together of the hearts of all the people in enduring friendship and abiding love; I do know that the consecration of American energies, the uplifting of American sentiment in so unselfish and holy a cause, I do know that this touching of elbow under the one flag by the men and the sons of the men who faced each other on our battlefields under two flags; I do know that this accomplishment of God's great purpose will bring to the American people God's choicest blessing and reward.

"And I have faith to believe that from above the opened heavens the great war President, Abraham Lincoln, looks down approvingly upon our great war President, William McKinley, while Grant and Lee, could they but speak to us today, would fire their hearts to their old lieutenants now in command of the armies of the United States with the inspiring cry 'On to Cuba.'

"Rest in peace, oh, mighty dead. The cause for which you fought can never be assailed again. Rest in peace—the race whose freedom you achieved will bless you with their latest breath. Rest in peace—the Union you preserved remains forever, and liberty, equal rights, and justice is the heritage of your descendants to the Judgment Day. God bless the men who followed the flag."

NAVAL SERVICES.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The Presidential party left Arlington at the conclusion of Senator Thurston's oration, driving almost immediately back to the city. Hon. John C. Chaney, ex-Assistant Attorney-General of the United States, also delivered an oration, in the course of which he predicted that no nation whose most glorious boast is the feats of its bull-fighters can long withstand the advancing columns of our military hosts.

Simultaneously with the exercises in the amphitheater a small assemblage gathered on the front porch of the mansion, where the Confederate chieftain Lee spent much of his life, to attend special naval services at the tomb of Admiral Porter. Ex-Secretary of the Navy Hilary A. Herbert of Alabama was the speaker of the day and an address was delivered also by W. H. Michael, chief clerk of the State Department. Secretary Herbert said in part:

"Here rest the hallowed remains of heroes of the army and navy of the union, but here also are heroes of the Confederacy, all sleeping in the same soil, and covered by the same flag and ex-Union and ex-Confederate soldiers and sailors are here alike to pay united tribute to the deeds of those who made forever glorious the epoch of our great civil war.

"Never was there a civil war like ours and never were the fruits of a war richer or more beneficient. There was no compromise. Secession, the issue, and slavery, the incident, were settled forever; nothing left for dispute and as the God of nature intended it should be, we became at last one country, such a union of State and of people as Washington and Franklin and Jackson fought for, dreamed of and planned for, but never lived to see. I would not pluck a leaf from the chaplet that adorns the brow of any soldier of that war, Federal or Confederate, yet it is only fair to say that while history has done no more than justice to them, it has not done full justice to the sailors of the civil war.

"The Union navy achieved results out of all proportion to the numbers enlisted in the army and navy, aye even out of all proportion to the proportions of cost of the two branches of the service. Certainly no one knows better than the Confederates the telling effect of the blows delivered by the United States navy during the civil war, and it may be that without them we should have had two governments where we now have one, and that Wheeler and Fitzhugh Lee would be today commanding army corps on the south side of a line of forts and custombouses running across this continent from east to west, with Brooke and Shafter commanding on the northern side of the line.

"Let us unite, my countrymen, in the prayer that in the war we are now waging for liberty's and humanity's sake, our soldiers and our sailors may continue to be worthy of those from whose loins they have sprung, and that the future of our beloved country may be as bright as is the promise of today."

A MILITARY ASPECT.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

DES MOINES (Iowa.) May 30.—The presence of 800 members of two regiments of the Iowa National Guard comprising the troops still remaining in camp McKinley contributed to give Memorial day a military aspect. Where salutes had been fired in previous years by single companies of the National Guard entire regiments participate today. The memorial address was delivered by John N. Baldwin of Council Bluffs.

FEATURES AT STOCKTON.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

STOCKTON, May 30.—Memorial day was generally observed in Stockton, the town wearing a holiday air from early morning. Flags were at half-mast all over the city, all the public offices and banks were closed, and many of the stores.

A feature new to memorial-day parades here was the presence of the old volunteer firemen in the procession. Another new feature was the participation in the parade by the school children of the city, who turned out several hundred strong, this division of the column occupying a full block. The little girls were nearly all attired in white dresses, and most of them carried flags or wore sashes of red, white and blue.

Rawlins Post, of the G.A.R., turned out to its full strength, and the remnant of Cos. A and B of the National Guard paraded, though without arms. Rev. Boyer was the orator of the day.

THEIR BUSY DAY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Decoration day at the War Department was a holiday in name only, as far as the greatest part of the officials were concerned, as they were at their desks for a good portion of the day. The department was technically closed, but, notwithstanding this a large number of visitors saw Secretary Alger and his assistants. The Secretary remained until about 11 o'clock, when he left the department, intending to go to the Arlington National Cemetery to witness the exercises there. Assistant Secretary Meiklejohn also intended to go, too, but was detained by pressure of business matters.

Maj.-Gen. Butler of South Carolina, recently appointed, was among the callers at the War Department this morning. The general expects to return to his South Carolina home in a day or two to attend to some important matters, after which he will return to Washington for his orders.

YOUNGSTERS WERE ABSENT.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

DETROIT (Mich.,) May 30.—Memorial day was celebrated as usual here, although the absence of the young militiamen who hitherto escorted the veterans in their parade was keenly apparent. Mayor Maybury and others made addresses in the Auditorium, and exercises in honor of the nation's dead were held.

BLUE AND GRAY UNITE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

LEXINGTON (Ky.,) May 30.—For the first time since the war the Confederate veterans joined with the G.A.R. in observing Memorial day and decorating the graves of Union soldiers. The ceremonies at the cemetery were most impressive.

IN NATIONAL CEMETERIES.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NASHVILLE (Tenn.,) May 30.—The graves of the Federal soldiers in the national cemeteries near Nashville and Murfreesboro were decorated today.

GETTYSBURG'S SACRED GROUND.

More People Participated in the Exercises Than Ever Before.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

GETTYSBURG (Pa.,) May 30.—The Memorial-day exercises held at the National Cemetery here today were participated in by more people than ever before. The school children, members of the Ladies' Aid Society and the people generally, strewed flowers over the graves of the soldier dead. Congressman George J. Benner of this district presided, and the principal address was delivered by Hon. Webster Davis, Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

CHATTANOOGA'S SILENT ARMY.

Thirteen Thousand Graves Covered With Flowers and Flags.

[ASSCCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CHATTANOOGA (Tenn.,) May 30.—On account of the volunteer army encampment on ground where thousands of Union soldiers are buried here who lost their lives during the civil war, the Decoration day exercises today were unusually impressive. The 13,000 graves in the national cemetery were covered with flowers and flags.

At 3 p. m. a long procession formed, and to the strains of martial music furnished by the Fourth Ohio Regiment Band, marched to the stand in the cemetery where the exercises were held. The annual oration was delivered by Capt. Henry A. Castle of Washington, D. C. The benediction was pronounced by Frank M. Brunner, chaplain-in-chief of the G.A.R., and a salute was fired over the graves by a detachment from Camp Thomas.

AT INDIANAPOLIS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.,) May 30.—Memorial day was generally observed here today. Ex-Judge B. W. Howe, who delivered the principal address, dwelt on the close relations between the North and South, and advocated the returning of the southern flags.

PRIOR EFFORTS ECLIPSED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CLEVELAND (O.,) May 30.—The Memorial day exercises today eclipsed in many respects all former events of like character in the history of Cleveland. The present war with Spain has increased the general interest in the Memorial day exercises, and as a result a number of civic and semi-military organizations marched in the Decoration-day parade for the first time. Appropriate exercises were held, and the graves of the dead in all of the various cemeteries were profusely strewn with flowers.

WHERE JENKINS LIVED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PITTSBURG (Pa.,) May 30.—Memorial day was more generally observed in Pittsburgh and vicinity than for many years, due, of course, to the war feeling. There were no special decorations at the grave of Lieut. Jenkins of the Maine, but the Naval Reserve fired a salute. The day passed without accident or special incident.

CINCINNATI'S LARGEST PARADE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CINCINNATI (O.,) May 30.—Owing to the arrangements now in progress for the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic here next September, the local posts are unusually active and gave the largest parade today ever known here on Memorial day. Starting at 9 a. m., the line of march extended over the principal streets and then special trains took all to Spring Grove Cemetery, where the usual exercises took place.

PLATFORM GIVES WAY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CINCINNATI (O.,) May 30.—At the Suburban Columbia Cemetery today the platform gave way. About one hundred people, mostly children, fell. Many suffered slight injuries.

IMPRESSIVE OBSERVANCE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—Not since the year of its institution has Memorial day had a more impressive observance than that of today. At the Lincoln monument in Fairmount Park, services were held by the George G. Meade Post, No. 1, after which the post visited the grave of Gen. Meade. An address was delivered by Archdeacon Cyrus D. Brady.

At Laurel Hill Cemetery, Gen. Daniel E. Sickles was orator of the day, and an address was also delivered by Gen. St. Clair A. Mulholland. At the tomb of Anna M. Boss, in Monument Cemetery, marked honors were paid.

Col. Fred Taylor Post, No. 19, after attending services, marched to Odd Fellows' Cemetery. In the parade was a pony phaeton containing two little girls, one dressed as America and the other as England. A float capable of seating sixty-five pupils of the public schools, decorated with the national colors of the United States and England, was also a feature.

COPPINGER'S PAST COURTESY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

MOBILE (Ala.,) May 30.—For the first time in local history, there was a general public participation in Decoration-day services at the National Cemetery. Hitherto the services were almost wholly in charge of the colored militia and other societies, although occasionally the southern veterans have taken part. Today there was a union of sentiment and appreciation of the courtesy of Gen. Coppinger, who, with his staff, attended the ceremonies last month at the Confederate Rest.

DAY AT RICHMOND.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

RICHMOND (Va.,) May 30.—Federal Decoration day was observed here by the local G.A.R. post and others going down to the national cemetery at Cold Harbor and decorating the graves there with flowers and hearing a patriotic oration.

The memorial associations of the city, the Confederate Veteran camps, the Sons of Veterans, Daughters of the Confederacy and seventeen of the companies of Virginia volunteers now at Camp Lee marched to Hollywood in a drenching rain, and after the ceremony the greater part of the organizations returned to the city and the ceremonies were conducted at the Second Presbyterian Church.

CHICAGO'S DEMONSTRATION.

Whole Population Turned Out to See a Magnificant Parade.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CHICAGO, May 30.—In addition to the great number of graves of Union soldiers, 6000 Confederate dead lie buried in cemeteries here. Not one of them, Northerner or Southerner, was overlooked today. After the ceremonies at the cemeteries today there was a magnificent parade in the heart of the city. The line of march was ablaze with national colors.

The city has never before on Decoration day seen such an outpouring as greeted the old soldiers today. Practically the whole population turned out to honor the veterans and cheer the volunteer defenders. The parade was composed of six divisions, and was participated in by about all the military organizations, secret societies and marching clubs of the city. The cheers were loudest when the Ninth Battalion of colored soldiers, under Capt. Marshall, fell into line. They will be the first to go out under the new call, and the only representation which this city will have in the call for 75,000 volunteers.

One of the features of the parade which drew forth demonstrations from the crowd was the tattered pennant from the ill-fated battleship Maine, which was borne in the ranks.

ONE SAD EVENT.

Two Privates Buried Just Previous to the Memorial Exercises.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CHICKAMAUGA NATIONAL PARK (Ga.,) May 30.—The greatest excitement and delight prevailed in Camp Thomas today over the rumor that a general order had been issued to all troops in camp here to proceed at once to Tampa. The rumor, when traced to its source by the Associated Press, proved to be only partly true, only eight regiments being affected by an order from the War Department.

These regiments are ordered to proceed at once to Tampa, and the work of preparation began tonight. It is understood that four of the regiments will leave tomorrow, and the other four Wednesday. The regiments ordered out are regarded as the best equipped and most thoroughly prepared of any in the camp.

This order is regarded by the officers and men as an indication that a speedy forward movement is to be made on Cuba and Porto Rico, and as a consequence there was as great rejoicing among the volunteer soldier boys as there was among the regulars when they went to Tampa, under the impression that they were going at once to Cuba.

With those regiments that arrived today, the troops at the park number 45,000; the regiments ordered away number 6000. The First Michigan Infantry, comprising 1021 officers and men; the Second Arkansas, composed of 1022 officers and men, and the Fifty-second Iowa, composed of 900 officers and men, arrived today.

The usual Decoration-day services at the National Cemetery in Chattanooga were varied today by a melancholy event that accentuated the solemnity and impressiveness of the occasion. Just before the decoration services began, two details of soldiers from the Fifth Illinois Regiment entered the cemetery with the bodies of Privates Frank F. Bosley and Ludwig Bohnert of that regiment, both of whom died of pneumonia, accompanied by a detachment of the regimental band, playing a dead march.

Ladies who desired to decorate the graves of the heroes of 1861-65 then then fairly covered the graves of these young heroes in a cause which removes all sectionalism from the Federal cemetery, and makes it now a national cemetery indeed.

ACTUAL ENTHUSIAM.

Even New York Makes an Especial Effort for Decoration Day.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—The celebration of Decoration day in this vicinity was the most noticeable since the nation has had the graves to decorate. Organizations which ordinarily take no part in the exercises turned out today and in addition to the Grand Army men, there were auxiliaries of school cadets and other military organizations.

The procession through the city was witnessed by a vast multitude. The parade was reviewed by Gen. J. P. S. Gobin of Pennsylvania, commander-in-chief of the G.A.R.; Mayor Van Wyck and other prominent civil and military authorities.

Graves of dead heroes in Woodlawn, Calvary, Cypress Hill, Trinity, Greenwood and all the cemeteries in the vicinity of the city were visited by the soldiers and their families. Lafayette Post, No. 140, went to Fort Mill to unveil a statue of Gen. Lafayette, and to present it to the Daughters of the Revolution.

The statue of Farragut in Madison Square, and the tomb of Trinity; the tomb of Phil Kearney in Trinity, the Soldiers' Monument in the same place; the Ericsson Monument at the Battery, and all the statues and tombs of martyrs in the city were decorated. U. S. Grant Post held memorial services at the tomb of Gen. Grant after the parade.

HONOR TO LAFAYETTE.

Americans in Paris Decorate the French Patriot's Tomb.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PARIS, May 30.—[By Atlantic Cable.] With a view to check the blatant pro-Spanish feeling here and enlist the sympathies of Frenchman on the side of America, a special effort was made by the American colony today to do honor to the memory of Lafayette. A big gathering proceeded to his tomb in the Picpus Cemetery, which was decorated with wreaths and mutual flags. The United States Ambassador, Gen. Horace Porter, deposited the American wreaths and in an eloquent speech referred to America's debt to Lafayette and the "unbreakable ties between the two people." He was warmly applauded.

M. Bartholdi followed in the same strain, but he said he deplored the fact that it was believed that there existed a new spirit among modern Americans "which differed from the traditions of the founders of the republic." Continuing, M. Bartholdi said Frenchmen looked to Gen. Porter and Americans like him to "keep the United States faithful to the great principles of liberty and justice which presided at the birth of the republic."

The military band present played the American and French anthems, and all those who attended the ceremony defiled before the tomb.

In connection with the honors to the memory of Lafayette, a banquet was given this evening at the Hotel Continental, where there was a large gathering of Americans. M. Jules Sigfried of the French Senate, said, in the course of an eloquent speech, that he hoped the old friendship between France and America would never be broken.

ON THE COAST.

The Day Celebrated With Unusual Enthusiasm at San Francisco.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—Memorial day was celebrated in this city with more than usual fervor and enthusiasm. The presence of 12,000 volunteer soldiers in the city, representing many of the Eastern States, who have assembled here in response to the President's call for volunteers to uphold the honor of the United States against Spain, lent greater significance to the occasion.

This Memorial day has been an unusually imposing one. Grizzled heroes of the civil war marched with detachments of volunteers representing the rising generation of warriors. Men who fought for their country's honor in the 60's acted as a guard for the young men who have taken up arms for the same cause in the war of today. Besides the two generations of warriors, the parade was participated in by all civic societies. Mayor Phelan, the Board of Supervisors and the Board of Education represented the city. Detachments from the United States navy and the naval reserve, the United States army and the United States volunteers, the Veteran Guards of the Grand Army of the Republic, Sons of the American Revolution, the Veterans of the Mexican War and other organizations were represented.

The volunteer forces now gathered in this city were represented by the First Colorado Infantry, Sixth California Infantry, First Washington Infantry, Troop A, National Guard of California. The Utah Volunteer Light Battery attended the literary exercises at the cemetery and fired the national salute.

The procession was witnessed by thousands of people, who assembled along the line of march to cheer the living veterans of the civil war for past deeds and to urge the soldiers who are going to the present war to follow the example of their fathers in keeping the Stars and Stripes ever before the world as the emblem of liberty. Many beautiful floats commemorative of the war of the 60's and of the war now being waged against Spain were conspicuous throughout the parade. The floral floats were magnificent.

The literary exercises were held at the Odd Fellows' cemetery. The George H. Thomas Post held special exercises at the National Cemetery at the Presidio.

Interest in the volunteer regiments which marched in the parade centered between the Minnesota and Colorado men. Both regiments turned out in full strength. The Colorado volunteers had the right of line. The volunteers turned out in light marching order, and were very enthusiastically received. The crowds gathered on the sidewalks went almost wild when the volunteers marched by, and pelted them with flowers and handed out fruit and other delicacies. The cheers which greeted both the veterans and volunteers echoed and reechoed along the line. Never has a parade in this city aroused such enthusiasm.

HIS LAST TRAMP.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

BUTTE (Mont.,) May 30.—Capt. Elias Lytle, aged 75 years, a Confederate veteran living near town, started for this city this morning to take part in the Memorial day services. On a trestle on the outskirts he was run down by a Northern Pacific train and killed.

AT THE STATE CAPITAL.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SACRAMENTO, May 30.—Several thousand people attended the Memorial-day services here this afternoon, the streets being crowded along the line of march. Besides the Grand Army veterans, the members of the National Guard, Co. G, who are still here, and the Uniformed Rank Knights of Pythias, the two relief corps, and the ladies of the Grand Army were in line. After the regular memorial exercises were concluded, a literary programme was given, Comrade G. W. Arbuckle of San Francisco being the orator of the day and delivering an eloquent address to the large assemblage.

SAN DIEGO SERVICES.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

SAN DIEGO, May 30.—Memorial day was impressively observed. There was a large procession, followed by patriotic exercises at the operahouse, T. B. Hartzell was grand marshal and Judge J. Wade McDonald was orator of the day. The several trains over the Cuyamaca Railroad took hundreds of visitors to the cemetery during the afternoon, laded with flowers. Acting Commander Murdock conducted the regular exercises of the G.A.R. posts, and the remainder of the day was spent in distributing flowers over the graves.

REMEMBERED THE MAINE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN JOSE, May 30.—Memorial day was commemorated here by the decorations of graves, a street parade, in which the Union veterans, the civic societies and the children of the public schools took part, and literary and musical exercises in the evening. The orator was Dr. McClish, president of the University of the Pacific. At the cemetery, after the graves had been decorated, an imitation battleship, ten feet long, representing the Maine, constructed by the battlefield veterans, was brought forward and covered with flowers.

SANTA ROSA EXERCISES.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SANTA ROSA, May 30.—Over 2000 persons attended the Memorial day exercises in the Athenaeum. C. D. Summer of San Francisco delivered an oration, and Dist.-Atty. Seaswill read Lincoln's Gettysburg address. The parade to the cemetery was a long one, and included Ellsworth Post, G.A.R., and Co. E., Fifth Infantry.

DAY AT IONE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

IONE, May 30.—All the civic organizations here participated in the Memorial day parade. The cadets from the Preston school were also in line. Fred L. Stewart of Oakland was the orator.

ENTHUSIASM AT FRESNO.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

FRESNO, May 30.—The most enthusiastic celebration of Memorial day in many years was held here today. The principal stores were closed, and six fraternal organizations took part in the procession, besides the fire department and the school children. Cos. C and F of the National Guard were followed by the G.A.R., the ex-Confederate veterans and the Mexican war veterans. The address at the cemetery was delivered by Hon. N. L. F. Bachman, ex-Assemblyman from the Sixty-third District, and the graves of both Union and Confederate soldiers were covered with flowers.

In the evening musical and literary exercises were held at the Methodist Church, the principal address being delivered by Comrade Sanderson.

EX-JOHNNIES TURNED OUT.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

HOLLISTER, May 30.—Many ex-Confederates turned out with the Grand Army in the Memorial day parade. The address was delivered by C. W. Bailey of San José.

TRACY'S GRAVES BEDECKED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

TRACY, May 30.—The graves of veterans of the civil war were strewn with flowers by the school children today.

SHORTRIDGE ORATED.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PETALUMA, May 30.—The Memorial day exercises today were the most impressive ever held in this city. A procession composed of Co. C, Fifth Regiment, N.G.C., members of the Grand Army, Womans' Relief Corps and many citizens proceeded to Cypress Hill Cemetery, where the formal exercises were held. Samuel Shortridge was the orator of the day.

SANTA CRUZ CELEBRATION.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SANTA CRUZ, May 30.—Memorial day was generally observed in this county. In the procession here were the Naval Reserve, the G.A.R., Woman's Relief Corps and many school children. Rev. E. H. Hayden was the orator. Exercises were held at the Catholic Cemetery, where Father McNames spoke.

OBSERVED AT VISALIA.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

VISALIA, May 30.—The Grand Army post here observed Memorial day with appropriate ceremonies.

The Ideal Wife.

[Seattle Post-Intelligencer:] Of course she is amiable; in fact, she is obtuse; so that she has often been called a fool by dispassionate observers. Of course she has a patented smile always ready. Of course she is always to be found like one of the plush parlor set, in place and at home. Of course she is always ready to listen to her husband's yarns, to smile when he explains to her ho wmuch cleverer he is than all other men, or to sympathize when he tells her how Smith punched his head. Of course she has a houseful of children on whom she lavishes all that remains of the affection bestowed upon the head of the family.

She never "makes a day of it" shopping down town. Oh, no, she is not like Smith's wife. She never goes to balls or matinées. Oh, no, She has no ball dresses to begin with, and then the tax on whisky and tobacco make matinée tickets unobtainable for her.

She is always to be found at home doing her duty by her family, patching, darning, dusting, baking, nursing and waiting. She is like a sore finger, always on hand and very tender, but with all tendency to rise taken out of her by caustic application. She never is guilty of those things which some men talk about after dinner at the club.

Poor woman, she never has a chance. She has never yet felt the end of the rope; its tension has been too tight. She is the ideal wife, seldom found, but when discovered, always kept to her negative level by the adequation of positive properties possessed by him who balances the scales.

The ideal wife is usually married to a de'il of a husband. This is what makes her ideal. She was not born so. She grows so from association with selfishness and other disagreeable qualities. She is the product of civilized selfishness, and as a beast of burden is a great success. Cowlike, she is gentle and conducive to the comfort of her fellows. The ideal wife seldom lives long, but usually leaves numerous children to bewail her. Her avenger comes in the guise of wife No. 2, who is generally her antithesis and the Nemesis of the gentle spirit whose place she fills.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a favorite for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. The prompt relief which it affords and its pleasant way make it an ideal remedy for those ailments. Thousands have testified to its superior excellence.

KISER'S LITTLE CLIP.

FOUR SECONDS CUT FROM KILOMETER TIME.

Paced by a Quintet at Woodside Park in Philadelphia He Makes a Fine Showing.

BEATEN AT HALF A MILE.

JOHNNIE JOHNSON WINS THE MILE INTERNATIONAL RACE.

Eleventh Annual Road Race at Irvington, N. J.—Results at Harlem—Ball at Philadelphia and at Other Points.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—Earl Kiser of Dayton, O., this afternoon clipped four seconds off the American record for one kilometer, on the one-third-of-a-mile board bicycle track at Woodside Park. Kiser's time was 1:01 2-5. Kiser was paced by a quintet, which he followed in fine style. The former record was 1:05 2-5, made by Eduard Taylor at Manhattan Beach three days ago.

In the half-mile event, Kiser, who is the present champion at this distance, was beaten by O. L. Stevens of Ottumwa, Iowa, and A. C. Mertens of St. Paul, in a driving finish. There was less than a wheel's length between the three men.

In the one-mile international professional race, Johnnie Johnson of Minnesota won by over fifteen yards.

One mile, professional, handicap: Johnnie Johnson won, Stevens second, Mertens third; time 2:04 1-5.

Five miles: Johnson and Cissac defeated H. S. Homes and Jay Eaton; time 11:33.

WHEELING AROUND CHICAGO.

Less Competitors Than Usual on Account of Poor Roads.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CHICAGO, May 30.—The twelfth Chicago road race was contested today over the wheeling course. The distance is about twenty-five miles. The roads were in very poor condition on account of recent rains. There were 165 candidates for honors, as against 496 last year.

Joseph Ringl, nine-minute man, won. time 1:13:58; W. B. Ferguson (5 minutes' handicap) second; Gus Hagling (5 minutes' handicap,) third; M. M. Strong (7 minutes,) fourth; G. B. Larsen (4 minutes,) fifth. Orlando Adams won the time prize, 1:08:48; John Nelson second, 1:09:32; J. W. Bell third, 1:09:47; James Levy fourth, 1:09:50; H. Hamburg fifth, 1:09:55.

COOK COUNTY RACE.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CHICAGO, May 30.—Later in the day, over eighteen miles of the same course, the second annual Cook County Cyclists' race was won by Thomas C. Clark from the eight-minute mark; time 59:13. J. D. Stephens was time winner, 54:27. Of the 212 entries, eight were on the scratch, the rest having had handicaps ranging from 30 seconds to 8 minutes.

AMERICA GOT A SPILL.

French Bicycle Champion Defeated Vernier in Twenty-mile Match.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—Edouard Taylore, champion of France, today defeated Joe Venier of Philadelphia, in a match race for twenty miles, at the Decoration day meet at Willow Grove bicycle track. Taylore was first away and led for one lap, when he lost his pacer, Vernier taking first position and leading at the first mile in 1:52 4-5. This position was maintained until after the tenth mile.

While on the back stretch of the first lap of the eleventh mile, a quad pacing Venier made a bad spill, upsetting Venier. This gave Taylore a big advantage and he went ahead. The Philadelphia boy got himself together and went after Taylore, but was unable to catch him, the Frenchman steadily increasing his lead until he crossed the finish line one and one-half laps ahead of the local rider. Taylore's time for the twenty miles was 37:13. New records were established at the third, fourth and sixth miles, the time being respectively 5:24 2-5, 7:08 3-5, 10:45½.

In the only other professional event Major Taylor, the colored rider, won in a splendid sprint. Attendance 8000.

OLD RIVALS' RACE.

Eddie Bald Beats Cooper After Three Exemplary Heats.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WALTHAM (Mass.,) May 30.—The bicycle meet at the Velodrome this afternoon brought together 5000 people. The chief event was the international match, one mile race, between Cooper, Bald and Jap Eden. The latter failed to show up on account of poor condition. This left the two old rivals to fight it out and Bald won after three exemplary heats, all being practically settled at the tape.

In the ten-mile pursuit race between Kaser and Bourotte, the latter caught the former at four and three-quarter miles, in spite of the fact that Bourotte was slow in getting away, giving Kaser a chance to gain fifty yards. Bourotte's excellent riding is shown from the fact that his time was ahead of previous records in pursuit races for the same distance. Summaries:

One mile, international race: Bald won, Cooper second; time 2:23 4-5.

Ten mile, pursuit race, between Kaser of Switzerland and Bourotte of Paris: Won by Bourotte, who caught Kaser at four and three-quarter miles, in eleven minutes flat. Time by miles: First, 2:24¾; second, 4:54; third, 7:27 1-5; fourth, 9:59 2-5.

HALF-MILE CHAMPIONSHIP.

Gardiner's Fast Drive Cut Out Freeman at the Tape.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PROVIDENCE (R. I.,) May 30.—Arthur Gardiner won the half-mile championship today by a fast drive late in the race, just cutting out Freeman at the tape. Summaries:

Half a mile, championship: Arthur Gardiner won, H. B. Freeman second, J. B. Bowler third; time 1:02 2-5.

One mile, open: Tom Butler won, J. B. Bowler second, Dr. Brown third; time 2:11 1-5.

Two mile, handicap: Becker (140 yards,) won; Bowden (160 wards,) second; L. Hanna (180 yards,) third; time 4:26 1-5.

MOORLEIN HANDICAP.

Witnessed by the Greatest Crowd Ever Seen at Oakley.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CINCINNATI, May 30.—The greatest crowd ever seen on the Oakley track witnessed the running of the Moorlein handicap this afternoon. Won't Dance and Joe Ullman were made favorites at 2 to 1. Rosinante was next at 11 to 5. Three Bars was as good as 3 to 1 at one time, but went to the post at 5 to 2. Three Bars was never in danger, winning galloping by three lengths. Results:

Five furlongs, selling: Glad Hand won, Bannie second, Rosa Masso third; time 1:02⅛.

Six and one-half furlongs: Don Quixote won, Margaret Jane second, Brighties third; time 1:21¾.

Five furlongs: Maceo won, Estabrooke second, Voix third; time 1:03¼.

The Moorlein handicap, one mile and an eighth: Three Bars won, Mill Stream second, Won't Dance third; time 1:55¼.

One mile, selling: reat Bend won, Boardmarker second, Count Navarro third; time, 1:43¾.

BLOOD IN THEIR EYES.

San Jose and Fresno Go in for Hot Baseball.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN JOSE, May 30.—What is generally conceded to be the finest game of baseball ever played in San José came off today between the San Josés and Fresnos, the former winning by a score of 2 to 1. Each team was in fine fettle and played with blood in its eye. The features were the fielding of the San José team, the pitching of Arrick, a new man who took Iberg's place, and the batting of McCue and Kelley. San José scored in the third and ninth, and Fresno in the eighth. Score:
San José, 2; base hits, 5; error, 1.
Fresno, 1; base hits, 7; errors, 8.
Batteries—Arrick and Kent; Thomas and McCue.
Umpire—Sweeney.

CALLED IT A DRAW.

Barry and Leon Fight Twenty Rounds for Bantam Championship.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—Jimmy Barry and Caspar Leon met at the Lenox Athletic Club tonight for a twenty-round contest for the bantam championship of the world, and after fighting twenty rounds, which were productive of most scientific work by the boys, the referee, Johnny White of this city, called it a draw. There was little to choose between the boxers at the finish.

Barry was a big favorite at 2 to 1, but the money was lost on the result. Several bets were made at odds on, that Leon would not stand six rounds, fifteen rounds and the limit were made by some sanguine friends of the little Chicago boxer. The New Yorkers, who snapped these up, were the only winners during the night.

Barry weighed 109 pounds and Leon 106. Johnny White of this city was mutually agreed upon to referee the bout.

The mill was lively from the beginning. Barry rushing the fighting, but having no material advantage. In fact, the exchanges were about evenly divided, and no really telling blows were struck up to the thirteenth round. In the thirteenth round Barry did some wild fighting, and Leon landed a stinging left on his nose which started the blood. Leon ended the round with a hard fight swing on Barry's neck.

The fourteenth round was also in Leon's favor. In the fifteenth, during a clinch, Barry landed his left on Caspar's ear, but the referee said nothing. In the sixteenth Leon jabbed a hard left on the face without a return. Leon landed left and right, and put a hard right hook on Barry's jay and a right jab over the heart. In the seventeenth Caspar jabbed his right on the wind, which made Barry grunt. Barry uppercut. Leon jabbed left on face as the gong sounded.

Round eighteen was without advantage of either man, and in the nineteenth Barry rushed again, but gained nothing by it. Leon was bleeding from the nose at the end of the round, but Barry looked the weaker of the two. In the closing round, Leon landed left on face and Barry clinched. At close quarters they exchanged rights and lefts on the head repeatedly, and each landed two hard ones on the face. The decisoin was popular with the spectators.

The premliminary bouts between Bennie Leon and Mike Lyon, ten rounds, and between Jimmy Rose and Tim Callahan, also ten rounds, resulted in draws.

SNAPPY PLAYS.

The Gilt Edges Snap Up the Stockton Visitors.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SACRAMENTO, May 30.—The Gilt Edges defeated the Stocktons at Snowflake Park today by a score of 12 to 2. The game was replete with snappy plays, and won the plaudits of the 2000 spectators. The features of the game were a wonderful left-hand stop by Lockhead and double plays by Lockhead, Dennis and Caverly of the Gilt Edges, and by Billings, Smith and Muller of the Stocktons. Score:
Gilt Edges, 12; base hits, 17; errors, 2.
Stockton, 2; base hits, 5; errors, 6.
Batteries—Doyle and Stanley; Stewart and Peters.
Umpire—Levy.

PACER BROKE DOWN.

Michael Made His Race Without the Electrical Machine.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—The bicycle meet for the benefit of the Maine Monument fund at Ambrose Park today, was attended by more than eight thousand persons. The electric pacing machine, which was to hae been employed by Jimmy Michael in his attempt to break the world's ten-mile record broke down, and Michael, with strange tandem pacers and single riders, covered five miles in 10:46 4-5.

Match race, professional, won by Leon Boulay of France; time 3:05.

One mile, handicap, professional, won by G. I. Cramer of Chicago; time 1:02.

HARLEM REGATTA.

Ten Eyck Defeats Juvenal—Weld Clubs Victorious.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

NEW YORK, May 30.—At the thirty-second annual regatta of the Harlem Regatta Club, Ten Eyck defeated Juvenal of the Pennsylvania Barge Club and Mackey of the Nassau Boat Club, in the senior singles. After the half mile, it was simply a procession.

The senior eight-oar shell race was won by the Weld Boat Club of Harvard by a quarter of a length over the Bohemian Boat Club of New York. In the junior eight, the Weld Club won over Columbia and the New York Athletic Club.

LINTON'S WONDERFUL WORK.

Wins a Thirty-mile Race and Makes Nine Records.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

BOSTON, May 30.—Tom Linton, the Englishman, was the star rider of the annual bicycle race meet of the Massachusetts division of the L.A.W. at Charles River Park today, and he is credited with having added to his accomplishments nine world's records in his thirty-mile paced race with Harry Elkes of Glens Falls, N. Y.

The winning margin for Linton, a little less than half a mile, hardly shows how close the race was for over twenty miles. Linton finished fresh in 56:50 1-5, or 1m. 40s. under the record for the distance. Elkes's time was 57:44.

Harlem Results.

CHICAGO, May 30.—Harlem results; track good; weather fair.

Six furlongs: Arrezzo won, Nellie Baker second, Dixie Lee third; time 1:20¼.

Five furlongs: Lone Princess won, Tenole second, The Tory third; time 1:05¼.

Ten-mile Multicycle Race.

BRIDGEPORT (Conn.,) May 30.—Over two thousand people attended the bike races held at Pleasure Beach this afternoon. The principal event of the day was the ten-mile multicycle paced race between Eddy McDuffie of Cambridge, Mass., and Fred C. Hoyt of Bridgeport. Hoyt took the lead at the start and held it for two miles, but poor work on the part of his pacers caused him to fall behind, and McDuffie held the lead from then on. McDuffie rode a fine race, and after the three-mile mark had been passed was never in danger of losing. McDuffie's time for the ten miles was 18:48¾.

Frenchmen Outwheeled Americans.

NEW YORK, May 30.—Over thirty thousand persons attended the Berkeley oval bicycle races today. The International pursuit match race, France vs. America, was one of the prettiest events of the kind ever see in New York this year. It was won by Gougoltz and Lamberack of France from Sanger and Swansbrough of America. The Frenchmen caught the Americans after going a distance of 3¾ miles; time 7:25.

It Was McFarland's Day.

NEW YORK, May 30.—The annual Memorial-day meet of the Atalanta Wheel Club was held at Waverly Park today. There was a good programme and 1200 persons were present. The winners of professional events follow:

One mile: F. A. McFarland, San José, won; time 2:22 4-5.

Two miles, handicap: McFarland won; time 5:06 1-5.

Kansas City Road Race.

KANSAS CITY, May 30.—Probably 10,000 people witnessed the annual road race today over the Waldo course, ten miles. Albert Laitner of Kansas City, scratch, won the first time prize in 26:38½, and L. O. Mitchell, who was allowed seven minutes, won the place prize. His time was 31:31.

All in One Inning.

SANTA CRUZ, May 30.—The local baseball team defeated the Oaklands here today. Score:

Santa Cruz, 11; Oakland, 5. The visitors made all their runs in the eighth inning.

Stole a Tent.

Frank Clayton and Joe Williams were arrested yesterday evening for the theft of a tent from F. Withrow's corral, No. 343 New High street. Clayton, when charged with stealing the tent, claimed to have bought it in company with Williams more a year ago for camping purposes. In the course of cautious questioning, however, he went so far as to say that Williams had given him the tent to sell about two weeks ago. Williams, who was found washing dishes in a Main-street restaurant, allowed himself to be arrested without making a statement of any kind. Clayton was arrested only last week while trying to dispose of a stolen horse. He has succeded so far in keeping within petty larceny charges in his offenses.

Rules for Camp Weepers.

[New York Sun:] On the flap of a tent of a company in one of the military camps near New York is pinned a card, on which is written:

To visitors:
Glad to see you always.
We are not afraid; not yet.
We know we are liable to be shot.
We don't know how we will feel until we get hit.
We are liable to be sick.
We might be sick if we stayed at home.
We are not dying to get into the hospital.
We may die after we get there.
Yes, if we have a chance we shall shoot.
Would we kill a Spaniard? Ask Dewey.
We don't know whether we shall be glad when its all over. Most likely.
We are sorry we are going to leave our wives and our children and our sweethearts.
If you are our wives and sweethearts please do not weep and make a scene in camp. We went through that at the house. Besides, it unnerves the boys in the other tent.
If you are our sweethearts, you know what o do, but be careful. The officer of the day may be a bachelor.
We were never in the other war. If we had been we wouldn't be in this one—on account of our age, and for some other reasons.
The tent leaks when there is rain. We have had some leaks.
Yes, it is cold in here when it rains.
Are we warm enough at nights? Not as warm as we expect to be.
We are fond of war pictures. Those that represent us as facing bursting shells and walking over the mangled remains of our comrades and dead horses, and that have vultures in the air, are especially fascinating to a young soldier in camp.
If you have tears to shed, please notify the guard so that he may show you where the shed is.
Always glad to see you.

A severe sprain may be cured in one-third the time usually required by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm.

It Pays to Cure the People

At least this has been the experience of the English and German Expert Specialists, of 218 South Broadway, Los Angeles. These doctors have demonstrated the truth of this theory to their entire satisfaction during the last twenty-six years. When a man or woman is cured of an ailment they do not hesitate to spread the good news. Now and then a doctor will insult your intelligence by blandly informing you that he is not working for money. With the English and German Expert Specialists, however, it is quite different. They want money, but prefer to make it by curing a thousand patients at a moderate price than by treating a hundred at an exorbitant price. The members of the staff of this prosperous institution have many advantages over all other doctors on the Pacific Coast.

To commence with nature has endowed them with the gifts which make physicians famous, while each has been carefully trained in the work of a specialist since they graduated. Everything in the way of remedies, appliances, ample quarters and general equipment is also at their command. CONSULTATION FREE.

Notice to Contractors.

PURSUANT TO AN ORDER OF THE board of trustees of the State Normal School of San Diego, California, notice is hereby given that sealed proposals will be received by said board, until ten o'clock a.m. of June 24th, 1898, for furnishing the materials and performing the labor necessary for the erection and completion of the central portion of the San Diego State Normal School building.

Separate proposals will be received and separate contracts made for furnishing the materials and performing the labor necessary for each of the following parts of said building, to wit: 1. For the masonary work, including all brick, concrete and cement work, and all necessary excavations and filling. 2. For the iron work. 3. For the carpenter, plastering, electric and gas-fitting work. 4. For the plumbing and gas-fitting work. 5. For the tinning and galvanized iron work. 6. For painting and varnishing.

No proposal will be considered unless accompanied with a bond of such proposer, equal to ten per cent. of his proposal, with at least two good and sufficient sureties, conditioned that if his proposal shall be accepted he will duly enter into a proper contract.

Each proposal must be made on blanks furnished for that purpose, and, together with the above-mentioned bond, enclosed in a sealed envelope, addressed to the Trustees State Normal School of San Diego, with an endorsement thereon showing what portion of the building is covered by the enclosed proposal, and delivered to the Merchants' National Bank of San Diego, California, before ten o'clock a.m. of June 24th, 1898. Said proposals will be publicly opened and contracts based thereon will be made, on June 24th, 1898, at ten o'clock a.m., at room 32, Fisher Opera House Block, in San Diego, California.

The contractors to whom contracts are awarded will be required to file with said board a good and sufficient bond to the amount of twenty-five per cent. of the contract price for the faithful and proper performance of his contract.

The plans and specifications of said building can be seen during business hours at the office of Hubbard & Gill, architects, Grant building, San Diego, California.

The board of trustees reserves the right to reject any or all proposals made.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL OF SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA.
By W. R. GUY, President Board Trustees.
Attest: ROBERT C. JONES, Secretary.

THE TIMES—
Weekly Circulation Statement.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES, SS.

Personally appeared before me, Harry Chandler, superintendent of circulation for the Times-Mirror Company, who, being duly sworn, deposes and says that the daily bona fide editions of The Times for each day of the week ended May 28, 1898, were as follows:

Sunday,	May	22	40,920
Monday,	"	23	29,420
Tuesday,	"	24	30,240
Wednesday,	"	25	30,210
Thursday,	"	26	29,980
Friday,	"	27	29,940
Saturday,	"	28	29,800
Total for the week			220,510
Daily average for the week			31,501

[Signed] HARRY CHANDLER.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 28th day of May, 1898.

[Seal] THOMAS L. CHAPIN, Notary Public in and for the County of Los Angeles, State of California.

NOTE.—THE TIMES is a seven-day paper. The above aggregate, viz., 220,510 copies, issued by us during the seven days of the past week, would, if apportioned on the basis of a six-day evening paper, give a daily average circulation for each week-day of 36,751 copies.

THE TIMES is the only Los Angeles paper which has regularly published sworn statements of its circulation, both gross and net, weekly, monthly and yearly, during the past several years. Advertisers have the right to know the NET CIRCULATION of the medium which seeks their business, and this THE TIMES gives them correctly, from time to time; and it furthermore guarantees that the circulation of THE TIMES regularly exceeds the combined circulation of all other Los Angeles daily newspapers.

THRONGS VISIT THE GRAVES OF FALLEN HEROES.

Impressive Ceremonies at Evergreen and Rosedale Cemeteries. Address by Gen. Pierce.

THOUSANDS VIEW THE PARADE.

MAJ. DONNELL'S ELOQUENT ADDRESS AT THE TABERNACLE.

A Great Audience Fills the Building to Its Utmost Capacity—An Inspiring Programme of Patriotic Music and Speeches.

Never before has Los Angeles celebrated Memorial day at the cemeteries in as elaborate and impressive manner as was done yesterday. No frivolity was noticeable, but all drew near to render homage to the boys of '61-'65, who faced the hail of bullets on the many battlefields of the great rebellion, and who fought that Old Glory might wave over a united people, whose motto is "One God, one country, one flag." With the majority it was a solemn time. Who knows but that one year from yesterday many of Los Angeles' youth and brawn who left with the pride of Southern California, the Seventh Regiment, may, too, be filling soldiers' graves. This thought passed through many minds, and with some the silent tear betokened the anguish felt in parting with a son, brother or husband, gone with the Seventh in defense of the flag.

AT EVERGREEN CEMETERY.

There was no delay in the ceremonies at Evergreen Cemetery, and promptly at 10 o'clock they were opened. Meanwhile the street-car company, taxed to its utmost, was unloading people at the gates, until at the time of opening the exercises fully 10,000 people were congregated within the walls inclosing the grounds. Bartlett-Logan Post, No. 6, G.A.R., conducted the ceremonies, assisted by Kenesaw Post, W.R.C. of both posts; Columbia Circle of G.A.R.; Rosecrans Camp, Sons of Veterans, Union Circle, G.A.R., and nearly 500 school children from Boyle Heights and other schools in the city.

At the G.A.R plat, the procession was headed by the school children, each bearing flags, followed by the King's Circle No. 4. In this division, the Godess of Liberty, represented by a young girl, was escorted by twenty-one little children, eleven boys and ten girls. The boys wore white caps with red, white and blue streamers, and white blouses. The girls were dressed in white, and wore white caps, with streamers. Following these were the G.A.R. posts.

The opening number on the programme was the singing of the national hymn, "America," which was sung by the audience. The school children then pledged themselves to the flag by reciting: "I pledge alliance to my flag and to the republic for which it stands—one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

After Commander Col. H. Glaze had explained in a brief address the value of Memorial-day exercises, a list of those who had died during the year was read.

Rev. J. B. Halloway, pastor of the Methodist Church of San Fernando, delivered a short but patriotic and able address, in which he called attention to the glorious past of Old Glory. It had played its part in the uplifting of humanity; had shown what freedom and liberty could do for a nation, and in the name of humanity it is now being borne to distant climes, where it will show to the world that where the Stars and Stripes are found, there liberty dwells.

After three volleys had been fired, a recitation was delivered by George W. Wood and the exercises closed with singing "Nearer My God to Thee" by the assembled multitude.

The Maine was not forgotten, and the King's Daughters erected a monument to the dead of that ill-fated battleship. At the base was a ship representing the Maine, made from white sweet peas. Each of the twenty-one children stepped forward and recited an appropriate verse, depositing a wreath on the monument. Another volley was fired by the guardsmen, closing the exercises. In all, twenty-four set pieces were received by the Woman's Relief Corps for decorations on the graves of the one hundred and thirty-nine soldiers remembered by Bartlett-Logan Post.

Kenesaw Post, under command of F. W. Ambrose, commander, remembered its dead, numbering thirty, in the same cemetery. Rev. Mr. Dorland delivered the oration, dwelling on the deeds of valor of the private soldier during the war, and extolling the men who have gone to the front at this time to keep a foreign foe from our shores. The Maine disaster was also remembered by the ladies of the W.R.C.

AT ROSEDALE CEMETERY.

Street cars, carriages, cabs, huckster wagons and all kinds of conveyances deposited the vast crowd at Rosedale Cemetery yesterday in attendance at Stanton Post exercises.

A rough estimate of those on the grounds at 10 o'clock in the morning is 8000. This figure is "shy" if anything, but gives an idea of the numbers present. Every garden, nursery and conservatory had been drawn upon to furnish its choicest blossoms with which to bedeck the graves of the fallen heroes. Nor were the soldiers' graves alone in decorations. On every side could be seen a wreath of bouquets, or single flower. Flowers were brought by wagon loads, in baskets, and now and then a solitary person could be seen laying a small tribute in flowers on the grave of a loved one.

At the G.A.R. plat, where the exercises of the day were held, it was almost impossible to secure standing room within hearing distance, but everybody stood his ground until the end when the burst of song which went up as the assemblage sang "America," gave evidence of the patriotism evinced by an American audience when the Stars and Stripes have been assailed. After a short prayer by Chaplain Emory Belden of Stanton Post, Commander Coplin introduced Gen. H. A. Pierce, who spoke feelingly as follows:

"Comrades, ladies and gentlemen: Occasions of this kind call not for speech, but for reverence, but if speech is demanded, then some lessons should be drawn from the circumstances under which Memorial day was born that will benefit the living. Year after year we meet on the 30th day of May to crown with flowers the graves of humble men who, on account of their labors, heroism and sacrifices, gave to this nation a flag redeemed, a nobler conception of manhood, and to the world a grander appreciation of humanity than had ever prevailed before. We do not, and should not come to this city of the dead as mourners, for these men sleeping here have filled the measure of their lives, when weary with their burdens, have gathered up their achievements for a pillow, and laid down to sleep, the eternal sleep which will come to each and every one of us, that sleep which woos, and like these comrades we fold our tents and lie down in its loving embrace. For us comrades, the day's work is not yet done, nor the labor fully ended, but the time draws nigh when we, too, shall sleep with our comrades.

"These flowers are not the emblem of sorrow, but the loving crowns of victory. And who are the victors whose graves are laureled today? They wore no stars, no eagles, nor other insignia of office, while in life, but simply in their 'blouse of blue,' on the march, the bivouac, on the ramparts, in the trenches, on the tented field or in the fierce whirlwind and tempest of battle. They bore aloft that banner of beautly, the banner of the stars, until a new nation arose from the sepulcher of old tyrannies, old ideals. These men were the 'angels in blue' who, with strong arms and brave hearts, rolled away the stone from the sepulcher where Freedom had been laid. They simply did their duty, fully, nobly, and no man can do more.

"These men were 'only privates.' We are apt to shout the praises and make the welkin ring with bravos to the names of the great leaders—the generals, colones, admirals, commanders—and the few, who by the fortuitous chance of war, were called to lead. But there is not a gleam of glory that halos the brow of a Washington, Wellington, Jackson, Grant, Lee or Sherman, that has not been placed there by the untold heroic deed, and warm heart-blood of the private soldier. His unparalleled heroism on a hundred battlefields from Shiloh to Appomattox, wrote the name of Grant among the immortals and plucked the stars from the thunder clouds of battle to decorate his shoulders. The flag of his country has become more sacred from its baptism of fire and blood, from the comradeship of war, born and nurtured under its folds. He became its jealous guardian in peace, its champion and defender, and lived to see it floating over 200,000 schoolhouses, and saluted morning, noon and night, by 20,0000,000 of patriotic children, who will in turn become its defenders, when the last survivor of the great rebellion shall have joined his comrades on the great camping ground of eternity, and among these 'low, green tents, whose curtains never outward swing.'

"We see the influence of the private soldier today in the martialing of the hundreds of thousands of their sons, who go forth to fight for 'Old Glory' in the islands of the sea, to make it the gonfalon of victory for the struggling patriots of both seas.

"In every battle of the present contest the lives of the private soldiers now sleeping under these offerings of flowers will be the heroic examples to nerve the boys of '98 to properly guard the heritage handed down to them by the 'Boys of '61 to 65,' and we have no fear as to how they will discharge that trust. They will do their duty—whether in Cuba or in the Philippine Islands, and let us do ours. No panegyric, however eloquent, can honor these men who sleep beneath these flowers. Their deeds were far more eloquent than words can express, and the grandeur of their achievements will grow brighter as the ages roll on."

At the conclusion of Gen. Pierce's address three volleys were fired, and taps rolled, after which the school children from the Harper and Rosedale schools sang a memorial song composed by L. B. Merrill of Boston. Stanton Post was assisted in its exercises by 175 children from the schools named, the Woman's Relief Corps of Stanton Post, Fremont Drill Corps, forty strong, and Sons of Veterans, fifty-seven strong, under command of F. E. Dow, quartermaster-sergeant.

After the exercises were completed, the Relief Corps took charge, erecting a stand of colors over the bank of flowers placed beneath the flag staff in honor of the unknown dead. Each member of the corps stepped forward, depositing under the colors a bunch of flowers, saying, "In remembrance of the brave boys who went down with the Maine." It was a beautiful, impressive scene, and brought tears to the eyes of the participants.

Carl Rosecrans, son of "Old Rosy," whose remains still lie in the vault at Rosedale, had reached the cemetery at daylight yesterday morning, and before the crowds came had completely covered the vault with flags, roses, verbenas, sweet peas and smilax. The tomb of the old general was visited by thousands, none leaving without going there to do him reverence.

THE PARADE.

Thousands View the Impressive Spectacle.

There may have been more elaborate and imposing observances of Memorial day elsewhere in the country than that in this city yesterday, but even in places where there were thousands in line and thousands of graves of brave defenders of the country to be decorated, there was no more earnestness and feeling displayed either in the decoration of the graves, the parades or in the patriotic exercises than those in which the Los Angeles posts of the Grand Army of the Republic participated. In point of the number of her citizens who wore the blue Los Angeles cannot compare with some of the eastern cities, but in her patriotism and her desire to remember those who have gone before, no city in the country can boast of a great fervency of spirit than that which marks the old soldiers within this city's boundaries. There have been more elaborate celebrations of Memorial day even in this city than was that of yesterday. When the younger generation of soldiers was here to assist and participate in the parade, the spectacle of the soldiers of a third of a century ago marching with the troops of today was perhaps more imposing, but this year those soldiers of today have gone to another war and only the old soldiers were left to do reverence to their former comrades. The very existence of another war and the possibility—almost certainty—that at no far distant day these same old soldiers or some of them, will be remembering the brave boys who fell in battle with the nation's common foe, added to the solemnity of yesterday's celebration. Wherever there was a prayer at a service, and there were many of them, an appeal was made to the God of battles to be with the boys who now occupy the same position as national defenders as did those in yesterday's column who fought in the early sixties.

There are comparatively few graves of veterans in Los Angeles. There is no particular plat or cemetery in which they rest, but the location of their graves is known, and not one of them was missed yesterday. The early morning was devoted by their former comrades to strewing flowers over those graves, and this service was accompanied by exercises which, though repeated from year to year, are none the less impressive. That service completed, the veterans repaired to their homes, and in the afternoon came the parade, followed by Memorial-day services at Simpson Tabernacle, which were attended by thousands more than could be accommodated in that spacious place of worship.

The parade was to have formed at 1 o'clock, and moved at 1:30, but the late arrival of many of the veterans prevented the formation of the column until half an hour after that hour. Third and Main streets was designated as the point of assembly, and there the Grand Army men began to congregate long before the hour announced. In the hall of Bartlett-Logan Post there were brief exercises for the dead, and at 1:30 o'clock the command "Fall in" was given. The first formation was made on the sidewalk and from a line the veterans broke into columns of fours and took their position in the general line. The other organizations which were to participate in the parade formed below Third street, where they waited for the veterans.

The line of march announced the day before was south on Main to Fourth, thence to Spring and north on that street, but as repairs are being made at Fourth and Spring streets, which prevented the column passing that point, orders were issued to march south on Main street to Fourth, then to counter-march to Third and then follow the original direction to Spring, to First, to Broadway, to Sixth, to Hope and thence to Simpson Tabernacle.

The column was headed by a detail of police under command of Capt. Roberts. As seconds in command Sergt. Jeffries headed seventeen members of the rifle squad, and Sergt. Morton four sets of fours of officers without arms, both being preceded by six mounted patrolmen.

Following the police came General Marshal W. S. Daubenspeck and his aides, Dr. L. T. Holland, chief; Judge William Young, Col. Dan Jones and Capt. A. P. Hoffman. The Fremont Drill Corps, Capt. Fred E. Munsey commanding, fifty strong and attired in handsome white uniforms and armed with sabers, followed the grand marshal.

Following the drill corps were two schools boys' organizations, which attracted more attention than any other commands in the column. The first was Co. A, infantry, of the Sentous-street school, commanded by Capt. Earl Cooper, thirty strong. These boys were armed with rifles of various patterns, from the light floberts to the heavy Springfield carbines. They were not all in uniform, but that made no difference, for their step was steady and their execution of commands was perfect. They declare they will all have uniforms for the Fourth of July parade, and will make a much better showing, although their appearance yesterday was excellent. Behind Co. A was the United States Heavy Artillery, George McCaffery, mounted, commanding, with George Cline second in command. The "battery" consisted of twenty boys from the Eighth, Olive and Spring-streets schools, and their armament consisted of a miniature gun, a breech-loading one-pounder, or less, which they drew as proudly as if it were a regulation 3.2-inch rifled field piece. The boys were well drilled and marched in columns of fours. Throughout the line of march they were cheered repeatedly, and their appearance in the column was a signal for cheers from the assembled veterans. One of their officers asserted that they intended to apply to the city authorities for uniforms, and that they were certain of securing them.

Headed by the Veteran Fife and Drum Corps, the members of the Grand Army of the Republic brought up the end of the column. Stanton Post, No. 55, headed this division, nearly 200 strong, George B. Copeland commanding.

Kenesaw Post, No. 106, seventy-two strong, F. N. Ambrose commanding, followed Stanton Post and Bartlett-Logan Post, No. 6, with 212 members in column under command of Henry Glaze, brought up the rear of the parade.

The several organizations of the Woman's Relief Corps formed at Sixth and Olive streets, and when the column arrived there they took position with the members of the various commands, to which they act as auxiliaries and proceeded to Simpson Tabernacle. Arriving there the police broke into column of platoons and opened a passage through the crowd, and through this passage the veterans and the women's organizations passed by countermarching, until all were within the church, after which the crowd at the doors was admitetd, but not more than half of them could secure seats.

EXERCISES AT THE TABERNACLE.

A Vast Audience Listens to Patriotic Music and Addresses.

The literary exercises at Simpson Tabernacle in the afternoon were marked by a patriotic fervor in excess of that prevailing on any similar occasion for many years. From floor to dome the building was filled to overflowing, and all present seemed to be moved by the spirit of the occasion.

The Tabernacle had been tastefully decorated for the occasion, and many magnificent floral pieces gave brilliancy to the scene by the gorgeousness of their coloring. From the roof streamers had been brought down and looped above the gallery, while large United States flags hung suspended from the four sides of the building. The platform was covered with rich looking Turkish rugs, and along the front stood a number of beautiful floral emblems. The reading desk was draped with a silken flag, and immediately to the left there was a large sized model of the U.S.S. Maine, done in white roses and marguerites, and a piece emblematic of the "gates ajar," done in white, red and pink carnations, both emblems having been presented by the ladies of Columbia Lodge, No. 75, G.A.R. A "vacant chair," in white carnations, sweet peas, and feathery ferns, a lyre, an anchor and a harp were also among the pieces, all of which were worked out in bright colors.

In the choir and organ loft a touch of realism was given by the arms that were stacked at each end, wreathed with blood-red carnations, and on the right stood a soldier's tent, surmounted by the Stars and Stripes. On the left was a large flag worked out with red and white geraniums, the jack being made with violets and the stars with tiny white flowers. Banks of callas at either end of the choir rail—the rail itself being hidden by flowers of variegated hue—and overhead the flags of the army posts, completed a picture that was charmingly tasteful, brilliant and appropriate to the occasion.

On the platform with the officers of the day were the commanders of the posts, ladies of the relief corps and some of the old army nurses. Preliminary to the opening of the exercises proper, the organ pealed out some of the old war tunes. This was too much for the veterans, and in a moment their voices took up the air and the immense audience joined in singing "Marching Through Georgia," and others of the songs that give no evidence of becoming stale from age.

Grand Marshal W. S. Daubenspeck of Stanton Post, called the assembly to order, and announced the first number on the programme.

Mrs. Jennie Kempton then sang, with great expression, "Tenting On the Old Camp Ground," the choir joining in the almost pathetic refrain.

The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. Will A. Knighton of Stanton Post. When he alluded to the events now taking place, that are filling the nation's heart with hope and thankfulness, there was a stillness throughout the audience that could almost be felt. He prayed for blessing on the United States navy, that the commanders might be strengthened in emergency, and that every sailor might realize an arm of power is holding and sustaining him. Special interposition was made also for the Seventh Regiment, that on land or at sea, they might be protected, and return with the glory of victory upon their banner.

Comrade E. W. Clarke of Kenesaw Post, and president of the day, in his brief introductory remarks, alluded to the unanimity of sentiment that prompted the nation to rescue the graves of the soldiers from being obliterated from memory by an overgrowth of grass and weeds. But while paying loving tribute to the memory of the departed comrades, he pointed out that there is today as sturdy a patriotism moving the hearts of the younger generation as spurred their sires into the field in the trying days of '61. As an incentive to them, and as indicating what had been done by the comrades whose graves had just been decorated, President Clarke said that in 1861 there were fought 146 battles; in 1862, 561; in 1863, 626; and in 1864 to the close of the war, 779.

The choir then sang "Rest, Soldier, Rest," the sweet, plaintive tones thrilling the audience. Comrade A. C. Shafer of Stanton Post, read President Lincoln's memorable Gettysburg address, and Commander Glaze of Bartlett-Logan read a poem entitled "When Lincoln Died."

An original poem by Comrade C. W. Hyatt of Stanton Post was also read, and the allusions to current events provoked a measure of applause. The choir followed with a very happy rendering of "Lay Him Low," and then John Darwin Gish, representing the Sons of Veterans, made an address that repeatedly provoked applause.

After alluding to time having subdued the bitterness of conteding parties, that the curse of Mason and Dixon's line had been obliterated; that no longer existed any North or South, Mr. Gish passed on to a review of present conditions. "Though the bitterness of conflict has vanished," said he, "the memory of the brave and gallant deeds and noble sacrifices can never pass away. Vicksburg and Gettysburg and Mobile Bay lie too near the root of our faith and loyalty ever to be forgotten. The deepest gratitude of a nation goes out today to her heroes, from the unmarked grave in the wilderness to the mass of granite in Springfield, where sleeps America's chieftain, also a saccrifice on his country's altar. Abraham Lincoln led this country through the most momentous crisis of its history, and died in the moment of victory, but not before, by his charity and generosity, he had paved the way for a complete reconciliation, so that a few weeks ago, in the greatest crisis since the civil war, the United States was represented in a foreign land so ably, with such unswerving patriotism and such gallant bravery as to win the applause and affection of the whole people by the nephew of the greatest Confederate, himself a dashing commander in the Confederate amy, but now Maj.-Gen. Fitzhugh Lee of the army of the United States. [Loud applause.]

"The time shall soon come when a new generation must assume control of the destinies of the nation, a generation to which the civil war is history to be learned from books. We carry no saber scars, our dreams are not of picket lines and prison pens, and to our ears the sounds of war cannot reverberate. We are the inheritors of a peace dearly purchased, but made doubly secure by the price of its purchase. And so to prove the temper of this new generation and show to the nations of the world that the 'government of the people, by the people, and for the people,' has not perished from the earth, the Lord of Hosts has called us again to marshal ourselves in the cause of liberty and humanity. Not in civil conflict now, but as one great and united nation, the champion of the oppressed against the most hateful oppressor the world has ever seen. What shall be the outcome of the present struggle no one who believes in an overruling Providence and the spirit of eternal justice can for a moment doubt. But the call we have heard and answered is more than a call to the rescue of Cuba and the overthrow of her oppressor; it is a call to take our rightful place in the family of nations; it is a call out of our isolation and self-sufficiency to stand for the right wherever the issue is joined between right and wrong. The time has come when our own interests are not limited by our boundaries. Through an extensive commerce, and the residence of our citizens in foreign lands, we have an European interest and an Asiatic interest as surely as if our colonies encircled the world. Whether Hawaii and the Philippines and the West Indies become ours this decade or the next, under the Stars and Stripes is their ultimate abiding place. We are destined to an enlarged sphere of action, and upon the present generation a grave responsibility is laid.

"Upon us devolves the duty of guiding the footsteps of the nation. God grant that there be no backward steps. [Applause.] Republics have passed away, monarchies have decayed, empires have crumbled, but this nation, true to the principles of its foundation, shall not pass away. We must guard against the foe within as well as without; peace has its dangers no less than war. Political corruption and administrative incompetency may prove a greater menace than Spanish guns; but the patriotism of the fathers will not fail the sons, and if discouragement should come a look back to the heroism and gallantry of '61 will send the blood surging with new vigor through our veins, and the old flag floating in the breeze shall ever announce to the world that America is yet the apostle of freedom, and the champion of humanity." [Applause].

Following this address the "Star Spangled Banner" was sang with telling eeffct by Mrs. Modini Wood and the choir, the singing of this national hymn forming a fitting prelude to the oration of the day.

THE NATION'S GROWTH.

Maj. J. A. Donnell of Bartlett-Logan Post held the attention of the vast audience for over an hour by an oration that was a review of the past, and a widely sweeping survey of the present.

He alluded to nearly 3,000,000 having answered the call of the immortal Lincoln, and marched into the tented field to uphold the honor and dignity of this great republic, when the very existence of the nation was assailed by foes in its own household.

"War does not mean peace," said Maj. Donnell. "It means grief and mourning and lamentation all the day long, and while life lasts. It means wretched lives and ruined homes; it means widows and orphans and newly-made graves; it means an increased debt and an extended pension roll; it means agony and suffering and death to some, and to all it means cares and troubles and sorrow which almost craze the brain and sicken the heart. War is horrible and deplorable at all times, and under all circumstances, but there are some things worse than war. War is to be preferred at any time to a dishonorable peace, or an unholy alliance with any nation or power which from choice would mock God or crush humanity. War is to be preferred to national shame and disgrace, arising from a lack of courage or honesty to deal justly with those who are near neighbors appealing to us for help and sympathy. I would resort to war rather than tamely submit to systematic cruelty, imprisonment and starvation, necessarily resulting in death to the innocent and helpless; and I would prefer war a thousand times over rather than submit to wholesale, treacherous, hellish assassination of one brave man in the darkness of night, without cause and without a note of warning. [Prolonged applause.] Under such circumstances the acts of diplomacy fail, and the God of war is invoked; and when war comes it comes with the wild fury of a terrible tornado, and there is none to stay or check the swift and terrible punishment sure to follow.

PATRIOTISM VITAL TO GOOD CITIZENSHIP.

"The one thing which every intelligent nation should dread is a lack of patriotism. It is the crowning virtue of good citizenship, and where it is not found, or has fled from the nation, we find a condition akin to dissolution and moral death—a condition more deplorable than that which follows in the wake of war.

"In its ordinary and primary signification, patriotism is defined to be a love of one's country. When the honor and integrity of a nation is assailed, and the star of liberty is in danger of being removed from the firmament, patriotism has a broader and deeper signification. It then means a total consecration of one's self to the demands of country. No matter what plans may have been matured, what ambitions are about to be realized, what success may have been achieved, what ties may have been formed, or what may be the dream of the future, all, all must be laid aside or syept asunder, and, if need be, life itself must be surrendered, that union and liberty may be perpetuated and the national honor maintained inviolate.

"It is a comforting and gratifying thought to us all that the patriotism of this day, throughout the length and breadth of this mighty republic, is beyond criticism. It is so high, so broad and so deep that it knows no North, no South, no East and no West. It knows no faction, no sect, no class no creed and no nationality, for we are all American citizens—the proudest title on earth. [Applause.] We are actuated by one desire only, and that is that our nation shall be in the right in all it attempts to accomplish, and that our glorious and beautiful flag may wave triumphantly over the victors' field."

A NATION'S DEVELOPMENT.

"Memorial day this year has a significance which it never had before. During the many years in which this beautiful custom has been observed, our nation has been at peace at home and abroad. Prosperity has attended every effort of an intelligent people to build up the waste places. Our commerce floats on every sea; our internal trade is far in excess of that of any other nation, and our wealth is almost beyond computation. A courageous patriotism has gone hand in hand with a progressive Christian civilization in the onward march which has made this nation the republic of the world. Our army is composed of the best American manhood, and our navy from a small beginning a few weeks ago, is now the admiration of every nation under the sun—except Spain. And before another Memorial day returns I predict that that haughty, imperious and treacherous nation will be compelled to acknowledge its superiority, for it will have learned it by sad experience with the United States.

"Today for the first time in a third of a century our peaceful republic is involved in war—a war, terrible it may be, yet holy; at war with a nation which has been a standing menace to the peace of the world for 2000 years; a nation which has a record for fiendish brutality and cruelty from the days of the Ceasars to the present time, unparalleled in the history of the world; a nation, to use the graphic and startling language of Senator Thurston, 'which has set up more crosses in more lands, beneath more skies and under them has butchered more people than all the other nations of the earth combined.'"

Proceeding Maj. Donnell examined into the conditions that led up to the declaration of war by the United States against Spain. He depicted the unhappy people of Cuba groaning under the tyrannous rule of Spain, and incidentally paid his compliments to Weyler, whose acts won for him the title of "Butcher." The blowing-up of the Maine and the horror that descended upon this nation like a pall was adverted to, and the demand that Spain's inhumanity in Cuba should stop was pronounced the nation's protest against the accumulated wrongs to an oppressed people.

"Today the nation reaffirms that cry," said the speaker, "and says to Spain that her kingdom in Cuba shall not continue. For centuries that haughty nation has sought over the western world and the isles of the sea with the cross in one hand and the sword in the other. But instead of leaving with the people of her provinces that peace which passeth understanding she has introduced the thumbscrew, the iron collar studded with needles, the rack that dislocates joints, and has left footsteps trailing blood.

GOD AND THE MONROE DOCTRINE

"Who is there in all this mighty nation who will rise up and say that it is not our business to intervene and put an end to the awful misery and death visited upon the Cubans by Spain? I answer, it is our business, under God and the Monroe doctrine. No other nation can intervene, and before another Memorial day dawns upon the American republic I hope and trust that Spanish tyranny and Spanish authority may be blotted out of existence on the western hemisphere.

"The year 1776 created a new world, and the year 1898 has opened up a new era in the history of the human race. If it be said that history furnishes no precedent authorizing the intervention of this nation in the management of affairs in Cuba—on the ground that the interests of humanity demand it—then I answer, it is time a new precedent was established, and this nation is not only willing to establish that precedent, but is equal to the emergency. [Loud applause.] We may have seemed a little slow in coming to the conclusion, but it is better to be tardy in a just cause than hasty in a wrong one.

"This republic is not only willing to establish new precedents in this year of grace 1898, but it is teaching the monarchies and despotisms of the world some lessons they should have learned long ago, but did not. For centuries the idea has obtained that kings have the divine right to rule, and that their subjects have no right to a voice in the government.

THE ORIGIN OF POWER.

"The House of Commons under the influence of Oliver Cromwell first proclaimed the doctrine that 'the people were the origin of all just power,' and our own republic was the first to give that doctrine a practical test. In the Magna Charta of our liberties we declared that 'to secure the inestimable rights of the people, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.' The kings and princes of the nations have ignored this doctrine, and for centuries, without the consent of the governed, they have gathered the fruits of the laborer and consumed them in luxury and war. They have done worse than that; they have inculcated the pernicious doctrine that all who 'toil that they may eat bread' are unworhy of consideration, and have no rights which proud, hereditary birth should respect.

"Ours is 'a government of the people, by the people and for the people,' and I hope the time is near when all odious distinction based upon caste or birth should perish forever, and that the people and the people only shall be regarded as the rightful sovereign, and the only sovereign the people.

"I trust we have successfully taught another lesson, and that is that all the people and not some of the people should be educated, for upon the intelligent consent of all the people is based the supremacy of our republic over any monarchy, limited or absolute. Redpath has finely said that 'a republic without intelligence, even a high degree of intelligence, is a paradox and an impossibility.'

"It was the superior intelligence of the officers and men of the American navy which gave Admiral Dewey and his seamen the unprecendented victory at Manila over the blind, ignorant and arrogant Spanish forces. [Long-continued applause, during which Maj. Donnell had to cease speaking.] After that expensive object lesson, Spain should never again aspire to rank among intelligent, civilized nations in the arts of war, nor should her dominion over her provinces in this hemisphere be continued or tolerated by virtue of aristocratic birth and precedent only, in

THE WAR SITUATION.

Below are summarized the more important events of yesterday in connection with the war situation:

No longer any doubt that Cervera's fleet is at Santiago de Cuba. Commodore Schley says: "I have got them and they will never get home."

British steamer Restormel, loaded with coal, captured when about to enter Santiago Harbor, by the cruiser St. Paul, under Capt. Sigsbee. Sent to Key West as a prize of war.

Hard times reported at Santiago, with famine imminent.

MEMORIAL DAY AFTERTHOUGHTS.

Again the rare old boys who fought for the flag have marched to the music of the drums and under the ensign they lifted over many a parapet red with the blood of their fellows, in memory of those who died that men might be free; that a nation might be disenthralled; that that ensign might be cleansed of the stain upon its beautiful colors—the stain of human slavery.

Every year the ranks grow thinner and every year the locks of the marching men are seen to be whiter, but the cause for which they fought and suffered in the travail of battle and upon the wind and rain-swept fields is young—the everlasting cause of human liberty. The glorious host that yet remains to go out upon each recurring 30th of May to bedeck with spring's fragrant blossoms the lowly resting places of their comrades, while it may be becoming ensmalled by the gnawing of the years, is still a leaven of loyalty and patriotism in the body politic of America. Its parades are an inspiration, for about these men there is set the atmosphere of achievement and when they march the glory of the nation is pictured in a fashion that exalts and fires the human emotions.

The flowers that were on yesterday strewn above the quiet sleepers that lie under the turf all over this broad republic will be withered ere these lines are in type, yet the memory of these men's deeds will live as long as truth lives, and the glory of their achievements and the records of their valor is a priceless heritage, not only to the land for which they fell, but for the human race of every name and of every clime. And in these days new gaps are being made in the sod of our country, and under the stars and the dew we are laying away a younger army of the sons of the republic, a new army that is fighting not our own battles, but the battles of an oppressed people that cruelty and prosecution shall perish from the earth and that men shall be given the right of liberty as God gave it to them in the beginning. In this holy and ennobling war we shall lose many treasures, but the cause is the most magnificent ever undertaken by any nation since the establishment of government in the earth and the new graves that are to be garlanded in the years to come are the nation's jewels, every one of them priceless and blessed and holy. Let us press forward, then, along the pathway blazed through the tangles of trouble by our valiant sons, thankful for their prowess and loyalty, determined to emulate them in effort, resolved that the movement shall always be for the betterment of man, the enfranchising of the world.

Unless the dispatches that come later are of such purport as to compel the editorial mind to turn a handspring, as happens now about seven times a day, we beg to venture the remark that as between Schley on the water side of Santiago and the insurgents on the land side, Cervera will shortly be in a position to make affidavit that "war is hell."

FORWARD!

There is every reason to believe that the march upon Cuba is about to begin in earnest. It may, indeed, have begun by the time this issue of THE TIMES reaches its readers. Ere the end of the present week, American troops will in all probability have effected a landing and entrenched themselves on Cuban soil. Porto Rico, also, may be under the Stars and Stripes before the week is ended.

The plans of the government are very properly withheld from the public for the present. But there is little doubt that an aggressive movement, of the greatest importance, is about to be entered upon. Our army is ready for the advance. Admiral Sampson, with a powerful fleet, awaits the word of command to convoy the troops to the enemy's shores, to batter down his defenses, and to protect the landing of the American soldiers. Therefore, there will be but little more delay.

The forward movement has been delayed for some days past as a matter of precaution, until the whereabouts of the Spanish squadron under Cervera could be definitely ascertained. Positive information that Cervera's ships are at Santiago de Cuba having at last reached the government in the shape of an official communication from Commodore Schley, there is no longer reason for holding back. The fleet under Schley can easily take care of Cervera, and Sampson is thoroughly equipped for the work assigned him. The invading army is ready and anxious for the serious business before it, and the time is propitious for action.

It is not well to anticipate too far the outcome of an enterprise of so much gravity. But it does not lie within the bounds of probability that our expedition will be unsuccessful. The conquest may be more difficult than it is supposed to be. Unforeseen obstacles may present themselves, and the enemy may be stronger than we anticipate. But our purpose will be accomplished in the end, despite all obstacles. Let us be patient, and trust in God. But let us also keep our powder dry and our guns ready for action.

SAN PEDRO HARBOR.

There is a prevailing misconception among the public in regard to the terms of the call for bids for the San Pedro breakwater, and especially in regard to that portion of the specifications which refers to the annulment of contract. A subscriber calls attention to the fact that paragraph number 72 of the specifications reads as follows:

"If no appropriation is made by Congress for this work for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1899, any contract entered into under these specifications shall be annulled."

From this it will be seen that there is yet a year's time during which Congress may act upon the appropriation, under the present specifications.

The people who think bacon, butterless biscuits and beans are a hardship should have been in some of the scouting campaigns down south when there was nothing to eat for days at a time, to be convinced that those articles are luxuries that a king would hanker for. An appetite that cannot stomach Uncle Sam's rations is too finicky to be hitched onto a soldier, and a man that cannot grow fat on the feed is just naturally a lean and hungry Cassius "fit for treason, stratagem and spoils."

Uncle Collis has been pursuing his old tactics by laying track in Riverside between dark and daylight in order to show how cleverly he can override the wishes of the people and the authorities. Uncle Collis would not pick a pocket, perhaps, or rob a henroost, but he will steal a street with the airy grace of a shoplifter, and then make affidavit that he is doing it out of his deep friendship for the great American people and the good of the country. He is a real nice old man—nit.

With the Philippines, the Carolines, Cuba, and Porto Rico in our possession, with Cervera bottled up and the Cadiz fleet afraid to come out into the open, how much will the war lack of being ended? Will it be necessary for us to take Spain and the Canaries also?

Do not send the boys any more pie, but a few droves of beef cattle, some chickens, (fried or in coops,) likewise eggs and butter will be received and placed where they will do the most good. P. S. An occasional pie may be smuggled in if it is a good one.

LET US CELEBRATE.

Independence day, the glorious Fourth of July, is near at hand. The patriotic fervor of the nation should find expression on that day in such a manner as it has never before found expression since the foundation of this government. The land is ablaze with patriotic enthusiasm, and no occasion is so fitting for its expression as the ever-glorious Fourth.

Our flag has been assailed by a cruel and barbarous foe. The fighting men of the nation have sprung to arms in its defense. The menace of a foreign enemy has revealed to us our national greatness; but more than that, it has revealed to us our national unity, which is the foundation of our greatness and strength as a nation. All the old sectional differences have been swept away and are forgotten in the glowing tide of patriotism. The existing war is worth its cost, however great that cost may be, in having revealed the American people to themselves, not only as a great people, but as a united and harmonious people.

Therefore, we should celebrate, on July 4, 1898, not merely the anniversary of our national independence, but the grand reunion of the American people, as made evident by the prompt and loyal response of all sections to the demands of the existing war, and the hearty support which the government has received and is receiving from the South as well as from the North, from the East as well as from the West.

Los Angeles and Southern California should not be behind the rest of the country in the celebration of our beloved national anniversary. In the matter of patriotism our people are well up toward the front end of the procession, and this fact should be made abundantly manifest in the form of such a celebration as has never been witnessed in Southern California. It is altogether probable that before July 4 we shall have achieved more victories over the Spaniards, which will serve to give added zest to the occasion. At all events, let us celebrate in a manner suitable to this glorious year of enthusiasm and reunion.

Grand Marshal Holabird, in his appeal to the people of Southern California, makes several excellent suggestions relative to the celebration which, if carried out, will add greatly to the success and eclat of the occasion. The Fourth of July Executive Committee have opened headquarters in rooms 37 to 40, Bryson Block, where Marshal Holabird and others can be found daily (Sundays excepted) from 10:30 a.m. to noon, to confer with all who desire to participate in or otherwise aid the celebration, and to arrange plans for the event.

The time is short in which to perfect the necessary details, but it is sufficient if prompt action be taken. It is to be hoped that our people will take hold of this matter with characteristic enthusiasm and carry it through to a magnificently successful result. "A long pull, a strong pull, and a pull all together" will do the work.

One of the street railway companies of San Francisco, the Presidio and Ferries line, is generously giving free transportation to all soldiers in uniform, a bit of consideration and kindness that represents the spirit of patriotism that pervades the entire land. We are sure the boys appreciate the generous concession, and that the whole country will applaud a corporation that makes it evident that it has no desire to exact "all the traffic will bear."

It is to be hoped that Los Angeles may be able this year to find a Fourth of July orator within its own borders without having to import one. We have any number of able and patriotic men who can make the eagle scream, and it is the part of wisdom and loyalty to give our own a chance. The home-products proposition should apply to orators as well as to soap, baking powder, or tomato catsup.

"The Yankees can blockade Spanish ports, but they cannot blockade Spanish honor," playfully observes Señor Segasta. To be sure, Señor. How could you expect us to blockade that which has no existence save as a figment of Spanish imagination,

The Spanish fleet has been definitely located, but it will not be properly located until it occupies a position in the mud of Santiago Harbor. These few remarks are respectfully referred to Commodore Schley.

It may transpire that Commodore Schley will smash him instead of bottling him up after all. If it is left to Schley the country will be satisfied that the right thing is going to be done, whatever he does.

The Pall Mall Gazette says: "Neither France nor any other power is likely to burn its fingers with the Spanish chestnut." So we can go right on roasting the wormy old thing to a good rich brown.

Admiral Dewey may have had a rabbit's foot, but if he hadn't also had some almighty efficient Yankee guns and gunners we have half an idea that the result might have been different.

All the States have completed their quotas of volunteers under the first call. The second installment of 75,000 will be ready for business in a few days, and there are plenty more where they will come from.

A great many conflicting reports come from Manila—through Spanish sources. But the reports which come from Admiral Dewey are not in the least conflicting, and convey a great deal more of real information than the long-winded fairy tales of the Spaniards. Mr. Dewey may not be the possessor of a very vivid imagination. He is not given to superfluous verbiage; but every word he sends over the wires weighs several tons.

Something is going to drop in the vicinity of Cuba in the very near future. And when it does drop it will give our friends, the dons, a jolt which they will remember the rest of their lives.

The Stars and Stripes are twined lovingly with the Union Jack in Canadian churches and other public places. Come to our arms, little sister. We were always a little bit stuck on you.

It is to be expected that a phantom fleet will fight phantom battles and win phantom victories. It was that sort of a battle that the Spaniards had with us the other day down near Jamaica.

Those newspapers that talk something closely bordering on treason may wake up some morning to find that the experiences of certain newspapers in our last war have been repeated.

If we had all of Spain's fleets bottled up or smashed, Cuba would take itself, at least Blanco and his forces would stop eating and the "taking" would be vastly simplified.

President Faure of France appears to be neutral all right enough, but the Parisian newspapers are still off the reservation and rampaging something scan'lous.

A great many people do not know how to pronounce Schley's name, but they will take the pains to find out after he has pulverized Cervera.

Dewey is on deck in Manila, and if any one doubts it we beg to refer him to Admiral Montijo of the late Spanish navy in the Philippines.

Why did Cervera go into Santiago Harbor? Coal, of course. A warship cannot trot on an empty stomach any better than a horse.

The Social Labor party has nominated a candidate for Governor and his front name is Job, but he will never get the job.

The Democracy now has a trinity, McNab, Alford and Gould, but they are holy only as a terror.

A press censor on the Senatorial jaw fiesta wouldn't be a half-bad idea.

FACTS ABOUT SPAIN.

A Big National Debt and More Than Thirty Thousand Priests.

In extent Spain is about as large as our State of Colorado, which comprises 194,000 square miles, or rather more than the six New England States, with New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland thrown in. The population is about seventeen million, and increases at the rate of eighty thousand a year, in face of a considerable emigration to South America. In round numbers, 5,000,000 live by agriculture, 800,000 by arts and trades, 200,000 by commerce, 244,000 by textile and mineral industries, 410,000 by domestic service, 115,000 as mariners, 116,000 by professional service (as physicians, lawyers and priests,) 72,000 as "religious" (including monks, nuns, etc.,) 91,000 as inmates of asylums, and 1,720,000 as pupils and students in schools and colleges.

The government is hereditary monarchy, limited since 1876 by a written constitution. Alphonso XIII, a boy of 12, is King of Spain by title, but his mother, Maria Christina, reigns as Queen Regent during his minority. The Cortes, or national Legislature, which meets annually, consists of two houses, called the Senate and Congress.

The Senators are of three classes: (1) Grandees, or those who represent the ancient nobility and the larger estates, along with the higher officers of the church, the state, the courts, the army and navy, in all about eighty; (2) life Senators, named by the crown, one hundred in number; (3) and 180 others, elected by provincial and commercial bodies, synods, academies, and a select list of the largest taxpayers.

The Congress is composed of 431 Deputies—one for each 50,000 souls—elected by the people, each freeman over 25 years old being entitled to vote. The Deputies, like the elective Senators, hold officer for five years. By a liberal provision, ten of the Deputies may be chosen by a "cumulative vote" of 10,000 cast anywhere in the kingdom.

Local self-government is secured by means of an elective parliament (disputacion) in each of the forty-nine provinces and by a council (ayuntamiento) in each municipality or communel. Neither King nor Cortes has the right to interfere with local administration, so long as it keeps within its sphere; but the central government often brings pressure to bear upon the elections.

No country in Christendom is so thoroughly loyal to the Pope as Spain. The constitution binds the nation "to maintain the worship and ministers of the Roman Catholic religion," and concedes to Protestants only the right of unannounced private worship. The priests, who number 32,000, are supported from the national treasury.

Public education is now made by law free and compulsory, yet half the adults are unable to read or write. Teachers are poorly qualified and ill paid, and the instruction given in the schools is quite superficial. To provide for the professions and for public service there are ten universities, with 16,000 students, the expenses being largely met by fees. Special schools of fine and useful arts are supported by the government, though inadequately. There are thirteen military schools.

Spain has a standing army of 176,000, with a strong navy of battleships, armored cruisers and torpedo craft, manned by 9000 marines. Military service is required of the whole adult and able-bodied population, as in other European countries.

The national debt of Spain, which foots up at about 6,000,000,000 pesetas ($1,200,000,000, a peseta being equal to a franc,) grows rapidly with the annual deficits caused by wars with its colonies. It claims possessions in Africa to the extent of 243,000 square miles, with a sparse population of 136,000; in Asiatic islands, mostly the Philippines, covering 116,000 square miles, backed with 7,000,000 natives; and at last accounts it claimed also the islands of Cuba and Porto Rico, which contain 45,000 square miles, with a population of 2,400,000, now rapidly declining.

The present reigning dynasty of Spain is insecurely seated, being embarrassed not only by foreign complications, but by the persistent claims of Don Carlos to the throne.

FRANCE AND AMERICA.

THE PRESIDENT ANNOUNCES A NEW RECIPROCITY TREATY.

Rates Go Into Effect on the First of June—United States Secures Advantages on Meat Products and Lard.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The United States and France have concluded the first commercial agreement entered into under section 3 of the Dingley tariff law. The negotiations have been pending for the last eight months, and after many vicissitudes, were concluded Saturday last, when Ambassador Cambon, in behalf of France, and Hon. John Kasson, reciprocity commissioner of the United States, fixed their signatures to the formal agreement. It makes important changes in the tariff rates on a number of articles, constituting the chief trade between this country and France.

The particular advantages secured by the United States are on meat products and lard compounds, France reducing her rates one-half on meat porducts and about one-third on lard compound. The chief benefits to France are in reduction in rates on brandies, stilled wine, vermouth and works of art. There is no reduction in the rate on champagnes, although the Dingley law contemplated a reciprocity reduction in champagnes, in case mutual concessions were given. By the terms of the agreement, the new rates go into effect on June 1 or next Wednesday.

It was a matter of no little surprise that the arrangement was concluded at the present time, when the war emergency compelled this government to look for every possible resource for revenue, and when there was a concentration of official attention on measures relating directly to the war. Aside from the tariff changes made by the new agreement, the convention is regarded as significant in showing the good will existing between the United States and France.

The President late this afternoon issued the following proclamation:

"Reciprocity with France.

"By the President of the United States of America. A proclamation:

"Whereas, pursuant to section 3 of the act of Congress approved July 24, 1897, entitled, 'An act to provide revenue for the government and to encourage the industries of the United States,' the governments of the United States and the French republic have, in the spirit of amity and with a desire to improve their commercial relations, entered into a commercial agreement in which reciprocity and equivalent concessions have been, in the judgment of the president, secured, according to the provision of said section, whereby the following articles of commerce, being the products and manufactures of the United States are to be admitted into France on and after the first day of June, 1898, at the minimum rate of duty, not exceeding the rates respectively appearing in the following table, namely:

"Canned meats, f.15 per 100 kilos.

"Table fruits, fresh lemons, oranges, and other varieties (not mentioned,) f.5 per 100 kilos.

"Mandarin orange, f.10 per 100 kilos.

"Common table grapes, f.8 per 100 kilos.

"Apples and peaches, for the table, f.2 per 100 kilos.

"For cider and sherry, f1.50 per 100 kilos.

"Other fruits, except hothouse grapes and fruits, f.3 per 100 kilos.

"Fruits, dried or pressed, excluding raisins, apples and pears for the table, f.10 per 100 kilos.

"Prunes, f10 per 100 kilos.

"Other fruits, f.5 per 100 kilos.

"Common woods, logs, f.0.65 per 100 kilos.

"Sawed of squared timber, exceeding 35 mm., and less than 80 mm. in thickness, f.1.75 per 100 kilos.

"Facing blocks, f.1.75 per 100 kilos.

"Staves, f.0.75 per 100 kilos.

"Hoops, f.0.30 per 100 kilos.

"Apples or pears, crushed or cut and dried, f.1.50 per 100 kilos.

"Manufactured and prepared pork meats, f.5 per 100 kilos.

"Lard and its compounds, f.25 per 100 kilos.

"Herein, in further execution of the provisions of said section, it is hereby declared that one day after the 1st day of June, 1898, and during the continuance in force of the agreement aforesaid, and until otherwise declared, the imposition and collection of the duties heretofore imposed and collected upon the following-named articles and products of France by virtue of said act are hereby suspended, and in place thereof the duties shall be imposed and collected thereon according to the provisions of said section three as follows:

"On argols or crude tartar or wine lees crude, 5 per centum ad valorem.

"On brandies or other spirits manufactured or distilled from grain or other materials, $1.20 per proof gallon.

"On paintings in oil, or water colors, pastels, pen and ink drawings and statuary, 15 per centum ad valorem.

"It is further declared that the rates of duty heretofore imposed and collected on still wines and vermouth, the product of France, under the provisions of the United States Tariff Act of 1897, are conditionally suspended, and in place thereof, shall be imposed and collected on and after the 1st day of June next as follows, namely:

"On still wines and vermouths in casks, 35 cents per gallon.

"In bottles or jugs, per case of one dozen bottles or jugs, containing each not more than one quart or twenty-four bottles or jugs containing each not more than one pint, $1.25 per case, and any excess beyond these quantities found in such bottles or jugs shall be subject to a duty of 4 cents per pint or fractional part thereof, but no separate or additional duty shall be assessed upon the bottles or jugs.

"Now, therefore, be it known that I, William McKinley, President of the United States of America, have caused the above-stated modifications of the customs duties of the respective countries to be made public for the information of the citizens of the United States.

"In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the City of Washington, this, the 30th day of May, 1898, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and twenty-second.

[Signed] "WILLIAM M'KINLEY.

"By the President: William R. Day, Secretary of State."

FIXING IT WITH CANADA.

A Commission to Consider and Act on All Controversies.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The Canadion negotiations which have been in progress here for the past week were concluded tonight, when a definite agreement was reached for the creation of a commission which shall consider all the subjects of controversy between the United States and Canada and frame a treaty between the Imperial government and the United States for the complete adjustment of their controversies. The agreement is now to be submitted to the British government, for its approval, and when this is given the organization of the commission will be completed.

NATION'S DEAD.

opposition to right, reason and free will.

"Our own people have learned some valuable lessons during the present year, which will not soon be forgotten. We have learned to love and respect each other as American citizens; we are now one and inseparable, bound together as with hooks of steel, that cannot be broken. We know but one country and one sovereign—the United States of America and the American people.

"A third of a century ago a powerful, valiant and enthusiastic army was marshalled to the field of battle, under Grant, the great captain of the Union forces. Opposed to him was another powerful, valiant and enthusiastic army, under Lee, the leader of the Confederate forces. The soldiers of both armies were tempered by years of battle, and accustomed to victory. No soldiers that ever followed the Roman eagles to conquest excelled them in courage or achievement. At Gettysburg, the greatest of modern battles, the casualties on the Union side were nearly 24,000, while on the Confederate side they exceeded 27,000, making a grand total in killed, wounded and taken prisoners, of 51,000. Americans were then fighting each other. Today the voice of 75,000,000 of American citizens, who love and appreciate liberty, is united and crystallized and blended into one mighty song of war. We are no longer divided and opposed to one another, but as one people we hail our starry banner as the Flag of Freedom, undaunted, pure and irresistible.

TO HOLD THE PHILIPPINES.

"We have had forced upon us another token, which we thought we had learned long ago—that the time to prepare for war is in time of peace.

"Had we been wise and done this a few years ago, when we complained of a surplus so large that we did not know what to do with it, or how to spend it, today Cuba might have been free, and a stable government established within her borders. Three months and a half have passed since the Maine was sunk, and if at the time that hellish crime was committed, this nation could have boasted of a navy, commensurate with our wealth, our population, and our commercial interests, the Spanish navy ere this would have been swept from the seas, Cuba would have been free, and every Spanish province in the West Indies would have been captured and held legitimately by the United States, to indemnify us for the expenses of the war.

"Admiral Dewey's unprecedented victory at Manila has given us control of the Philippine Islands, a territory with an area larger than the States of Iowa and Illinois combined, with a population of more than 7,000,000, of whom only 5000 are Spaniards. The exports to this country alone average $12,000,000 per annum. These islands are rich in material resources, and we have the right to hold them as indemnity for war expenses incurred, and I trust we will. To say nothing about the interests of humanity, we need them for a coaling station, a base of supplies, and for the protection of American commerce and American citizens upon the high seas.

"And how our hearts sank within us a few days ago when we read the bulletins that the Charleston had become disabled and could not leave San Francisco to take needed supplies of stores and ammunition to Admiral Duwey at Manila, and that we had no other cruiser to take her place. Had I the power I would build battleships and swift, armored cruisers and torpedo boats and torpedo-boat destroyers, after the best models, and supply them with the best guns, and in such numbers that the nations of the earth would quake and tremble at the mere mention of the American navy.

"Our nation should catch inspiration from the zeal and patriotism of the school children throughout the land, who have determined to build a battleship with their own means. Honors, enduring honors, to the boys and girls who have undertaken this mighty work. In the past few years they have learned lessons of patriotism that will never be forgotten.

THE NICARAGUA CANAL.

"We have also learned another valuable lesson. For eight weeks we read of the battleship Oregon sailing on and on in its trackless course from San Francisco around Cape Horn, and then up the Atlantic Coast toward Key West—a distance of 13,000 miles. It was a voyage the most hazardous and most remarkable in naval history; and we wondered whether she would escape the swift, armored cruisers and torpedo boats of the Spanish armada, and in safety join Admiral Sampson's fleet.

"That distance of 13,000 miles should be reduced at least one-half by the speedy construction of the Nicaragua Canal. Any unusual delay in the progress and completion of this great work should be regarded as criminal negligence by the American people.

"We have also learned that we need coast defenses, and lighthouses, and harbors of commerce and refuge. Let us build that which we need and need badly, and thus furnish to our country's brave defenders in time of peace that employment which they ask and need, and should have, and with the end that our nation may be invincible in war."

THE SCROLL OF FAME.

To these captious ones who fail to appreciate or see anything worthy of emulation in the lives of the dead, Maj. Donnell commended the closing paragraph of the funeral speech delivered by Pericles, the Athenian statesman, over the first dead on the Peloponesesian war, and asked them to apply it, as they truthfully can, to their own people.

"For the whole earth is a sepulcher of famous men," said Pericles. "Not only are they commemorated by columes and inscriptions in their own country, but in foreign lands there dwells also an unwritten memorial of them, graven not on stone, but in the hearts of men. Make them your examples, and esteeming courage to be freedom and freedom to be happiness, do not weigh too nicely the perils of war."

"Of the famous men who are thus commemorated," said the speaker, "are many Americans who achieved honorable distinction in every department of science, statesmanship, literature and art. Among those who won military renown I mention the names of Washington and Warren and Jackson and Scott: of Grant and Sherman and Meade: of Hancock and Thomas and Logan and McPherson, and Rosecrans, of Hooker, of Garfield and Curtis, and I might name a thousand more who were the very incarnation of soldierly valor, and some of them the incarnation of war itself.

"Among the kings of the sea—men who never surrendered or pulled down the American flag—we find the names of John Paul Jones, and Lawrence, and Perry, and Drake; of Decatur, and Morris, and Dupont, and Farragut, and in the future will be found the names of their legitimate successors, now in command of our battleships and cruisers: Sampson, and Dewey, and Schley, and Sigsbee, and Taylor, and Clark, and Bob Evans. With these men at the helm we have no fear of any Spanish fleet. The talismanic words, 'Remember the Maine,' fly from every mainmast, not as indicative of revenge, but as an incentive to heroic deeds, and under their direction the glorious Stars and Stripes will yet wave proudly and victoriously over every Spanish fortress, castle and citadel in the Western Hemisphere."

Long and continued applause rewarded the orator of the day, and when the audience stood up and joined in singing "America," the volume of sound seemed to shake the whole building. Then Rev. Levi H. Hartley pronounced the benediction, and the vast audience dispersed and the memorial exercises were at an end.

WERE NOT FORGOTTEN.

Graves in the Old City Cemetery Decorated by School Children.

The Grand Army veterans did not forget the few graves of their former comrades in the old city cemetery, which has fallen into decay, and is about as dilapidated looking a burying place as could be found in this part of the State. There are not many graves of veterans there, but they received more flowers than any of the others in the city.

A detail from Bartlett-Logan Post, G.A.R., had been assigned to the duty of looking after these graves. The children of the Custer and Sand-street schools had been informed of the detail and its duty, and under the leadership of the principles of the schools, Mrs. Thurston and Mrs. Smith, they went to the cemetery, each carrying an armload of flowers.

All of the veterans' graves were decorated, and then followed brief, but appropriate, exercises.

THE KRAG-JORGENSEN RIFLE.

An Army Officer Questions Its Effectiveness.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The army is not harmonious on the subject of the efficiency of the new army rifle, the Krag-Jorgensen gun. An old army officer, who is an expert on small arms, but who for obvious reasons will not permit his name to be used in connection with this matter, spoke as follows tonight: "The Krag-Jorgensen rifle will prove a failure in the present war with Spain, and will show itself to be an arm of little effectiveness in any other war. In the first place, the soldiers of the American army don't like the new weapon, and this is more against the gun than people unversed in matters military may think. It is only natural that a man will handle a piece which he is fond of better than one to which he is unused and which to him appears to be a complex device. The American soldier, regular as well as volunteer, has been accustomed to the Springfield single-shot breech-loading rifle. It is dear to him, because of the association connected with it, as well as because of the soundness, simplicity and all-round serviceable qualities of the Springfield. I know that gunmaking has improved, but the Springfield gun is better than it ever was, and I think it is the best military weapon made. The American soldier knows every little screw and pivot in it. He is not afraid of its getting out of order. He knows how to shoot with it. A man can keep up as steady fire and keep it up longer with the Springfield than with the Krag-Jorgensen. The new gun is lauded mainly because it will shoot so far. But let me tell you that the long-range rifle is not necessarily the best gun for field service by any means. It is all right for target practice on a straight-away range over a piece of land that has been rolled and leveled, but for shooting at men and shooting with intent to kill, the Springfield gun is the best made. You do not begin to use small arms on an enemy until he is about six, or at most eight hundred yards distant. You cannot see him a mile away over your gun sights, much less hit him with a rifle bullet. On the desert of Sahara a whole caravan can be seen about one mile away, but it is next to impossible to hit a man that far away, and it's simply a waste of ammunition to shoot at him. The fighting in Cuba will be at close range, if the fighting is to be decisive, because of the undergrowth, which will let armies get relatively closer together without being exposed.

"Another reason why the Krag-Jorgenson is ineffective is that unless a man is shot through the brain, heart or bowels, he will continue to put up a fight. His arms and legs may be perforated by the small, fast-flying projectiles without being disabled or feeling agony enough to quit. With the Springfield it is different. When a man gets struck in any part of his anatomy with a 45-caliber ball, containing 500 grains of lead, moving at a moderate velocity, he is ready to leave the field. He wants to see an army surgeon at once. I will bet that I can fire one hundred shots out of a Springfield quicker than they can be fired out of the new magazine gun. And after the test is over I will not have to send the Springfield to the armory for repairs."

Several army officers were present and the majority indorsed these sentiments, but two or three of the younger officers voted in favor of the new-style gun.

Hope for Sutro.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—It is stated that there is a possibility of Adolph Sutro partly recovering his health, notwithstanding his physicians have pronounced his mental and physical condition incurable. Today he was able to sit by his window and watch the passing of a body of troops. He also discussed business matters concerning which for some time his mind had been a blank.

New Hammer-throwing Record.

NEW YORK, May 30.—At the grounds of the New Jersey Athletic Club, at Bayonne, N. J., this afternoon, in throwing the sixteen-pound hammer, John Flannagan of the New York Athletic Club, the holder of the world's record was defeated by his only competitor, J. C. McCracken of the University of Pennsylvania. McCracken made a new record of 153 feet 8 inches, which beats the record by one inch.

The Spanish fleet isn't that way any more; it is, in fact, anything but fleet.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, Los Angeles, May 30.—[Reported by George E. Franklin, Local Forecast Official.] At 5 o'clock a.m. the barometer registered 29.99; at 5 p.m., 29.97. Thermometer for the corresponding hours showed 58 deg. and 64 deg. Relative humidity, 5 a.m., 80 per cent.; 5 p.m., 65 per cent. Wind, 5 a.m., south, velocity 4 miles; 5 p.m., southwest, velocity 8 miles. Character of weather, 5 a.m., cloudy; 5 p.m., clear. Maximum temperature, 72 deg.; minimum temperature, 55 deg. Barometer reduced to sea level.

WEATHER FORECAST:

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—For Southern California: Fair Tuesday; light westerly winds.

ALL ALONG THE LINE.

Late rains and cool weather are making a noble endeavor to compensate the farmers for early drouths by giving a much-needed boost to late crops of fruit and vegetables.

Riverside has taken a couple of strides in the direction of stocking the country with future patriots. Twin boys born there the other day have been christened Samuson and Schley.

The Red Cross Society has been swamped with pies and housewives, and it is now hungering for a generous stock of olives, dried fruits and bottled lime or lemon juice, to comfort the souls of the boys on their way to the Philippines.

The San Jose Mercury says: "As there will be no State exhibit at the Omaha Exposition, the commissioners will have nothing to do. In the meanwhile Southern California has sent on a magnificent exhibit, which will advertise the products of that section of California. They do things differently down that way."

Neighborly sympathy comes from Arizona. The Williams News says: "The Los Angeles Times has distinctly drawn the line on free advertising for [fake] benefit and charity performances. Something every paper in the land should do. Newspaper men, as others, should give their donations in cash, as a lot of mutton heads in this world fail to remember that space in his paper is all the newspaper man has for revenue."

Patriotism burns high in Washington, and the Seattle Post-Intelligencer proposes to tack on a sort of Thanksgiving annex to Independence day. It says in a recent issue: "Seattle ought to have a rousing Fourth of July celebration this year. Our prosperity was never so great and our patriotism has never been so intensely aroused. It will be remembered that our great advance dates from the Fourth of July last year. The people were feeling very blue about this time in 1897, and there were grave doubts expressed as to the possibility of having a creditable display. But the Seattle spirit aroused itself, and it was a great success. We had barely recovered from it when the Portland arrived in Seattle with the first great gold shipments, and startled the world with the news of the Klondike discoveries. Since that day we have been 'on the jump.' We have reason, even for selfish reasons, to celebrate the Fourth of July this year."

COURSING.

Results of the Finals at Agricultural Park.

Coursing was resumed yesterday morning at Agricultural Park at 11:30.

The first two ties of the consolation stake resulted in wins by Burrell & Wilkins's Stella, De Madell & Augustine's Skyball, E. Street's Santa Ana Boy, Smith & Dryden's Portia, E. O. Drown's John Mitchell, L. C. Cleveland's Don Orsini, J. P. Callahan's Corbett and J. Hinter's Little Brown Jug.

In the second ties Stella beat Corbett, Portia beat Santa Ana Boy, Don Orsini beat John Mitchell and Little Brown Jug beat Corbett.

In the semi-finals Stella beat her full sister Portia, and Don Orsini beat Little Brown Jug.

The final between the brindle dog and Stella was a very pretty course. Don Orsini showed, however, very superior work, and won out with a good lead.

This gave Don Orsini the purse of $40, Stella taking second money, Little Brown Jug third, Portia fourth, Corbett fifth, John Mitchell sixth, Santa Ana Boy seventh and Skyball eighth.

In the Crackajack stake C. W. Merry's Orpheum Lass beat Frank Passons & Co.'s Kitty Scott, J. J. O'Connor's Sir Jasper beat E. F. Kohler's Snooze, Bingham & Adam's Ormonde beat J. J. O'Connor's Grazer, Smith & Dryden's Oriental beat F. Passons & Co.'s Lady Wallace.

In the second run-off Sir Jasper beat Orpheum Lass and Osmonde beat Oriental. This brought Sir Jasper and Ormonde together for the final struggle.

A grand hare was sent out, and to a beautiful slip the pair ran neck and neck to the far end of the field. Puss was clever and kept the dogs busy, and the hounds were so evenly matched that the judge could not separate them, and gave it a tie.

After a short rest the hounds were put in the slip again. The second course was a very short one, and resulted in a victory for the northern dog, Sir Jasper, by four to three. Sir Jasper was first, Ormonde second, Orpheum Loss third and Oriental fourth.

The purses which had been strung along the wire in many-colored silk bags, were then distributed to the owners of the winners.

There was a very fair attendance, and the sport was good. The judging and slipping left nothing to be desired.

At New York Hotels.

NEW YORK, May 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. L. N. Blinn is at the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

A writer in the Philadelphia News says: "All sorts of bacteria appear to pass through filters, and not alone water species. The bacillus of typhoid fever will not only pass through, but in two of my trials I found that it had increased. For such special tests I used sterilized Croton water, into which bacteria was introduced from pure cultures. Harmful bacteria can pass through filters, can possibly increase in them under certain favoring conditions, and from parallel tests seem to retain their vitality longer when in the substance than when in a glass vessel beside it."

CUT RATES AT LAST.

The War on Here—Flag-raising All the Rage.

J. J. Byrne, general passenger agent of the Santa Fé, is home from San Francisco. He arrived Sunday afternoon. As was expected, his return puts the cut rate on second-class passenger business in full force here.

Cutting was begun by the Canadian Pacific weeks ago, and the Northern Pacific road had to meet the low rates. Then San Francisco was drawn into the fight, making a rate by way of Portland or Puget Sound. This led people going east from Los Angeles to buy a ticket to San Francisco and then get the lower rates from there.

Now the cut rate will be made from here. That is, the rate will be the same as from San Francisco plus $12, what it costs to go to that point second class. The new rates will go into effect June 5, next Sunday, and will be as follows: St. Paul, $33, old rate $47.50; Chicago $44.50, old rate $52.50. To New York the rate will probably be $54.55, now $66.50. Cut rates will apply only to points where the Canadian Pacific is a competitor. To Kansas City, for instance, the rate is as heretofore. From San Francisco the cut-rate tickets will be good only via the Southern Pacific, and not via the Central Pacific.

To do as here outlined, permission had to be gotten from the Interstate Commerce Commission, as the rules of that body, strictly enforced, forbid the selling of a ticket to a more distant point for a lower price than to a nearer point.

The Santa Fé men at all points in the West are determined to keep "Old Glory" in evidence these war times. A week ago they raised a beautiful flag at La Grande Depot, in this city. Sunday they had a great flag-raising at San Bernardino. F. B. Henderson, chief clerk to General Manager Nevin, received this dispatch upon the event, signed by C. F. Lape, master mechanic at the shops in that place:

"At 5 p.m., amid the plaudits of 2000 people, shrieks of whistles and roar of cannon, we unfurled to the breeze over the shops at San Bernardino, three beautiful American flags."

Yesterday General Manager Nevin and General Superintendent Wells reached Albuquerque, where a similar ceremony was performed.

WILL NOT PROSECUTE.

I. E. Messmore Will Withdraw His Charges Against Conley.

At the regular session of the Board of Police Commissioners today the charges which were preferred against Patrolmen Conley and Hubbard by I. E. Messmore, are to be withdrawn by the latter. This action is taken because of the fact that under the circumstances it would be almost impossible for the commission to take any other action than to dismiss the charges. The matter has already been tried in court, and at that trial both sides exerted their best efforts, Messmore to convict and Conley to defend himself. In rendering his decision, the Justice before whom the case was tried, practically decided that had Messmore gone with the officer peaceably there would have been no trouble. The officer was cleared of all blame in the matter, it being shown that he had done nothing more than his duty, and the case was dismissed. The case against Messmore for disturbing the peace has not yet been tried in Justice Morrison's court, but when it is called it will probably be dismissed, as Conley has no desire to prosecute Messmore.

When the Board of Police Commissioners convenes this morning the following communication will be presented, which will dispose of the Conley case as well as that against Patrolman Hubbard:

"To the Board of Police Commissioners, gentlemen: In the matter of the charges filed by me against Policemen J. T. Conley and W. S. Hubbard, on account of my recent arrest, I now desire to withdraw the same from the further consideration of your body. This action is taken in view of the turn the whole affair has taken in the courts, exonerating the police officers; that the arrest was without animus on part of the officers and my desire to be rid of the worry and annoyance of further proceedings.

[Signed] "I. E. MESSMORE."

BANGHAM IN COMMAND.

Placed Temporarily in Charge of the Seventh Infantry.

In an order soon to be issued by Brig.-Gen. Last, commanding the First Brigade, N.G.C., Maj. N. S. Bangham will be assigned to the temporary command of the Seventh Infantry. The Seventh Regiment did not cease to exist when the flower of the command went to San Francisco, but the organization remained in those who were left behind. Since that time the members of the local companies have been expecting orders for the reorganization of the regiment, the election of company and regimental officers, etc., but it is supposed that the military authorities of the State have been so busy assisting in the work of preparing California's quota in response to the President's call for troops that they have decided to wait a while before issuing the orders to recruit the companies up to their usual standard, or above it.

The order placing Maj. Bangham in command gives him that place only temporarily, or until the reorganization takes place.

NEWLY UNIFORMED.

Mexican Philharmonic Band Secures Handsome New Attire.

The Mexican Philharmonic Band, thirty-two strong, is out in bright new uniforms, or they were out last night celebrating the acquisition of their handsome garb by serenading the newspaper offices. The band is under the leadership of Y. Escobar, and is composed of some excellent musicians. The new uniforms are of very handsome design. They are of blue cloth faced with white and with white cording. Nearly all of the band's instruments are new and some of them are improvements over what are possessed by other such organizations here. The band rendered several selections in front of the Times office last night, their playing attracting a crowd of several hundred people to First and Broadway.

Invited to Los Angeles.

An effort is being made by the commercial bodies of the city to induce the State Republican League, which holds its initial convention in San Francisco, to meet next year at Los Angeles. Yesterday the following telegram was sent to San Francisco, inviting the league to meet here, and tendering the free use of Hazard's Pavilion.

LOS ANGELES, May 30, 1898.—Capt. Gilbert E. Overton, 410 California Street, San Francisco, Cal.: Board of Trade, Chamber of Commerce and Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association invite State Republican League to hold convention at Los Angeles next year. Tender use of Hazard's Pavilion without cost. Assure convention every other possible courtesy and concession will be extended. We guarantee a hearty welcome.

Attention Ladies!

Some two months ago we ordered made for us a fine line of Ladies' Straw Sailors. They were made and forwarded, but got lost in transit, we had the makers put a tracer out after them and they finally located them at San Francisco; they were ordered shipped to us, and arrived Saturday P.M. Today we place them on sale, and in consideration of the fact that it is a little late in the season we have marked them at very low prices. They will be $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 and $2.00.

We'd like to have you come in and look at them, even if you don't wish to buy.

There is no long waiting for help if Ripans Tabules are taken for dyspepsia and headache. Relief comes quickly. One Tabule (about the size of a small button) will relieve distress in the stomach within fifteen minutes and the headache will shortly disappear. There was an industrious, hard-working woman of Cooperstown, N. Y., some sixty years of age, who for a long time had suffered greatly from dyspepsia and dreadful headaches. Her stomach tormented her so that she could hardly work at all, and, although she had tried all sorts of things, she got no relief. A friend sent her some Ripans Tabules and she felt better as soon as she took the first one. She felt more like working. "I have continued with the Tabules ever since," she says, "and they always help me."

A new style packet containing TEN RIPANS TABULES in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores—FOR FIVE CENTS. This low priced sort is intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (120 tabules) can be had by mail by sending forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York—or a single carton (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents.

MUTUAL RESERVE. A New York correspondent recently wrote to the United States Investor, in regard to the raise of rates of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, inquiring whether a policy-holder would do better to abandon the company or continue to pay the increased rates. In eply, the Investor states that the wiser course seems to be for policy-holders to pay the assessments called for on the basis of the new rates, and await developments. The opinion of a prominent New York insurance actuary is quoted as follows:

"Most of those who bought these Mutual Reserve policies seem to have supposed that they had policies on which the rates of assessment were to remain level throughout life. As a matter of fact, the rates of assessment are specified in the policy to be 'at current ages,' which can only mean at the age the insured is when the assessment was levied. It might seem as if the company had no right to do this, being shut out by its own acquiescence in the former practice. But this is not the case; for the company has followed this course, except that the excess of cost over rates actually collected has in the past been met from the reserve fund contributions of the same members. Now the available reserve fund contributions are exhausted, and this could not be continued without encroaching upon funds which were contributed by other embers, and are held for their benefit and protection. The members have now had all the insurance they have paid for; evidently they must now pay for all the insurance they get. If they undertake to shift the cost they will simply make the insurance less valuable—worth even less than they pay, for it would tend to become worthless in a short while. If they consent to pay what it is worth as long as they want it, they will get their money's worth, as of old. The members in different parts of the country have been holding meetings and denouncing the management, which is worse than useless. Some persons have demanded that laws be passed to remedy the state of affairs, as if any law could make the insurance cost less. The New York insurance department is now engaged in an examination of the association, at the special request of the officers, particularly with reference to its status in this matter, and will no doubt soon publish the facts and its views of the contract and the laws."

COMMERCIAL.

CHEAP CRACKERS. The fight between the two leading cracker factories which do business on this Coast, and the consequent low range of prices, has continued so long that consumers have become accustomed to this state of affairs, and seldom stop to consider that the prices paid for crackers in Los Angeles today leave little or no margin to the manufacturers. The Commercial Bulletin publishes the following figures, showing local prces, figured net, less discounts allowed here, and net prices charged in Chicago and Denver, on similar staples; it being borne in mind that all supplies are much lower there than here, the difference in price of lard alone (a large factor) being no less than 1¼ cents per pound.

SARDINES ADVANCING. There is a great scarcity of domestic sardines in the United States, and prices are advancing rapidly. This should assist the local sardine packers, although their brand does not compete directly with the American sardines, but with the imported article. The Grocery World says:

"In recent issues the taking hold by the English syndicate was told. The announcement of this fact assisted the actual scarcity of stocks, and prices at once began to soar, and they are soaring yet. The retail grocer, on the basis of present prices to the jobber, would probably have to pay at least $3.50 for a case of quarter oils. Some of the jobbers have stock bought at the old prices, and may not advance at once. Eventually they will have to.

"Holders of sardines are now prophesying a price of $3.50 per case in New York at first hands. This means $3.60 delivered to the Philadelphia jobber, and probably $4 to the retailer. As domestic sardines are usually sold at 5 cents a box, these advances are cutting down the profit greatly. When the price reaches $4 the retailer will make but 1 cent per box, as against 2 cents before the market started to advance.

"Sardine prices haven't been as high as they are now for about five years. At that time the price was considered about normal, but the intense competition has forced it down since."

COMPETITION IN SUGAR PRODUCTION Discussing the immense development in the sugar industry of late years, the Bulletin Consulaire (Belgian,) says:

"One of the most significant symptoms of the increase of prosperity among all classes is the unprecedented increase in the consumption of sugar. Not very long ago sugar was regarded as a luxury; today it has become, we may say, one of the prime necessities. The Bulletin of Statistics has printed a series of tablets which merits attention. Ten years ago the production of sugar in the entire world was only 4,948,000 tons. In 1896-97 the production amounted to 7,205,000 tons. Of this amount cane sugar figures for 2,432,000 tons, and beet sugar for 7,772,000 tons. The production of cane sugar has increased 25 per cent., and that of beet sugar 50 per cent. What first strikes us in the statement is the commanding position of Germany, which alone produces more than one-fourth of the quantity produced in the entire world. The German sugar industry in 1896 threw 1,839,000 tons of sugar upon the market, and every day the number of factories is increasing. France and Russia each produced 700,000 tons, while Austria-Hungary shows 930,000 tons. For cane sugar Cuba was, before the insurrection, the principal center of manufacture. In 1887 it produced 1,100,000 tons; in 1896 the production had fallen to 200,000 tons. Java has profited the most by this misfortune; from 390,000 tons in 1887, its production increased to 500,000 tons in 1896. If it be considered that when peace is reëstablished Cuba will not be long in equalizing its former output, that Java will probably not care to lose the markets acquired, and that, owing to export bounties, the production of sugar is annually developing in large proportions, it is easily seen what a terrible competition there will soon be in all the markets of the world. The most curious feature is that this competition especially benefits the only country in Europe not producing sugar—England. At the present moment French sugar is quoted at 2 3-5 cents per pound on the London market. To what price must it fall when Cuba once more begins to manufacture, and when the German factories reach their full capacity."

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

CHEAP LUMBER. There is a lumber war on at Bakersfield. Lumber which cost $20 per thousand a short time ago can now be bought for $10. It is believed that this will lead to much building, as it means a great saving in the cost of houses.

PACKING ORANGES. The Pasadena Fruit Growers' Association places a card in each box of oranges packed in its warehouses, requesting the purchaser to notify the association if anything is found wrong with the fruit. The card shows the name of the packer, so that responsibility for bad packing can be promptly fixed.

PERSONALS.

George Potter of San Diego was in the city yesterday, en route from San Francisco.

Maj. W. H. Bonsall, who has been in San Francisco for the past three weeks, returned home yesterday.

B. T. Walling, U.S.N., with Mrs. Walling and their child, came up from San Diego yesterday morning and stopped at the Van Nuys Hotel, for the day, leaving on the night train for San Francisco. Mr. Walling has been on sick leave for some time, and is hurrying back to Mare Island to report for duty.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Fox and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fox of Boston, Mass., returned to the Nadeau Hotel yesterday, having been staying at the Arcadia Hotel, Santa Monica. They came out from the East a few weeks ago to travel through the southern part of the State, and are so pleased with the climate that they may reside here permanently.

AMENDMENTS OPPOSED.

Senate Committee on Finance Spends Three Hours Exchanging Views.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The Senate Committee on Finance was in session for three hours today, considering amendments which have been suggested to the War-revenue Bill. The time was spent largely in an exchange of views upon the policy of accepting any amendments which are not germane to the bill, the result being a determination to accept none such of whatever character. The talk was directed especially toward the amendments of Senator Lodge for the annexation of Hawaii, and of Senator Morgan providing for a form of government of acquired territory, and there was a general expression of opinion that they should not be accepted by the committee, and furthermore, that if necessary they should be met with motions to table. This decision was also made applicable to other like amendments, such as that offered by Senator Pettigrew for the abrogation of the Hawaiian reciprocity treaty. There was no dissenting view from this policy. Senators favorable personally to the various amendments agreed with those who were not that with the door once opened to changes not pertinent to the main subject of the bill, the end would be indefinitely postponed.

The committee also discussed to some extent amendments suggesting changes of the method of the taxing of transactions of stock and grain exchanges and insurance brokers, but decided to leave the provisions relating to these subjects as they now stand.

The only two changes of importance decided upon related to drugs and to receipts. The amendment regarding receipts for amounts below $5, and that in relation to drugs is a verbal change making clearer the meaning of the committee that drugs and proprietary articles should be taxed only when sold.

There was also a virtual understanding that if the Gorman amendment should be adopted by the Senate, there would be still further changes in the stamp tax made. In that event it will not be necessary to collect so large a sum on stamps. The committee is divided on the Gorman amendment.

A LITTLE TOO PREVIOUS.

High Officials Deny an Immediate Anglo-American Alliance.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Inquiry at the State Department and at the British Embassy fails to develop any substantial basis for the supposition that negotiations are afoot looking to a close compact between the United States and Great Britain covering all possible subjects of difference, conferring special trade privileges on both parties, providing for the joint use of the Nicaraguan Canal, and embracing what would amount to an alliance, offensive and defensive, to the end that Great Britain may enjoy in peace her Asiatic possessions, while the United States will have a share of the trade in that quarter, and will be secured also in the application of the Monroe doctrine.

By the British officials here, much satisfaction is felt at the conspicuous growth of friendship by the English-speaking people on both sides of the water, but it is the view in these circles that it is a healthy and desirable growth which cannot find immediate expression in formal treaties or contentions.

Such large results are hoped for in the course of time as the result of public opinion. Meantime there is a disposition to also present a conservative view as to what should be attempted at the present moment. The reports that far-reaching agreements are under consideration or about to be made, are looked upon as very unprejudicial to the accomplishment of any real result.

As stated by a leading diplomatic official today, radical criticism of Great Britain has apparently given way to radical sympathy, and in both cases this radicalism misleads people in having false expectations and false fears, and serves to defeat those conservative results which are secured only by patience and after mature deliberation.

Same Old Kind.

The "grand concert" given under the management of the "Elite Trio," at the Los Angeles Theater last evening, turned out to be the same old kind of a show that flourishes in rural districts and, judging from the applause, the audience must have been largely imported from the suburbs. The participants evinced the utmost willingness to give their patrons their money's worth, and supplied encores with remarkable alacrity. The children who took part in the "concert" division of the programme did their little best, but there seemed no apparent reason for their introduction, and the work of the other participants was, with the exception of Mr. France's solo, utterly unworthy of serious consideration. Mrs. Effie Dean Knappen, who produced a vocal solo and an encore, made evident the fact that she possessed one note, any deviation from which was instantly fatal. S. J. von Hirsch played a violin solo, and the "Elite Trio" worried through several numbers. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Quinlan, Miss Daisy Sutton and little Mildred Miller, who was announced as having "taken lessons but ten months," filled out the remainder of "Part one." The second part was devoted to a fairy cantata, under the direction of H. J. Kramer, which proved quite the best thing of the evening. The children were daintily gowned, and danced with much grace, and the little soloist, Miss Lillian Belcher, did a turn that would have scored a hit on the Orpheum stage.

Events in Society.

Mrs. Lou V. Chapin entertained the Pasadena Shakespeare Club at her home at Knob Hill Saturday afternoon, the occasion being the last regular meeting of the organization before the formal occupation of its new club building. Fifty members were present and the affair was exceptionally enjoyable. Owing to the illness of Mrs. Coleman, Mrs. Helen Bandini presided, and after the regular routine attendant upon the opening of the exercises, Mrs. Frank Parker read an able paper upon "The Evolution of Sculpture." In lucid and poetic language this most eloquent of all the arts was traced from its earliest inception to its present state, the reader pausing often to make apt quotations or to give illustrations and similes apropos of the subject. Mrs. E. A. Walker treated of "The Nude in Art," from the standpoint of aesthetic culture and ideal beauty, illustrating her subject by many photographs of the famous nudes in the great galleries. Miss Anna Meeker spoke most entertamingly upon "The Influence of the Greek," exhibting photographs of the famous statues and bas-reliefs of the various periods of Grecian art history. Mrs. Eugenia Manahan spoke briefly of modern sculpture, comparing its product and influence with the old masterpieces.

The programme was interspersed with music delightfully rendered. Miss Alice Eaton acted as accompanist for Prof. Rolla Gardner and Miss Bessie Chapin, who favored the company with several mandolin duets. Miss Eaton also sang the "Creole Love Song," delightfully. Prof. and Mrs. W. T. Chick rendered a vocal duet and were so heartily received that each sang a solo during the afternoon in response to special request. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion, the receptionroom with pink carnations, pansies and tall papyrus plumes. The library was in pelargoniums and ground pine, the drawing-room in scarlet nasturtiums, and the parlor in sweet peas, the mantels being artistically banked with the respective decorations and great vases and jardinieres filled with flowers, carrying out the color scheme. Elaborate refreshments were served, and the meeting altogether proved one of the most satisfactory in the history of the club. Miss Cosette Lyons, Miss Beatrice Snow and Miss Ethel Chapin assisted in receiving.

Mrs. Edward C. Nye of West Eighth street gave a children's party last Wednesday in honor of Miss Alyce Nye's tenth birthday. Games, guessing on a bottle of beans and baby photographs furnished amusement. The first and second prizes for the beans were won by Helen Kingman and Gladys Percy, and for the photographs, by Susie Conder and Howard Loy. In the prize cake the gold ring was found by Lucile Cope, the thimble by Frances Eichholz and the dime by Hattie Phillips. A large birthday cake, decorated with candles, caps, bonbons, fruit, punch and photographs for favors were some of the attractions of the table. Those present were: Winnifred Wheeler, Charles Wheeler, Lucile Cope, Frances Eichholz, Hattie Phillips, Victor Kingman, Helen Kingman, Howard Loy, Gladys Percy, Susie Ponder.

A children's party was given Friday afternoon by Mrs. Homer S. Griggs at her home on Eighth and Garland avenue, in honor of the fourth birthday of her little daughter Allo Mae. The rooms were prettily decorated with carnations and sweet peas, and the afternoon was devoted to games and refreshments. The guests were the little Misses Pearlie Messmore, Marrin Alinson, Hallie Shaw, Dorna Cumber, Clara May Miller, Ethel Barrett, Camilla Barrett, Lillie Herberger; Masters Sierra Reppert and Paul Munsey. The older guests were Mmes. C. T. Miller, J. Simmons, S. N. Reppert, E. Munsey, Miss A. Hanson, Miss Ella Lyon and Mrs. F. F. Miller.

Rupture Cured in 4 Months

LOS ANGELES, CAL., March 28, 1898.
PROF. JOSEPH FANDREY, European Specialist, 642 S. Main St., City.

Dear Sir—This is to certify that I, J. D. Harmon, have suffered from rupture for a period of 22 years, and during that time I have suffered a great deal, but through friends I was advised to consult Prof. Joseph Fandrey 6 months ago, which I did, and was completely cured in 4 months' time, without operation, injection or detention from business. I am now as strong and able as any man living, and have no further need for a truss. I will be only too glad to answer any and all questions from those who are suffering as I was. Very respectfully,

NEWS FROM SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA TOWNS.

PASADENA.

PATRIOTIC AND ENTHUSIASTIC DEMONSTRATION.

Largest Procession Seen for Years. Ritualistic Service at the Cemetery—Auditorium Packed in the Evening—Profusion of Flowers.

PASADENA, May 30.—[Regular Correspondence.] Memorial day was celebrated in this city today on a larger scale than ever before. Early in the forenoon the sounds of fife, drum and bugle, gave to the city a martial seeming, and the marching to and fro of the various military and semi-military organizations presented a very warlike appearance. All Pasadena was either participating, or lined up on the sidewalks to witness the largest procession seen in this city in many years.

The red, white and blue was everywhere to be seen, in the flags carried by the several organizations in the procession, in the dresses of the school children, and the small flags carried in the hands of hundreds of people, both in and out of the parade. Never have flowers been more numerous and elegant than today, and all the pupils of the schools carried small bouquets as did the members of the Grand Army, Ladies' Relief Corps, and other societies.

The various organizations participating in the parade formed on East Colorado street, east of Marengo avenue, and the line of march was on Colorado street to the Terminal Railroad Station, where two trains of eight cars each, were in waiting to convey the participants in the parade to Mountain View Cemetery, where the ceremony of decorating the graves of the veterans was held. The procession was formed as follows:

Squad of mounted police. Marshal Lacey and officers Goltman, Bristol, Pinkham and Reynolds.
Chief Marshal George T. Downing and aides, Dr. W. H. Prittie, Col. L. P. Hansen, J. K. Vlier, Thomas C. Hoag, R. Williams and Capt. A. C. Drake.
The Pasadena Band, 16 pieces.
The Americus Club, under command of Capt. James H. Campbell.
Bugle and Drum Corps.
Troops M, First Regiment California Volunteer Cavalry, Capt. J. C. Farnsworth commanding.
High School Cadets, Capt. Erle Weight commanding.
Boys' Brigade, Capt. John Sedwick, commanding.
Wilson High School, Principal J. D. Graham commanding.
Wilson Grammar School, Miss Shibley, commanding.
Franklin school, Mrs. Burt, commanding.
Grant school, Ely Fort, commanding.
Columbia school, W. B. Frackleton, commanding.
Garfield school, J. H. Collins, commanding.
Lincoln school, W. J. Hornby, commanding.
Woman's Relief Corps, President Mrs. Buddington, commanding.
Ladies' Aid Society to S. of V., Miss Bristol, commanding.
North Pasadena Drum Corps.
Sons of Veterans, Capt. H. D. Gaylord, commanding.
John F. Godfrey Post and other veterans, Union and Confederate, Commander W. M. Pennel, commanding.

So many members of the Americus Club belong to other organizations that the ranks were very much depleted, as was also the case with Troops M and F of the Volunteer Cavalry. The various schools were distinguished one from another by the designs in apparel. One school composed of girls wore red caps, another school composed of boys had red ribbons around the hats, and still another was a very pretty effect in white dresses, with red caps and blue sashes.

The High School Marching Club wore white trousers, black coats and white straw hats with red, white and blue ribbons. The principal of the Lincoln school preceded his pupils carrying a large picture of Lincoln. The Ladies' Aid Society to the Sons of Veterans looked very pretty in white dresses with red, white and blue sashes, and white parasols.

At the cemetery the ritualistic service of the Grand Army was first carried out, followed by a patriotic and historic address by Senator C. M. Simpson. The Orpheus Quartette, consisting of Misses Bollinger and Nutt and Messrs. Edwards and Streble, sang "With Mem'ries Dear," "Honor to the Nation's Dead," and "Under the Violets."

The firing squad of the Sons of Veterans fired a volley, and the work of decorating the graves of veterans proceeded. Wagon loads of flowers were strewn with lavish hands over the graves in which slept those who had fought for their country.

THE EVENING EXERCISES.

The Tabernacle, large as it is, was not nearly equal to the task of accommodating all who desired to attend the exercises, and hundreds were unable to obtain seats, while the space between the last row of seats and the walls was crowded with people standing. A literary and musical programme was presented, and Hon. Frank F. Davis made a patriotic address.

PASADENA BREVITIES.

At a meeting of Throop Alumni Association officers have been elected as follows: Robert S. Allen, president; Miss Kate Blick, vice-president; Miss Ivy Menner, secretary; Miss Ruth Baker, treasurer; Miss Dian M. Haynes, historian.

Capt. A. C. Drake of Troop F, Volunteer Cavalry, who was on the staff of Chief Marshal Downing, met with a serious accident. His horse fell with him, and his face was badly cut and bruised.

Harry Haas is again in trouble. This time he wandered out to Shorb's ranch, and this evening was taken to the police station, from whence he was sent home.

Very many Pasadenans went to the beaches or to the cañons and spent the day. Several tally-ho parties from Los Angeles also sought the cañons.

Not an arrest was made today.

Before leaving your catering order, call on McCament. He has something special to say to you, and is prepared to fill large or small orders in the most artistic and satisfactory manner.

SANTA MONICA.

Memorial Exercises—Special Tribute to a Grand Army Comrade.

SANTA MONICA, May 30.—[Regular Correspondence.] The Memorial day exercises brought out today one of the largest turnouts of its kind that the town has witnessed in years. There was a gratifying absence of sporting events, and citizens from all walks in life united in doing honor to the dead. The parade formed early in the afternoon and marched over the principal thoroughfares, then out Utah avenue, and on to Woodlawn Cemetery. G. R. Smith was marshal. The order of the procession was as follows:

Soldiers' Home Band.
Soldiers' Home firing squad., Sergt. Halpin commanding.
John A. Martin Post, G.A.R., Commander J. H. Keeney.
Commodore Hopkins Association Naval Veterans' Union, No. 25, Commander James R. Kelley; attended by Miss Lillian Ashman as the "Daughter of the Navy."
Co. No. 21, Uniform Rank, K. of P., Capt. E. J. Vawter, Jr.
Company of citizens organized for National Guard service, Lieut. Odell in command.
Sixteen boys and sixteen girls from the public schools, selected to decorate the graves, and in charge of Miss Mabel Davisson.
Fort Fisher Post, No. 137, G.A.R., Commander William Stevenson.
Fort Fisher W.R.C. in carriages.
Citizens in carriages.

At a point near the city limits a part of the procession was dismissed, and members of some of the companies took carriages. At the cemetery the ritual service of the G.A.R. was read, W. S. Stevenson acting as commander, F. M. Culp as officer of the day, and I. A. Willis as chaplain. E. S. Peak of the Soldiers' Home Band sounded taps, and the firing squad fired a salute of three volleys. These exercises were about and over the grave of Stephen Jackson, who was a charter member of Fort Fisher Post, and who, up to two years ago, served as marshal of the Memorial-day parades in Santa Monica nearly every year for a decade. Following the exercises his grave was covered with a profusion of floral pieces. The programme for this evening's exercises included the following: Invocation, Rev. S. H. Taft; medley, Santa Monica Orchestra; reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg address, Miss Grace Elliott; piano solo, Miss Alice Balsley; address, Gen. Fred M. Clark; vocal solo, Miss Jennie Martin; reading, Mrs. Pearl Bredeman; vocal quartette; recitation, Miss Grace Elliott; instrumental duet, Miss Florence Longley and O. Niskern, with Miss Mary Hoskins as accompanist; decoration of monument to unknown dead, by forty-five school children, with march played by Miss Balsley; singing of America.

A CURIOUS ACCIDENT.

G. Turner was rescued from a great and sudden danger in the breakers off South Santa Monica Sunday morning. The accident which imperiled his life was of a curious and unusual sort. He and I. R. Sheckels started to row out from shore, and tow a line from the beach so it could be made fast to a buoy. An end of the line was attached to the boat, and they proceeded a distance of 500 feet. A big comber threatened them, and at the critical moment Turner made a faulty pull at the oars. This threw the boat around so it lay parallel with the wave, and threw it so forcibly that Sheckels with his oars pulled vainly in his effort to keep the boat straight. The boat rolled over instantly. Sheckels succeeded in jumping and diving away far enough to get clear. The line they had been towing was wound around the boat as it turned, and Turner was caught between the line and one of the outer sides of the boat. Over and over went the boat, and round and round it was wound the line. One coil held Turner by the neck, another gripped him across the hips, and the third was wrapped firmly across his ankles. He was literally tied to the rolling, rocking, plunging boat, and the breakers were sweeping over it with merciless rapirity. Sheckels, seeing that Turner would be in grave peril by the wave-thrown boat, even when released from the coils of the rope, signaled half frantically to the man in charge of the donkey engine ashore to haul in with all speed. The cable on the drum of the engine was attached to the line running to the boat. The engineer saw the signal and turned the steam on with all force. It took a moment to haul in the slack line, and in that time Sheckels, stealing a lungful of air whenever the breakers would let him, had released Turner from the clinging rope. The boat was quickly hauled away, so Sheckels had only the breakers, Turner and himself to look out for. Turner, at a word of command, with more sense than is usually displayed by drowning persons, ceased clinging to Sheckels, and the latter was relieved of the unpleasant duty of knocking him unconscious in order to save him. Sheckels swam and held to Turner till he at last got him to the beach. Turner was by this time unconscious, but was resuscitated after patient labor by his companions, rolling him on a barrel. Both men escaped without serious injury.

POMONA.

Memorial Day Observed by the Entire Population.

POMONA, May 30.—[Regular Correspondence.] Memorial services were held at the Presbyterian Church on Sunday, the Rev. H. H. Rice delivering an appropriate address from the text, "For the kingdom is the Lord's, and He is the governor among the nations." The music included the singing of "America" by a quartette, composed of Miss Mae Abbott, Miss Lillie Hill, E. J. Hewlett and Thomas Kerr.

The observance of Memorial day opened this morning at 9 o'clock, when the procession formed on State street, the order of march being as follows: Drum Corps, Co. D, Pomona City Cadets, in white uniforms; school children representing the States, and citizens in carriages. The procession was half a mile in length. At the cemetery the services began with the singing of "America," after which prayer was offered by Chaplain C. Greenfield of the Grand Army, the ritualistic services following by Commander C. E. Hdye and Officer of the Day G. W. Farrington of the Grand Army. Adjt. E. Barnes recited Lincoln's Gettysburg speech, and the oration of the day was made by the Rev. C. A. Livingston, who made an eloquent address on the occasion of the services and their meaning to the nation. The forty-five young ladies symbolizing the several States recided a tribute to the dead, and Mrs. C. E. Hyde, in behalf of the Relief Corps, gave their meed of respect to the heroic dead. Then came the tribute of the cadets, the decoration of the graves, and the firing of a salute.

CAMP FIRE.

This afternoon a basket picnic and campfire was held at the Armory, presided over by Mrs. C. E. Hyde, president of the Relief Corps. The programme was as follows: Prayer, by Rev. E. L. Conger; address, George W. Merrill; recitation, Miss Lelia Paine; recitation, "John Burns of Gettysburg," and "The Old Man and Jim." Rev. C. A. Livingston; address by Rev. Mrs. St. John of Kansas. The programme was interspersed with musical selections.

The picnic was one of the most enjoyable features of the day's celebration.

FELL FROM A TREE.

Matthew Mallam fell from a pepper tree in his yard this afternoon and suffered what now appears to be very serious injury. He is 70 years of age, and it is believed he sustained a fracture of the femur. He was in great pain, and is being kept under the influence of opiates.

POMONA BREVITIES.

Rachel Botenfelt, aged 70 years, who died on Saturday at Chino, was buried here on Sunday.

VENTURA COUNTY.

Memorial Day Observed in a Patriotic Manner—Explosion.

VENTURA, May 30.—[Regular Correspondence.] Memorial day was observed in a most proper and patriotic manner in this city today. There was more interest and enthusiasm displayed upon this occasion than has been for several years. All stores and saloons were closed throughout the afternoon, while the programme of the day was being carried out, and many were closed the entire day. A long procession, starting from Odd Fellows' Hall, proceeded to the cemetery, where a monument erected in memory of the heroes of the war of 1861-65, was dedicated, and this ceremony was followed by the decoration of the soldiers' graves. The Sons of Veterans, with their cannon, fired a minute salute while the graves were being decorated. After the ceremonies at the cemetary the following order of exercises were gon through at Armory Hall: Meeting called to order by marshal; invocation by Chaplain, Rev. A. Blanchard; music by choir; reading of Lincoln's address at Gettysburg; original poem by Miss Morgan; music by choir; recitation by Miss Inez Tarr; oration by Hon. Lewis W. Andrews; song, "America," by the audience; benediction by chaplain.

A DISASTROUS EXPLOSION.

An explosion occurred at the works of the California Asphaltum Company, which are located near the Southern Pacific depot, about 9 o'clock on Saturday night. The explosion caused considerable damage, and the making of sulphuric acid will be stopped for several days. The explosion was in the furnace, which is an enormous one, and is divided into numerous compartments. It was in one of these compartments that the burning gas became extinguished, unknown to the chemist in charge. Gas rapidly accumulated, and as a result there was a terrific explosion. It entirely wrecked one end of the furnace and practically destroyed it all. The brick foundation and bed, with the dirt covering, were destroyed and thrown in all directions.

This morning about twive men, including masons and hod carriers, were put to work removing the debris and repairing the damage. Most of the furnace will have to be entirely rebuilt. The company has sufficient sulphuric acid on hand to supply their orders. This accident does not interfere with the manufacture of asphaltum.

The steamer Homer sailed for San Francisco yesterday, with 407 boxes of oranges, forty-three boxes of lemons, and ten packages of miscellaneous freight.

Trouble in the Balkans.

LONDON, May 31.—The Vienna correspondent of the Times confirms the alarming report telegraphed yesterday by the Vienna correspondent of the Daily Telegraph with reference to complications in the Balkans.

SAN DIEGO COUNTY.

ELABORATE MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES.

Parade Followed by a Patriotic Programme at the Operahouse—Recruiting Co. B—Sappers and Miners Organizing — Coronado Notes.

SAN DIEGO, May 30.—[Regular Correspondence.] The practical lessons in patriotism given by the boys who have gone to the front have awakened anew the gratitude of the people for the boys who laid down their lives in former wars. This accounted for the extra large crowds yesterday and today at the memorial exercises, and for the enormous quantity of flowers gathered and distributed over the graves of the old soldiers.

Yesterday religious services were held at the Central Methodist Church, attended by the members of Datus E. Coon Post, G.A.R., and the Women's Relief Corps. The pastor, Rev. E. A. Healy, spoke on the text, "Righteousness Exalteth a Nation." His address was full of patriotic fervor, applicable alike to present days and in memory of the boys who have gone before. So eloquent were his remarks that the old soldiers broke into applause.

TODAY'S EXERCISES.

Early this morning the streets were crowded, awaiting the formation of the parade and the opening of Fisher's Operahouse, where the literary exercises were held. Grand Marshal T. B. Hartzell had arranged everything in the best of order, so that there was no hitch in the procession, long though it was. The parade formed at 9 a.m., as appointed, on Sixth street, right resting on E, and marched down to H, thence to Fifth and up Fifth to E, crossing over to Fourth, and thence to the operahouse. The order of parade was as follows:

Platoon of mounted police.
Grand Marshal T. B. Hartzell, D. F. Jones, chief of staff; aids, Capt. Charles de Rudio, U.S.A.; Col. A. G. Gassen, Capt. George H. Bower, N.G.C.; J. C. Hizar, K. of P.; T. J. Dowell, N.S.G.W.; Comrades F. W. Bradley, John B. Strawbridge, H. P. Starr, J. H. Grovesteen, R. H. Sheldon, Joseph Van Castel.
City Guard Band.
Third Division, Naval Battalion, N.G.C., Lieut. L. A. Chandler commanding.
Chevalier Division, No. 6, U.R.K. of P., Capt. J. M. Van Zandt commanding.
Canton San Diego, I.O.O.F., J. G. McWilliams commanding.
Boys' Brigade, Capt. Carl Nichols commanding.
Veteran Drum Corps.
Co. B, N.G.C., Lieut. Ed F. Brown commanding.
Battalion Minute Men, Lieut.-Col. D. Gochenauer commanding.
Heintzelman Post, G.A.R., M. T. Gilmore commanding.
Datus E. Coon Post, G.A.R., D. L. Murdock commanding.
Disabled comrades in carriages.
Citizens in carriages.

At the operahouse the people in the procession found only enough seats to accommodate them. The rest of the house was packed to suffocation with men, women and children, all in holiday attire, and with American flags conspicuously displayed, yet with a reverence for the day and its meaning. The programme was long, but very good, and the audience sat through it all.

Judge J. Wade McDonald's oration was pronounced a masterly effort, even for that accomplished and eloquent orator. He dwelt upon present themes, as well as those of the past, and his pictures of the boys in blue now at the front, following in the footsteps of the gallent old boys who sleep in the quiet grave, drew tears to every eye.

Another remarkably good feature of the programme was the rendition of a new American hymn, composed by Col. E. T. Blackmer, and sung by a chorus, assisted by the orchestra. Its stirring lines and dashing music bid fair to become known all over the nation. The programme in full was as follows:

War march (Aida)—Orchestra.
"Hail to the Nations"—Orchestra and chorus.
Grand Army services—Datus E. Coon Post.
Prayer—Rev. P. E. Kipp.
"Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean"—Mrs. Leah Earle, orchestra and chorus.
"Lincoln's Address"—D. C. Collier, Jr.
"American Hymn," composed by Comrade E. T. Blackmer—Chorus and orchestra.
"Custer's Last Charge"—Ross Carpenter.
"Hail Columbia" and "Star Spangled Banner"—Misses Annie Oesting and Vyne Bowers.
Oration—Comrade J. Wade McDonald.
"America"—Chorus, audience and orchestra.
Benediction—Rev. A. E. Knapp.

This afternoon visits were made to Mt. Hope and the Catholic cemeteries, where loads and loads of flowers made gay the last resting-place of many a hero. The Woman's Relief Corps of the two posts did the bulk of the work in this regard, fittingly carrying out the natural law that fair women should honor brave men. Among the special designs were a Grand Army and W.R.C. badge all in flowers, of heroic size. Another design that attracted attention was a pillow of pure white roses, with the single word "Maine" inscribed upon it. An anchor and a right accompanied this piece.

These larger pieces were taken first to the operahouse, and later were placed in the G.A.R. circle in the cemetery, in honor of the unknown dead. Not a grave of those old soldiers who were known was permitted to go undecorated with the choicest flowers of this flowery land. After the women and children, accompanied by the remaining grizzled veterans, had passed through the graveyards, the grounds seemed to have burst into life and blossom. Instead of a barren spot, it seemed the garden of the entire landscape.

MORE MEN EXAMINED.

Yesterday morning the new members of Co. B assembled at the Armory to learn the particulars of a call for nineteen additional men to swell the old Co. B, now at Camp Richmond, to 103 men, as required by the new orders. Quite a number of the boys who gathered yesterday were intensely desirous of going to the front, and had been disappointed when the company left. Lieut. Ed F. Browne announced that these men, who had been of necessity dropped from the rolls, would have the preference in now being examined for active service.

Dr. D. Gochenauer was appointed examining surgeon. Before him appeared twenty-one young men, from whom several will be rejected. The examination was as strict as that made at the Presidio. It is expected that the required nineteen men will be ready to leave for San Francisco tomorrow.

SAPPERS AND MINERS.

A well-known civil engineer here is taking steps to organize, if possible, a strong company of sappers and miners, to be placed at the disposal of the government. All kinds of artisans and skilled labor suited for war duty will be included, if possible—especially telegraph operators and electricians, linemen, road-builders, carpenters, harness-makers, shoemakers, civil and mechanical engineers, mechanics of all kinds, printers, clerks, etc. The object is to have the company attached to an army corps, for any kind of duty that comes up, where skill is required, and to furnish men for special work at headquarters, in offices, etc.

SAN DIEGO BREVITIES.

The reception given by San Diego Commandery, No. 25, K.T., and San Diego Chapter, No. 61, R.A.M., to Eminent Grand Commander R. M. Powers and Most Excellent Grand High Priest E. T. Blackmer, both of San Diego, was one of the most enjoyable Masonic functions ever given in the city. Both the guests of honor are members of San Diego Lodge, No. 25, and the Masons of that lodge were out in force to welcome their distinguished brethren. A banquet was enjoyed, and numerous toasts responded to by good speakers. One interesting fact was brought out by Postmaster Luce, which was that the hero of Manila is a Mason, and that a large proportion of the generals and naval commanders now guiding the destinies of their country are members of the same venerable order.

Rev. H. B. Restarick delivered an able sermon last evening on Gladstone. The British California Association was present in a body. Resolutions of sympathy were drawn up and signed, and forwarded to Mrs. Gladstone.

The Union this morning announces that the Mexican sulphur syndicate operating on the desert is negotiating for a concession for a railroad from Yuma to San Diego, with a branch to the sulphur mines.

Back-country ranchers are preparing to ship their hay to Los Angeles by way of Escondido, instead of San Diego. They claim prices are better.

William Bludworth has arranged to lease lands of the city, between Cordero and La Jolla, upon which to prospect for coal and oil.

The trial of Dan Cavanaugh, for criminal assault, will begin in Department One of the Superior Court tomorrow.

CORONADO BEACH.

HOTEL DEL CORONADO, May 30.—[Regular Correspondence.] Miss Mary Luce of San Diego is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Greenall at the hotel for a few days.

W. J. Pollard of Los Angeles is registered here.

W. H. Edgar of Chicago is among the guests here.

George E. Talcott of Los Angeles is numbered among recent arrivals.

H. C. Davidson, a prominent New Yorker, is here for a brief sojourn.

L. B. Curtis and wife, Miss Lillian Curtis and H. M. Curtis of Boston, have come to Coronado to pass part of the season.

A. B. Rich of Los Angeles is again at the hotel.

John M. Eastwood of Hamilton, Can., is here to spend part of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McIntyre of Riverside arrived yesterday to enjoy a few days' stay here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Higgins of Chicago are noted among the eastern people here.

C. H. Blanchard and wife of Tintic, Utah, are enjoying a stay by the seaside.

Mrs. E. G. Hubbard of San Antonio, Tex., arrived by steamer last evening and will spend some time here.

Adolph Roos caught seventy-five yellowfin yesterday morning. Capt. Dunne caught thirty-five barracuda and twenty bass.

ORANGE COUNTY.

Co. L to Be Recruited—Troop E Muster Roll is Full.

SANTA ANA, May 30.—[Regular Correspondence.] Memorial day was observed in Santa Ana as never before. The exercises at the silent city of the dead this morning were attended by the largest crowd ever seen there and numbered fully 2000 people. At the entrance to the cemetery the procession formed, headed by the Santa Ana Drum Corps. In line was Sedgwick Post, G.A.R., of Santa Ana, Gorden Granger Post of Orange, the ladies of the G.A.R. and W.R.C. of Santa Ana.

A firing squad from Co. L, in command of Sergt. Thompson, fired a salute of three shots over the soldiers' monument, another over the grave of Lieut. Donaldson, U.S.A., who was drowned at Newport several years ago, and three more volleys over the grave of Private Lincoln Axelson of Co. L.

The decoration of graves at the cemetery was most lavish, and the whole place was a mass of cut flowers and floral pieces.

The services were concluded at Santa Ana this afternoon when another impressive scene was witnessed. After the different organizations which were to form the parade had marched to East Fourth street and taken their places in front of G.A.R. Hall, a floral design, the American flag in roses, violet sand geraniums, was dedicated by Mrs. Henry Yount of Tustin to the gallant members of the Maine crew, who fell victims to Spanish treachery. Then, while the members of the G.A.R. and citizens stood with uncovered heads, three solemn volleys were fired over it by a squad from Co. L.

The procession counter-marched on Fourth street to the Grand Operahouse, where the memorial address was delivered by the Hon. E. T. Langley, and Prof. Packard's choir rendered a musical programme. In the procession was Gorden Granger Post, G.A.R., of Orange, Sedgwick Post, Ladies of the G.A.R. and W.R.C., of Santa Ana, Santa Ana Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, the High School, and A. cadet companies in command of Dr. Gregory of the Santa Ana schools.

This was the first appearance of the latter companies on the street, and they made a fine appearance.

CO. L TO BE RECRUITED.

It was reported here today by a member of Co. L, N.G.C., that the company which is now with the Seventh Regiment, California Volunteers, at Camp Richmond, would be recruited to 103 members. The present formation is eighty-four men, but the new army rules and regulations call for the larger number. Should Capt. Finley receive orders to fill his company to 103 men, he will have the nineteen extra men sent up from Orange county, if possible, and the call is likely to be made at any time.

TROOP E MUSTER-ROLL FULL.

Troop E, which is to be one of the companies of the First Regiment, California Volunteers, now organizing under Col. Johnstone Jones, of Los Angeles, has been recruited to its full membership. The muster-roll will probably be sent in to the colonel in a day or so, and the commissioned officers elected. Maj. C. S. McKelvey is the recruiting officer, and a meeting will be held in Co. L's Armory this evening, when the men which are to form the company will be lined up for the first time. The troop was organized some time ago by Capt. H. Matthews, but when he went away it disbanded.

ORANGE COUNTY BREVITIES.

Dr. H. W. Head, who suffered from a slight stroke of paralysis the first of last week, has about recovered and is able to be about again.

Considerable complaint is made of the dust in the streets. In some places it is several inches thick.

RIVERSIDE COUNTY.

The Day Observed With Parade, Patriotism and a Campfire.

RIVERSIDE, May 30. — [Regular Correspondence.] The people of Riverside were active early today, and the city bubbled over with patriotism from dawn until sunset. In the business center the national colors were displayed on every hand. Flags floated above the hotels, public buildings and scores of business blocks, while flags in miniature appeared everywhere, and there was bunting galore.

Shortly after 9 o'clock, the hour named for the procession to move, the line of march was taken up, from the intersection of Main and Seventh streets. The police force, mounted, consisting of Marshal Wilson and Officers Polcene, Seburn and Baird, led the way, followed by the marshal of the day, F. M. Heath, and his aids, J. N. Keith, Charles E. Waite, J. S. Bordwell, Fred Dinsmore, D. N. Noland and Harry Stewart; also mounted. The Riverside Concert Band was next in line, and preceded the boys of Co. M, N.G.C., under command of Sergt E. P. Roe. Then came the Riverside Cadets, spick and span in white duck trousers, and captained by A. Bundy. Following came the Uniform Rank, K. of P., under command of Maj. Alkire. Hive No. 5, Knights of the Maccabees, and the Ladies of the Maccabees, the latter in carriages and carrying flowers in profusion, followed, after which marched the members of Magnolia Camp, No. 92, Woodmen of the World, led by W. Daniels and J. J. Schnitker. The Indian Band from the Perris school marched in front of an imposing turnout from the High and lower-grade schools, the girls wore white dresses, and carried red, white and blue parasols. The G.A.R. veterans brought up the rear of the procession, Capt. Rice and the firing squad leading, and the post proper followed, in command of Comrade Dexter.

In several tally-hos and carriages were seated the members of the Woman's Relief Corps and other patriotic organizations of women, all carrying flowers, with which to decorate the graves.

The usual ritualistic ceremonies were observed at the cemetery, and the anchor, previously erected in memory of those who had served in the United States Navy, was dedicated appropriately to the sailors who went down in the Maine.

The procession reached town about 11:30 o'clock, and exercises were immediately begun at the operahouse. The stage was lavishly decorated with flags and flowers, and the auditorium and gallery were crowded to their utmost capacity. William Irving presided, and the oration of the day was delivered by Rev. J. W. Hanson, D.D., of Pasadena. A feature of the exercises was the music rendered by the Rubidoux Club double quartette.

In the afternoon a rousing campfire was held. H. C. Hibbard presided. Comrade Button, chaplain of Logan's old regiment, spoke; Judge Crowe discussed "Confederate Brigadiers in the Saddle," and addresses were made by Judge Potter, Rev. Mr. Cutts, Mrs. Sarah Davis and others. The Indian Band furnished music.

Alleged Chinese Smugglers Arrested

SAN DIEGO, May 30.—Will Gerull, well known as a skipper of vessels of the guano fleet, was arrested this evening on a charge of smuggling Chinese into the United States. Francisco Reyes, who is accused of a like offense, was also taken into custody at the same time. Chinese Inspector Putnam of Los Angeles has been anxious to obtain the arrest of these men for the past two months.

SAN BERNARDINO COUNTY

MEMORIAL DAY IS OBSERVED WITH PATRIOTIC DISPLAY.

All Who Have Enlisted in Troop H Volunteer Cavalry are Notified to Report for Examination—Co. K Being Recruited to Full War Strength.

SAN BERNARDINO, May 30. — [Regular Correspondence.] The county and city offices and most of the stores and business houses were closed today in honor of Memorial day. The business center of town was profusely decorated with flags and bunting, and many of the private residences along the line of march to the cemetery were adorned with flags and other patriotic emblems.

Hundreds of people from adjoining towns and the country districts had arrived in the city by noon, and at 2:30 o'clock, when the line of march was taken up for the cemetery, Third street was crowded with an interested throng of residents and visitors.

The procession formed at the corner of Third and F streets, and marched in the following order: City Marshal Reeves, platoon of police and aides, all mounted; the City Cadets, wearing their handsome new uniforms; the Cadet Band, followed by the recent recruits in Co. K, United States Volunteers. Then came the veterans of the local G.A.R. post, the right-of-line being given to the Confederate veterans of the civil war. The members of the San Bernardino fire department were next in line, and presented a fine appearance. A hundred or more members of the High School and of the lower-grade schools of the city followed, each scholar carrying a wreath or bouquet of flowers. The local hive of the Knights of the Maccabees followed, and the rear of the procession consisted of a long line of vehicles, filled for the most part with members of the Woman's Relief Corps, Ladies of the Maccabees and other patriotic organizations, all carrying flowers with which to decorate the graves.

The usual ritualistic ceremonies were gone through in an impressive manner at the cemetery, and after all the graves of the departed heroes of the rebellion had been decorated, the line of march was taken up to the city, ranks were broken, and the ceremonies of the day were over.

SAN BERNARDINO BREVITIES.

Coroner Keating left on the noon overland today to hold an inquest over the remains of a man, which were discovered on the track, a short distance out of Cottonwood Station, on the Southern California road, by the early morning east-bound freight today. The body, it is said, was literally cut to pieces, and from papers on the man's person it is thought that his name is James Duncan. Cottonwood is about twelve miles from Barstow, and the inquest will be held at the latter place.

Lieut. Schlott opened a recruiting station at the Armory this morning, in response to orders from Capt. Sloat, stating that Co. K, United States Volunteers, must be recruited from eighty-five to 109 strong. Nearly the required number had signed the muster roll before evening.

Capt. T. J. Wilson of Troop H, First Regiment, Southern California Volunteer Cavalry, has notified all those who have enlisted to assemble at Masonic Hall next Sunday afternoon to undergo a medical examination by the regimental surgeon.

Nathan H. Johnson, aged 30 years, died this morning of spinal fever, at his home on G street, north of the Catholic Cemetery. He was a member of the local lodge of Odd Fellows, and was formerly a volunteer fireman.

REDLANDS.

Patriotic Exercises and the Decoration of the Graves.

REDLANDS, May 30.—[Regular Correspondence.] Today all business was suspended in Redlands and the day was fittingly observed. The general memorial exercises were held on the Kingsbury school grounds, beginning at 9 o'clock. They opened with the "Red, White and Blue" sung by the school children. This was followed by prayer by Rev. E. J. Harper. The school children sang, "That Ocean-Guarded Flag," and gave the flag salute. Four members of the Woman's Relief Corps, representing North, South, East and West, united about the fresh mound, while the children covered it with flowers. Rev. Ira G. Sprague of the City Trustees gave the patriotic address, and the audience united with the school children in singing "America." The exercises closed here with the gathering of the large quantity of flowers from the mound and taking them to the cemetery, where the usual exercises of decorating the soldiers' graves took place. This afternoon Rev. William Pittinger delivered his oration, "Capturing a Locomotive in Georgia."

ANAHEIM.

ANAHEIM, May 30.—[Regular Correspondence.] A load of hay driven by Albert Bittner, turned over this morning, throwing Bittner to the ground. His right leg was broken in two places. The team ran away, but was stopped in collision with a fence.

Malvern Hill Post, assisted by 300 school children from the Anaheim and Fullerton districts, decorated graves and held fitting services at the cemetery this afteroon.

A meeting of citizens will be held tonight to consider the matter of building a high school in conjuction with Fullerton, and locating the building half-way between the towns.

Several young men of this city have written to Col. Berry at San Francisco asking for information concerning the opportunity said to offer for enlistment in the South. There is a great deal of patriotism here, and no trouble about securing enlistments. One of the best evidences of the patriotism extant is the presence of flags on every business house and the majority of residences in the town. They have been there night and day since the declaration of war, and will remain.

EASY ROAD TO THE KLONDIKE.

Chilkoot Pass Robbed of Its Terrors by Man's Inventions.

I. R. Birt, a former resident of Los Angeles, en route to the Yukon gold fields, in a letter to The Times, dated Lake Lindeman, May 15, contrasts the facilities for getting over the Chilcoot Pass now with those of a year ago. According to Mr. Birt's statements, a trip to the Klondike is no longer perilous and the journey can be accomplished with ease and speed, and at light expense, compared with last summer. Mr. Birt says in part:

"Few prospective Klondikers are aware that they can reach Dyea, at 7 o'clock in the morning, and by an easy day's march, reach Lake Lindeman, the headwaters of the golden Yukon River, at 6 o'clock in the evening. The distance from Dyea to the lake is only twenty-five miles, the first eight over a smooth and level wagon road, from Dyea to Cañon City; the next three miles over a smooth trail, through a rugged cañon, to Sheep Camp; three miles more over a good trail lands you at the Scales, ready for a climb of 1200 feet up the golden stairs to the summit of Chilkoot Pass.

"At present there are five tramways hoisting goods to the summit, the Chilkoot Rail and Tramway Company, from Cañon City seven and one-half miles in length; the Oregon Improvement Company, 6000 feet; the Dyea Klondike Company, 3200 feet; the gasoline sled line, 1500 feet, and the Burns Steam Tram, which extends from the Scales to the British boundary.

"At Lindeman, one finds a quiet little village of about five hundred permanent inhabitants, with a floating population of from 3000 to 6000. The Kerry Canadian Milling Company of Seattle has erected here a sawmill, with a capacity of from 2000 to 5000 feet per day. This lumber is sold so cheaply that a miner cannot afford to whipsaw his lumber. The milling company also constructs boats and carries a heavy stock of articles needed in the Klondike country.

"A man can now leave the States with only his grip, reach Lake Lindeman in five days from Seattle, purchase his boat and entire outfit here, step aboard the company's Lake Lindeman steamer in the morning, which will convey him to the foot of the lake, where a short and rapid transfer to the Lake Bennett steamer is made, which will land him at the foot of Marsh Lake the same day, or one-third of the distance from tidewater to Dawson City in six days. From there it is an easy matter to reach the Klondike in from five to six more days. Thus it will be seen that a party properly equipped can reach the gold fields from the Sound country in from eleven to twelve days, without great hardships.

"The Bell River, which connects Lindeman with Bennett, and over which it has been necessary to portage heretofore, has now been blasted out so that a craft 12 feet wide, 60 feet long and drawing 18 inches of water can pass through in perfect safety, thus insuring a continuous all-water route from the head of Lake Lindeman to Dawson City. At White Horse Rapids, Col. J. C. McCalley of Juneau has constructed a tramway, which will pick up a boat weighing four tons and transfer it from the danger point to quiet water in fifteen minutes.

"To those contemplating a trip to the Klondike, I would say, bring plenty of California dried fruit, for here on the trail dried peaches, apricots or prunes taste better to me than ripe strawberries with sugar and cream did in Los Angeles, and besides, these fruits are a positive necessity in this country, as a health preservative. The Klondike country is destined to take a large share of California's surplus dried fruits.

"There are quite a number from Los Angeles camped here at present, waiting for the ice to go out. Among them I noticed Dr. Clark of No. 502 Temple street, young Newman of the Columbia Clothing Store, Third and Main, Snyder and Gray of Pico Heights, and a score of others. Occasionally a bundle of The Times reaches the trail, and it is then that you see the Los Angeles contingent come out of their holes.

"It is believed here that the ice will go out about the 25th inst., as everything points to an early spring, and then the grand rush of the period will occur. Hundreds, yes thousands of boats will be launched in a very brief space of time, and the race which will prove disastrous to some and remunerative to others, will be on."

TEST YOUR NERVE.

EVERY YOUNG OR MIDDLE-AGED man who fairly thinks himself to be in a neurotic condition should make the true nerve test. This is done by concentrating the mind on a given object for an ordinary length of time. If you find gloomy, melancholy thoughts stealing over you, it is treatment you need and the kind of treatment that will restore you to vigorous strength. Weakness comes upon men in a variety of ways. Most frequently weakness comes on a man through his early errors. If these errors are stopped in time and he young man pays good attention to the laws of health no bad effects result; but if these vicious habits are continued and other bad habits contracted the individual comes to the point where he must get medical aid or become an exhausted, burnt-out old man. Premature decay is the sad condition of many men today. Now you know the reason or the cause; what will you do? Your own sense suggests proper medical attention. Where to get it? From a place where others have received like attention. Where is that place? Answer, the Hudson Medical Institute. This Institution is celebrated for its Hudyan treatment. If you get the Hudyan treatment you get well. Hudyan cures Spermatorrhoea and Nervous Debility. Write for free circulars.

DWELLING BURNED.

Mrs. Grenitz's Cottage Completely Destroyed Last Night.

Fire resulting from the explosion of a gasoline stove completely destroyed the home of Mrs. H. E. Grenitz, No. 657 East Twenty-ninth street, last night about 9 o'clock. She was preparing supper for herself and young daughter, who alone occupied the house, when the explosion occurred. The loss, about $600 to $800, is covered by insurance.

When the firemen arrived, the dwelling, a one-story frame cottage, was already almost entirely destroyed by the leaping flames that readily licked up the combustible bedding, furniture and wooden walls. There remained nought for the firemen to do, but save the adjoining building, tenanted by Mrs. Elizabeth Phillips and children, and this they succeeded in doing.

There is nothing of the Grenitz home left standing but a few supporting posts, which alone succeeded in withstanding the heat of the fire.

THE RIDE LURED HIM.

A San Bernardino Colored Boy Lost Here.

Lee Parker, an eight-year-old colored boy found wandering without apparent destination at Third and Spring streets last night, was taken to the Police Station for the night. The lad says that he is from San Bernardino, and that yesterday morning an engineer by the name of Collins invited him to take a ride to Los Angeles, promising to bring him back to his home town on the return trip. When they alighted in this city, the little vagrant says, he accompanied the engineer to a saloon at the latter's request, but there lost trace of him. He does not remember what road he traveled on.

Eleventh Irvington Road Race.

NEW YORK, May 30.—The eleventh annual Irvington-Milburn road race at Irvington, N. J., took place today. The crowd at the starting point numbered quite 30,000. Of the 132 entries made by Handicapper Prial, only five were placed on the scratch, the rest having an advantage of from fifteen seconds to seven minutes. The winner was J. M. McCarthy, Jr., S. B. Baldwin second, L. H. Wilbing third; time 1:16:40. R. A. Alexander of Hartford, Ct., won the time prize.

THE WAR CORRESPONDENT.

When you read the news of victory,
Of battles fought and won,
How the army of invasion
Made the hated Spanish run,
Did you ever pause a moment,
While the dons receive their dues,
And sort of take a tumble
To the boys who write the news?

Perhaps you think it easy
Amid the the cannons' roar,
To rattle off good copy,
While your paper cries for more.
Let me tell you, gentle reader,
War reporting is no joke,
For your soul may quickly mingle
With the raging battle's smoke.

While pen is flying swiftly
Tide of conflict to record,
Some swirling Spanish bullet
May pass you o'er death's ford.
Oh, it's well enough to laugh
At "Written on the spot,"
But while your mirth holds carnival
That very man is shot.

In the rear you'll never find him,
Where clash of arms sounds faint,
He'll not let lips of others
His own word-pictures paint.
He's in the thick of battle,
He's where the strife runs red;
He's grinding out a story
In that flying sleet of lead.

He loves to write of others,
In whose valor he delights;
He oftimes makes them famous
'Twixt darkness and daylight.
He longs to spread in detail
On the flaming scroll of fame
The way that they won glory—
But he never tells his name.

He dies to serve his paper,
His life's the price of news;
There's none to sing his praises,
And few can fill his shoes.

The Playhouses

ORPHEUM. An overflowing house and a good bill made the evening at this ever-popular theater last night, one of wholesome diversion and enjoyment. There is variety in the programme and not a stupid number on the list. Mr. Ransome, who makes up this week as the famous politician, Mark Hanna, scored a great big hit with his timely topical songs, his witty stories and his breezy style. It is clearly evident from the up-to-dateness of his songs that this performer has the constructive faculty as well as the faculty of presentation, and hence he is doubly attractive as a vaudeville feature.

Another excellent specialy is given this week by a pair of newcomers, Charles J. Jerome and Clara Bell, whose repartee is of laugh-compelling sort and made up of not only "a raft of good things," as the bill has it, but a raft of new things.

Gruet, Beers and Gruet are a lively trio of acrobats; Hayes and Bandy repeat their charming dancing bout, and Lizzie B. Raymond is on deck with a new collection of rattling good songs, sung in her famously fetching style. The Sa-Vans do a most unique turn, comprising eccentric dancing, comedy, acrobatic and knockabout business, that is genuinely funny. Bogart and O'Brien offer a musical specialty, playing numerous quaint instruments with ability, and cheapening the music by a mixture of tiresome comedy.

Isabelle Urquhart and her little company offer a little skit called "A Strange Baby," which is bright as a conceit and presented with much cleverness. Such features as these little plays offered by Miss Urquhart demonstrate their right to a place on the vaudeville stage.

The same bill all the week.

THE BURBANK. A full house greeted the presentation last night at the Burbank of the familiar farcical comedy, "Jane," which was given very creditably by the Belasco-Thall company, with Miss Tittell in the title role. A new leading man, Mr. Toland, made his first appearance last night in "A Man of the World," a charming little dramatic sketch, which preceded the comedy. It is essentially a one-man as well as a one-act piece, and Mr. Toland is emphatically the man. The plot is very slight, merely an incipient love affair between a well-meaning youth and a neglected young wife, nipped in the bud by the wise diplomacy of an experienced man of the world, who knows something of the dangers of "platonic friendship" between married women and good-looking young "detrimentals." The action of the piece is almost nothing; it is hardly more than a monologue, and yet it never drags for an instant. It is Mr. Toland's piece, and he fully deserved the warm welcome that was given him. He appeared again as Charles Shackleton in "Jane," but his work in this comedy part, although spirited enough and amusing, was not to be compared to his Capt. Bradley in the preceding sketch. Miss Tittell overacted a trifle in some parts of the farcical role of Jane, but, taken as a whole, it was very good. Jane can hardly have too much ginger, and too little would make the whole piece a dismal failure. Of course, Mr. Osborne took the part of the much-deceived old gentleman, Mr. Kershaw, and, of course, he made it irresistibly funny. The character of the mournful and bewildered William, Jane's real husband, was excellently taken by George Osbourne, Jr., who has just come to Los Angeles, and who achieved popularity at once. Mr. Bacon, as Claude, the bell boy, is also very good. Miss Howe makes things lively, as usual, in the role of Mrs. Chadwick, the kittenish widow, and Miss Tidball is charmingly pretty as Lucy Norton. The baby's name does not appear, which is a pity, for the baby's acting was beyond criticism. "Jane," without a baby, would have a gap in it more lonesome than that attributed to the mythical rendition of "Hamlet" with Hamlet left out, and this particular baby covered itself with glory. It nobly refused to howl even under the trying circumstances, and remains in the memory of the appreciative audience as a chubby shunk of cheerfulness delicious to contemplate. The same bill continues all the week.

DENVER, May 30.—The annual twenty-five-mile Memorial day road race over the Brighton course took place this afternoon. James Peterson of Swansea (handicap, 5m. 30s.) finished first; Percy Heartz, Ramblers (5m. 20s.,) second; E. P. Dreaske, Denver Wheel Club (6m.,) third. Peterson's time was 1:10:52. E. W.
